Local Airport Authority Seeks Commercial Airline Service

THE MOUNT Pocono Airport Authority will present a request for commercial airline service at the area airport before a region Cicil Aeronautics Board hearing at Albany, N. Y., on Nov. 1.

The authority will also be represented at a hearing and review scheduled to start in Washington, D. C., on Nov. 16, at which other cities will also present arguments in favor of more air service for northeastern states.

The requests are being supported by the State Aeronautics Commission. A spokesman said yesterday at Harrisburg that his agency stands behind "bigger and better air service for every Pennsylvania city willing to fight for it."

The local authority has been authorized by the CAB to present its position, according to R. LeRoy Dengler, chairman.

Dengler also said bids will be opened at the airport next Monday at 1:30 p.m. on a runway extension project previously authorized by the authority.

Completion of the runway program is expected to qualify the airport for commercial airline service—both north-south and east-west, Dengler said.

John French, research assistant for the state commission, said the state delegation will have the best interest of Pennsylvania in mind but "is not necessarily supporting any faction."

He described the "main issue" in the hearings as CAB-proposed changes discontinuing trunk-line service in some cities to put in local or "feeder" lines.

Trunk lines serving Pennsylvania are American Airlines, Eastern Airlines, Trans-World Airlines and Capital Airlines.

The local or feeder airlines that would in some instances replace the trunk lines in Pennsylvania are Allegheny Airlines and Mohawk Airlines.

The latter has some service in Pennsylvania at present. The former has an extensive network over the state and is expanding it.

Dengler said the group plans to present exhibits indicating that both from a resort and industrial viewpoint, increased airline service here is desirable.

"The need for scheduled air transportation service directly to the Pocono Mountains region of Pennsylvania seems to be a matter of both convenience and necessity," Dengler and the authority wrote the CAB.

"Existing here is an already established market consisting of some 350,000 annual travellers to the region, who are now without convenient air transportation service.

"It is also apparent that the important Pocono Mountains resort industry is now placed in a most disadvantageous position in relation to other recreation areas offering the convenience of rapid air travel . . .

"Air passenger, mail and freight transportation is certainly and urgently needed by the growing industrial and business interests of the Pocono Mountains . . . It is suggested that an east and west carrier from Chicago and intervening cities to Newark and New York and a north and south carrier from Richmond and intervening cities to Montreal would presently adequately service the Pocono area. We suggest Allegheny and Mohawk respectively," the report adds.

Ike, Macmillan Confer On Joint Policy Moves

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23 (AP)—President Eisenhower and Prime Minister Macmillan met for 3½ hours tonight as they opened a three-day strategy conference on new moves to check Russia's scientific-diplomatic offensive.

The two Western leaders met behind closed doors at the White House from 6 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. with only their foreign policy chiefs on hand to assist them in their sweeping review.

The White House declined even to name the topics discussed at the initial meeting, which began in the President's oval study and then shifted to the dinner table.

Macmillan's limousine sped out the south entrance of the White House grounds afterward with no word from him about the progress of talks.

Eisenhower walked out on the steps of the north partico to greet Macmillan personally when he arrived at the White House for the start of the conference.

"Hi!" said Eisenhower, hand outstretched, "good to see you. How are you?"

Dulles, Lloyd There

Secretary of State Dulles and Britain's Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd were also on hand to join their chiefs. All four posed smiling for photographers, newsreel and television cameramen before entering the White House for an initial one-hour meeting in Eisenhower's study on the second flood.

Then all four men, without additional advisers, sat down to a dinner in the White House's small first floor family dining room to continue their conversations.

James C. Hagerty, the President's press secretary, said there would be no statement issued after the evening talks.

A similar meeting at the White House was slated for tomorrow morning at 10:30, to be followed by another informal evening meal. More advisers are scheduled to sit in on tomorrow's sessions.

Macmillan came to the conference after a 2½-hour preliminary talk with Dulles at the British Embassy. He flew in from London this morning.

The State Department reported the Dulles - Macmillan meeting covered "an appraisal of the political and military considerations" involved in the free world's cold war struggle against Russia.

Advance indications were that Eisenhower and Macmillan would focus their major attention on a plan to restore, at least partly, the British-American wartime scientific partnership which resulted in the world's first atomic bomb.

Brownell Resigns Post; President To Name Rogers

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23 (AP)—Herbert Brownell Jr., resigned today as U. S. attorney general. He said the settling of federal policy in the Little Rock school integration dispute freed him to return to private law practice.

The White House said President Eisenhower accepted the resignation and will appoint Dep. Atty. Gen. William P. Rogers Jr. to the Cabinet post. Rogers is a close friend of Vice President Nixon.

Brownell is the sixth member of Eisenhower's original Cabinet to resign.

Two Weews

Just when he will relinquish his office was not announced. However, Brownell suggested in a letter to Eisenhower that he would be ready to step out in two weeks.

The White House said Brownell will rejoin the New York City law firm of Lord, Day & Lord, which he left to enter the Cabinet. It said he would act as an adviser to the firm for two years, instead of as a partner, because of the conflict of interest law barring former federal officials from handling government cases. Brownell will deal only with nongovernmental matters, the White House said.

Brownell held an informal news conference shortly after his resignation was announced and disclaimed any ambition for further public office.

He was asked if he might be a Republican candidate for governor of New York next year. Brownell replied with an emphatic "No."

Private Life

He gave the same answer when asked if he had "any political plans."

Asked if he might accept a presidential nomination by his party in 1960, Brownell asserted: "I stand on the statement I made in August when I said I am not a candidate for the governorship of New York and I am not in a position to accept any nomination.

"It is my intention to stay in private life."

Eisenhower named Brownell to his Cabinet after the New Yorker managed his 1952 presidential campaign.

As boss of the Justice Department and Eisenhower's chief legal adviser, Brownell has been attacked by Southern members of Congress because of his role in the Little Rock crisis and in developing the new civil rights law.

Judge Rules Vote Rigged For Hoffa

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23 (AP)—Federal District Judge F. Dickinson Letts ruled today that Teamsters Union bosses conspired to rig the recent convention which elected James R. Hoffa president of the union.

Letts issued a preliminary injunction continuing a ban on Hoffa and the other newly-elected union officers from taking office until there is a trial of the case on its merits.

The 82-year-old judge set Monday as the deadline for pre-trial motions and said he will fix the actual trial date as soon as possible thereafter.

In his order, Letts refused to put the giant union in the hands of court-appointed receivers and tie up its funds. This had been sought by the 13-man New York Teamsters group which took the case against Hoffa's election to court.

Plans Appeal

Martin O'Donoghue, the Teamsters attorney, bitterly protested the judge's findings. He said he would appeal to the U.S. Court of Appeals tomorrow.

Judge Letts, O'Donoghue said, has practically branded as illegal the entire union convention and everything it did—without hearing proof.

Even more trouble seemed in store for the Teamsters tomorrow, when the AFL-CIO Executive Council meets to follow up its threat to suspend the 1½-million-member union on corruption charges. The Teamsters is the biggest union in the 15-million-man AFL-CIO.

Hired To Test Personalities

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23 (AP)—A Whirlpool Co. official testified today Nathan Shefferman's firm of labor consultants was hired to test the personalities of Whirlpool employes — not to combat organizing by the United Auto Workers.

Theodore Hufert, industrial relations director at Whirlpool's Marion, Ohio, division, said Shefferman's organization was paid more than $28,000 to conduct "human equation tests" and for interviewing job applicants.

Hufert flatly denied to the Senate Labor Rackets Investigating Committee that he ever talked with Shefferman about keeping the UAW from organizing the Marion plant.

Dietary Change Seen In Future

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23 (AP) — The dietary habits of future Pennsylvania generations may be changed by the present engulfment of food-producing lands by large residential areas, shopping centers and industrial installations.

The Soil Conservation Service SCS said that unless preventive steps are taken, there may be future rises in food costs and a diversion of labor to the food industry in an attempt to produce more foodstuffs.

Missile Contract

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23 (AP) — The Navy announced today it has awarded a $62,100,000 contract for development of its intermediate range ballistic missile (IRBM) called Polaris. The contract was awarded to Lockheed Aircraft Corp.

State Reports New Deaths From Respiratory Illness

By The Associated Press

FIVE new deaths from respiratory ailments were reported Wednesday in Pennsylvania, bringing the total in the state to 63.

Twenty-seven of the deaths occurred in the Lehigh Valley area, including three today. It has not been determined whether any of the day's deaths are due to Asian flu.

Philadelphia Epidemic

Philadelphia listed 22,000 new cases of flu, mainly among adults.

Health authorities in the state's largest city noted an increase in adult patients and a decrease in the number of children affected.

While state officials looked askance at the practice of hastily closing schools for fear of further spread of flu-type infections, more institutions of learning were shut down. Wilson College of Chambersburg closed its doors until Nov. 3, conditions permitting, because 100 of the 450 students were on the sick list.

Berwyn F. Mattison, state secretary of health, earlier indicated he and other state officials believe now that closing schools does not shut off the danger of infection spread because children will congregate outside the school building in recreation spots and in places of public amusement such as motion picture theaters.

The State Department of Public Instruction has taken no school-closing actions since the start of the flu epidemic. The department emphasized all closings were strictly a local affair.

Syria Spurns King Saud's Mediation

DAMASCUS, Oct. 23 (AP)—Syria kept the Turkish issue boiling today, giving a formal rejection to King Saud's mediation offer and in effect accusing the U.S. Navy of sending planes deep over Syria.

Maj. Gen. Afif Bizry, army chief of staff, said reconnaissance planes fly almost daily over the city of Homs, midway between Damascus and the Turkish frontier.

"We believe the planes are not coming from Turkey but from the (U.S.) 6th Fleet in the Mediterranean because this fleet is working together with the massing of Turkish troops on the Syrian border," he told reporters.

Bizry charged Turkey began massing troops on the Syrian border for "offensive purposes" after Loy Henderson of the U.S. State Department visited the Middle East.

Referred to Dulles

"For further information and details," Bizry said, "you may address questions to U.S. Secretary of State Dulles, because he is the man who has more details than any other man in the world."

The Syrian government made clear it had ruled out Saudi Arabia's bid to mediate in the border crisis. It stated Syria is determined to press its complaint in the U. N. General Assembly and wants to eliminate anything that might restrict U.N. action.

Turkey announced Tuesday it had been advised Syria had accepted Saud's offer. Turkey sent Minister of State Fatim Rustu Zorlu and two aides to Saudi Arabia.

"The Syrian side absolutely did not understand the King's message as a mediation offer but merely as an expression of his noble sentiments toward Syria and Arabism and his preparedness to spare no effort to avoid the threat of a catastrophe," a Syrian statement said.

The statement said no mediation was necessary—only a withdrawal of Turkish troop concentrations from the border and an end to "accusations against Syria and interference in her domestic affairs."

Premier Sabri Assali expressed confidence that the United Nations will decide in Syria's favor on the complaint over Turkish troop concentrations.

MOSCOW, Oct. 23 (AP)—Izvestia published today a charge the United States is sending several squadrons of jet bombers to Turkey.

Izvestia said the jet bombers are capable of delivering the atomic bomb and fly in from a U. S. base in Morocco.

Dior Dies; 'New Look' Style Leader

MONTECATINI, Italy, Thursday, Oct. 24 (AP) — Christian Dior, for years the biggest name in fashion design, died here early today of a heart seizure. He had been holidaying for the past week in northern Italy.

His greatest coup was the "New Look" in 1947, when he seized and held for France the style leadership of the world after it had threatened to pass to the United States in the post-war years.

The French government recognized in him a national asset and awarded him the Legion of Honor.

After he let skirts down in 1947, hiked them up in 1953 and de-emphasized the bosom, 1954, stylists suspected he could do anything with fashions.

Because his business sense matched his creative genius, Dior made fashions pay off handsomely. His business crested 17 million dollars in 1953.

Stocks Up 7.2 Billion; Biggest Gain Since 1929

NEW YORK, Oct. 23 (AP)—A skyrocketing stock market made its biggest one day advance in 28 years today as buying orders swept into Wall Street from all sections of the country.

Major stocks jumped $1 to $10 a share and the quoted value of all stocks listed on the New York Stock Exchange boomed an estimated $7,200,000,000.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks gained $5.80, closing at $156.70. This was the biggest one day advance since Nov. 13, 1929, when the gain was $9.10.

The estimate of increase in the quoted value of stocks is based on the gain in the AP average.

In crowded brokerage houses throughout the financial district many market analysts and customers attributed the resurgence to President Eisenhower's statement last night he would give talks on the national economy.

Credit To Ike

"Eisenhower's statement was far and away the dominating factor," one broker said, adding, "the market was ready to rally anyway."

The hugh rise also was attributed to technical factors involved in an expected rebound from an oversold condition. Stocks have been declining since mid-July and yesterday reached the lowest level in 2½ years.

Whatever the cause, brokers reported buying orders came virtually from everywhere, including the mutual funds and financial institutions which are a major factor in the modern stock market.

Some brokers felt Eisenhower's statement last night was reassuring to foreign investors who have sold American stocks in recent weeks, and particularly since Russia's Sputnik was started whirling around the earth.

American Telephone and Telegraph, very weak earlier this week, jumped $5.50 to $166. Lukens Steel gained $10.50 and Du Pont $8.

Industrial stocks in the AP average gained $8.90, rails $5.40 and utilities $1.50. The Dow Jones industrial index closed at 437.13, up 17.34. This more than made up the losses of the previous two days.

Four Billion Shares

Of 1,232 issues traded there were 971 advances and 134 declines. Only two stocks set new 1957 highs but there were 80 new lows. Volume totaled 4,600,000 shares compared with 5,090,000 yesterday.

The story was about the same on the American Stock Exchange where prices advanced on a broad front. Volume totaled 1,530,000 shares compared with 1,880,000 yesterday.

Corporate bonds went higher on average in active trading.

U.S. government bonds lost fractions in slow dealings over the counter.

Down on the floor of the Exchange, the nation's financial nerve center, brokerage houses added 25 or 30 persons to their floor staffs to cope with the anticipated heavy trading.

Rokossovsky New Chief Of Trans-Caucasian Area

LONDON, Oct. 23 (AP)—A Soviet radio station announced tonight that Russia's Dep. Defense Minister Marshal Konstantin Rokossovsky has taken over command of the Trans-Caucasian military area. It adjoins the frontiers of Turkey and Iran.

The announcement was made by Tiflis radio in the capital of the Soviet Republic of Georgia. It was not carried in any Moscow radio broadcasts to home or overseas listeners.

Tiflis itself is within the territory of Trans-Caucasia, which runs along the northern borders of both Turkey and Iran.

The announcement gave no reason for the appointment of 60-year-old Rokossovsky, who became Soviet deputy defense minister last November.

Once Ousted

A month before then the Russian war hero had been ousted by Poland's Communist Chief Gomulka from his post as Soviet-appointed defense minister of Poland.

Rokossovsky takes over the Trans-Caucasian command in a Mideast crisis during which Russia has whipped up charges that Turkey, with American backing, is planning an invasion of Soviet-supported Syria.

LVRR To Skip Usual Dividend

NEW YORK, Oct. 23 (AP) — Directors of the Lehigh Valley Railroad Co. announced today they have decided to skip the dividend usually paid at this time.

They noted that the railroad showed a net loss of $723,000 in the first nine months this year. The railroad had an unbroken record of dividend payments since 1954 and had been paying 35 cents in each quarter.

Hungarians Mark Date In Silence

VIENNA, Oct. 23 (AP)—The Hungarian people marked the first anniversary of their anti-Soviet revolt today in sullen silence under the guns of police.

The Communist government of Premier Janos Kadar warned them in advance any demonstrations would be crushed. He had nine Russian army divisions to back him up.

Reports from Budapest said the day was drab and rainy as Hungarians trudged to work or to school.

One scene from the Budapest reports seemed symbolic of the day.

A little, gray-haired old lady, dressed in black and hunched over against the rain, weaved her way through police guards and entered Budapest's vast cemetery.

Kneels in Prayer

She shuffled to a grave and knelt down in prayer.

The guards, with submachine guns slug over their backs, paid little attention to this one old woman. Their job was to stop any freedom demonstrations in the graveyard of the revolt's victims.

The heaviest guard apparently was set up in that big cemetery.

People were told they could not wear mourning clothes or light candles in memory of their dead.

As they walked about the streets of Budapest, pictures of Russian soldiers smiled down at them. Underneath were the words: "True friend."

The Hungarian Foreign Ministry said this day was normal in Budapest.

Sent Aloft 4,000 Miles From Balloon

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23 (AP) — The Air Force said tonight it has successfully fired a rocket high above the Pacific in project "Far Side" — after four failures.

However, the Air Force would not confirm a report by the Los Angeles Examiner that the rocket soared 4,000 miles above the earth. The newspaper said the four-stage rocket was sent aloft from a balloon at an altitude of 100,000 feet over Eniwetok Island.

The figures conformed to the plan announced by the Air Force on Sept. 17.

The Air Force said the successful test took place Oct. 21 and "extensive data was obtained." It added that the data has not been evaluated and no figures will be made public "before noon Friday."

The Air Force said this was believed to be the final test firing in project Far Side. The announced aim of the project was to launch a research rocket to take readings on interplanetary radiations and the earth's magnetic field at various altitudes. The Air Force has emphasized that this is no attempt to place a satellite in space and no relation to that program.

An officer familiar with the tests said that until the instruments are checked and rechecked it's difficult to say exactly how high the rocket went. He said it's possible it soared well beyond the 4,000 mile goal.

The unsuccessful attempts to launch the rocket were made Sept. 25, Oct. 3, 7 and 11. The Air Force said a week ago that the trouble was due primarily to "unfavorable atmospherics."

U.S. Unveils New Atomic Depth Charge

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23 (AP)—The Defense Department came up today with a new answer to Russia's growing submarine menace — an atomic depth charge.

The weapon already is in the hands of some Atlantic Fleet units.

Defense Secretary Neil McElroy and Navy Secretary Thomas S. Gates announced the hitherto top secret weapon, calling it "an important answer" to a Soviet submarine fleet that now numbers about 450 vessels and is growing rapidly.

Gates said that weapon "Betty", as the lethal charge has been designated, will "greatly extend the kill range" over depth bombs loaded with conventional explosives.

The bomb is the first new weapon to be unwrapped since McElroy became head of the department earlier this month.

The nuclear depth charge has been squeezed into a metal case small enough to be carried by tracker antisubmarine aircraft that operate from small, escort carriers assigned to antisubmarine warfare units of the fleet.

Premier Vetoes Parliament TV

LONDON, Oct. 23 (AP) —One of Prime Minister Macmillan's last acts before flying to Washington conferences with President Eisenhower was to veto TV at the opening of Britain's Parliament by Queen Elizabeth II Nov. 5.

She recently opened Canada's Parliament on TV and BBC asked to set up cameras in the House of Lords here.

Vanguard Rises To 109 Miles

CAPE CANAVERSAL, Fla., Oct. 23 (AP) — The mighty Vanguard rocket expected to shoot an American artificial moon into orbit was put through another successful test today, rising 109 miles into the air.

At 2:24 p.m., EST, the bullet-shaped 72-foot projectile left its firing pad with a dull roar, rose slowly into the sky, then picked up speed before disappearing into an overcast out over the Atlantic. It was visible only about 40 seconds.

The U.S. Government says the Vanguard will put a pint-sized satellite into orbit with Russia's Sputnik in December and will launch a fully-instrumented moon by next March.

4,250 MPH

The Vanguard is being developed by the Navy which said in Washington the missile soared 109 miles high. Its peak speed was given as 4,250 miles an hour after 140 seconds of thrust by the single engine.

The remains fell into the Atlantic, 328 miles off the coast. Recording instruments were installed in the engine.

Today's rocket, officially known as Test Vehicle Two (TV2), was the first Vanguard with the external appearance the final launching vehicle will have. Its main purpose was to test the first stage engine and evaluate the performance of other Vanguard instruments.

Test Vehicle Zero, fired last Dec. 8, was designed to test equipment and instruments. It reached a speed of 4,000 miles per hour and reached an altitude of 125 miles in a 180-mile flight.

Last May 1, Test Vehicle One was fired in a high altitude separation experiment. A Viking rocket was used for the first stage and a medium propellant rocket as the second part. Both earlier tests were described as successful.

More Tests

Four more test shots, TV3 through TV6, are planned in December. Any of these might put small aluminum speheres into orbit.

Further evidence of the relaxed restrictions on news about the U.S. missile program came shortly after today's firing when both the Defense Department in Washington and Patrick Air Force Base in Florida issued statements confirming the Vanguard test was made and was successful.

Newsmen and photographers had been waiting since last Friday for the Vanguard test but several postponements were forced by strong northeast winds lashing this area of the Florida Coast.

Headon Crash Kills Man, 30

DOYLESTOWN, Pa., Oct. 23 (AP)—A headon crash on Route 202 today resulted in the death of a New Hope man.

Police said the crash was caused when Elmer Yeske, 30, of New Hope, attempted to pass a truck and collided headon with the car of Norman Z. Brabson, 26, a teacher at the New Hope-Solebury School.

Yeske was pronounced dead at the scene. Brabson was taken to the Doylestown Hospital with head and jaw injuries.

Youngster Suffocates

READING, Pa. Oct. 23 (AP)—A 20-months-old girl, being treated for a respiratory ailment, suffocated today when, according to firemen, an electric hot plate set fire to a blanket on her crib.

Firemen said Mrs. Gloria Kisling, 24, had placed the hot plate beside the crib of her daughter, Wendy Diane Kisling, and then draped a blanket over the crib so that steam from a teakettle would help the child's breathing.

Apparently, firemen said, the hot plate set fire to the blanket and the infant suffocated before the mother could save her. Mrs. Kisling carried another child, Randell, 5 weeks, from the house. The husband and father, Raymond, had gone to work at a Reading steel mill before the fire started.

College Instructor To Give Talk At Gallery Art Club

"MODERN MOVEMENTS in Painting" will be the theme of a lecture sponsored by Gallery Art Club next Tuesday night.

The meeting will be held in Shawnee dormitory at State Teachers College. The program begins at 7 p. m.

Main speaker will be George B. Johnson, art instructor at the college and show chairman for the club. Members of all other major art groups—including Pocono Mountains Art Group and the East Stroudsburg Art Club—have been invited to attend. The public is also invited.

Panel Program

Prior to Johnson's talk, which will be illustrated with color slides showing examples of the "movements" in painting, a panel will be heard. Topic for panel members will be "How I Look at a Picture."

The program is designed for those who are both trained or untrained in appreciation of "modern art." Questions concerning varied painting styles will be answered.

Barrett 'Y' Names Ziegler Drive Leader

MOUNTAIN HOME — Robert Ziegler was appointed head of a five-man committee to spearhead a membership drive during a meeting of the board of directors of the Barrett Branch of the YMCA Monday night.

Rev. Charles Eichman, pastor of the Canadensis Moravian Church, was accepted as a new member of the board.

E. K. Crothers offered his services as an architect in planning a fence to be constructed to keep balls from bouncing off the Y property.

Jacob Conley announced the recent card party was a success and funds from it will be used to help construct the fence. Conley also reported that ping pong tables and the television set have been repaired.

Mrs. B. Shephard reported on the Y dance club and Rev. Harold MacMurray gave the invocation.

The board decided to meet at 7 p.m. Monday, Nov. 11, to hear a report from the membership committee. The next regular meeting will be Nov. 18.

West's Future Course

British Prime Minister Macmillan's visit to the United States to confer with President Eisenhower is more than just a routine get-together of the leaders of two friendly nations.

In the wake of Russia's scientific advances, best exemplified by Sputnik, it is obvious the secret talks will turn largely around future strategy of the Western scientific partnership. Foreign policy matters also will be high on the agenda, too, because of the unrest Russia has stirred up in the Middle East.

The conference may not come up with any world-shaking developments. Some observers feel it is merely a bit of window-dressing in the hope of counter-acting some of the propaganda Russia is gaining because of its success in probing outer space. Perhaps that is so.

The Kremlin is crowing loudly, and showing no hint of humility in the face of the great natural forces involved.

The most disturbing aspect of this is that Moscow obviously seeks to capitalize on its scientific triumph to bulldoze the free world into accepting its disarmament proposals.

Using Sputnik as a kind of club, the Russians want to frighten tremulous neutrals and even sturdy anti-Communist nations into submission.

To combat this effort gives the United States and its firm friends perhaps the most hazardous diplomatic task they have had since the close of World War Two.

For what has dazzled the world is not only that the Soviet Union has catapulted into space a spinning object able to resist the pull of the earth. It is that by doing so they have revealed capabilities heretofore merely claimed or hinted at.

But we must not forget, and we must not allow our friends and the neutral nations to forget, that the United States has not—as a corollary of Russian success—lost its own capabilities.

We still have a huge and varies arsenal of atomic and hydrogen weapons and the ability to deliver these to the enemy. So long as we can put one hydrogen bomb over the Soviet Union, we have the capability to render another war an unbearable holocaust for the Russian people.

Our great nuclear arsenal plus the prospect of success in the missile and satellite field should give us confidence, though plainly there no longer is room for smugness and complacency.

PTA In Defense Of Daddy

Fathers have been coming in for a lot of criticism lately. They're been chastizd for spending too much time away from home for various reasons, not the least of which is to keep fuel for the home fires coming through. Some psychologists contend that Junior's growing up to be a sissy because Dad doesn't pay enough attention to him.

Maybe this picture of the "week-end Father" has been overdrawn. At least the national president of the Parent Teacher Association thinks so. She says a third of the PTA membership is made up of men and more and more men are serving as officers.

"So far as interest in the education of his children is concerned, the American father is the best in the world," she said.

This is quite a pat on the back for the much-maligned Dads. With defenders like this, how can he resist joining the PTA?

—Harrisburg Patriot

George Sokolsky Says . . .

Are We Conformists?

It is fashionable at the moment to speak of conformity as a characteristic of the American people, although we are probably the most diverse people on earth. I saw a piece in the magazine, "Foreign Affairs," which contained this sentence:

". . . Canada is a country that cherishes diversity, not conformity." From the remainder of the article by Miriam Chapin, this was intended to contrast Canada and the United States.

But the silliness of it is that America's principal social problem is how to lessen the effects of diversity when they are socially unbeneficial to the nation. For instance, today we use the word, integration; in a prior generation, we used the word, assimilation.

Israel Zangwill spoke of us as a melting pot. Hundreds of newspapers and magazines are published in the United States in almost every language written by man. Our religious varieties run into the hundreds and if Brooklyn has become a city of synagogues, Washington has its mosque and San Francisco its Buddhist temple.

This writer makes the point, which "Foreign Affairs" prints, that "Montreal had theater and literature when Chicago was a swamp.' Why compare Montreal to Chicago which is a comparatively new city? If such a comparison is important, which I think it is not, New York, Boston and Philadelphia are the older cities. The theater flourished in New York in colonial times and Boston and Philadelphia produced literature.

Comparisons are not only odious; generally, they are stupid because conditions vary so. If Chicago is to be held out as an example of one country, why not Windsor of the other? Or even, Port Arthur? What this writer attempts to establish is the superiority of one country over another by comparisons which do not compare and prove nothing. For instance, what great truth does this establish:

". . . Canadians turn out by the million for a royal tour, and display their devotion to the young Queen, while being notably hardheaded about loans to her government. And as for hardheadedness, there is far more of hard steady drinking and less of drunkenness than in parallel social circles below the border."

Americans have turned out by the thousands and have watched on television by the tens of millions the same young Queen, who is not their Queen but whom they edmire as a hard-working woman who does well by her own country even if we do inquire, but only occasionally, what is being done with the billions of dollars that we, the United States, have poured into her country.

Compared to what we have given Great Britain, Canada's loans are trifling, particularly when it is noted that Canada's economy is based upon American capital which we pour into that country annually, both as investment and as trade.

For instance, Canada's commerce would be moribund were it not for the purchase in the United States of Canadian Newsprint, Canadian whiskey, Canadian rye, and now Canadian metals and minerals.

Therefore this boastful writer talks about hardheadedness. She might note that it is fortunate that the United States is a generous and not a hardheaded country.

Were we not generous, goodnatured and sentimental, we might find means to send Canada's economy whirling into a nice little vortex by evading purchases there when Canadians complain about our investments in that country and we might have laws tightening tax procedures which could make it unprofitable for Americans seeking to avoid taxation to switch to Canada as a tax haven.

We shall, undoubtedly, not do anything of the sort, because we are not hardheaded. As for drunkenness, she may have a point there, the Canadians being primarily of Scotch or French origin may have a higher threshold for the imbibing of alcohol than most Americans, but what does that prove?

I read this article and wondered why it was printed in the austere, serious and important "Foreign Affairs," which has such pretensions at being authoritative. But there is no telling what axes are ground and by whom these days. Miss Chapin was announced as correspondent in Canada for the "Christian Science Monitor.

If she wants to see non-conformity, I would like to take her through any 10 blocks of New York City where she can pass from Italy to Canton, China, to Syria and Tel Aviv, Africa and Ireland without buying a ticket for ship, plane, railroad, or even subway.

Robert S. Allen Reports . . .

Sputnik Bares Secrets

Washington, Oct. 23—Whatever else may be happening to Russia's "sputnik", it is steadily losing its secrets.

U. S. scientists and other authorities are earnestly hoping the 184 - pound satellite will continue girdling the earth for quite a while. The longer it does, the more they are learning about it.

Already considerable important information has been uncovered.

In addition to cryptographers breaking the "beep beep" code, as disclosed in this column on Oct. 12, the following publishable details also are definitely known:

The Soviet device has a "mechanical brain" with "memory cells," which transmit different types of data at certain periods.

The outer surface of the satellite is more than a container. It is a sensitive "skin" that measures air density and other matters in the 18,000-miles-per-hour sweeps around the globe.

Neither the West nor Russia has yet computed the exact orbit of the "sputnik." All their calculations so far are approximate. The U. S. Navy Research Laboratory expects to establish an accurate "fix" with a newly-developed radio telescope.

Deciphered reports sent out by the device indicate temperatures are lower than was believed at upwards of 550 miles in outer space.

The "mechanical brain" inside the satellite is being triggered at regular intrevals and at specific places to transmit different types of data. One of these areas is Moscow.

While as tight-mouthed as ever about "sputnik," Russian scientists are intimating to foreign visitors there will be at least 24 hours notice before the next one is launched. They say that is because it will be part of the International Geophysical Year, while they claim "sputnik" is not.

Intelligence reports definitely anticipate a second Soviet satellite in November.

Bulls-Eye—Budget Director Percival Brundage who is under increasing fire in the bitter controversy over freezing defense funds, particularly for missiles development, discoursed at length at a white-tie-and-tails diplomatic dinner on the general lack of significance of the Russians' earth-girdling satellite.

"It's of no real consequence," proclaimed Brundage. "Not much more than a technological gimmick. It will be gone and forgotten in six months."

"But in six months," exclaimed Mrs. "Hostess with the Mostest" Mesta, "we also may be gone and forgotten. By that time, we may be dead."

Brundage did not join in the burst of appreciative laughter at her sally.

Not talking—Don't bother to invite Defense Secretary Neil McElroy to make a speech.

The new Pentagon boss is abstaining from public addresses for the remainder of this year, and possibly longer.

Already he has turned down more than 100 invitations. Virtually every day brings several or more of them. But McElroy intends to continue declining for an indefinite period.

Two reasons are behind this unannounced policy: McElroy wants to know a lot more about his job before talking about it; he is not sure how long he will hold it.

A surprised friend said he understood McElroy planned to remain in the cabinet for the balance of President Eisenhowers' term. The Ohioan ruefully shook his head.

"I wish I could say that positively," he replied. "But I don't know how long I'll be able to hang on. I never worked so hard trying to learn what I have to know. And learning does not come easy at my age. This is turning out to be infinitely tougher than I had any idea it would be."

Note: Secretary Dulles has let certain congressional leaders know that he vigorously urged a speed-up in the missiles development program at a National Security Council meeting early this year. Also, that former Treasury Secretary Humphrey and former Defense Secretary Wilson argued against that. As a result, the top policy agency took no action on this vital matter. At a subsequent meeting, the Council again rejected military pleas for increased funds for missiles research. Dulles is privately explaining he was abroad on this occasion.

Hi.—Charles Winninger's crack, "I don't know if Blanche Ring is still alive," and her discovery in New York, brings back memories of this gal who once had Broadway at her feet. Made her first hit with "I'd Leave My Happy Home For You" in 1899 and followed it with the famous "In the Good Old Summertime." "Yip-I-Addy-I-Ay" swept the country in 1908 and in 1909 she made "I've Got Rings on My Fingers and Bells on My Toes" the song of the year.—Old timer . . . Pat Boone Lifts Ban On Kissing

By Harrison Carroll

Hollywood — If the matter has been bothering his thousands of fans, singer Pat Boone told pals in New York that, in the future, he has decided it will be okay to kiss his screen leading ladies.

And while we are on the subject of singers, MGM says Elvis Presley asked the studio to send Anne Neyland to the Memphis premiere of "Jailhouse Rock."

They once were a romantic item off-screen as well as in the picture but I thought they had battled.

"No," Anne told me, "we never broke up, we just realized we weren't madly in love. I dated Elvis when he was out here recently. I went with him to the recording session where he cut his Christmas album."

"Christmas album? Rock 'n roll?"

"You heard me," laughed Anne. "He sang rock 'n roll ballads, and they were very pretty, too."

All the reconciliation talk came to nothing.

'Electronic Brain' Installed At Depot

AN "ELECTRONIC brain" that reads, writes, makes decisions, does complex mathematical problems and then sorts the whole thing out so that it makes sense has been put in operation at Tobyhanna Signal Depot.

It is the first of its kind to be put in use in Northeast Pennsylvania. Depot officials say it will speed up processing of orders and the report of inventory.

Col. Clifford Poutre, depot commander, called it "another step forward in the overall plan of the chief signal officer to provide supplies to the Army promptly and adequately at least possible cost."

Biggest point in its favor would seem to be faster shipment and delivery of supplies to troops. And the machine should save thousands of appropriation dollars through cutting interdepartmental collection and assimilation of data on individual entries and shipments.

The "big brain" has one other distinct advantage. Until now the Depot—and most signal installations like it all over the nation—has maintained a traditional-modern stock accounting system. With the old-fashioned way more than 415,000 punched cards were needed to keep track of records.

Summerizes Data

With the new system is stored on nine reels of magnetic tape. Each reel is 10 inches in diameter and a half inch wide.

When the tapes are "fed" into the brain it sorts, collates and then summarizes the desired information in ready-to-use and process form.

The machine has an elephantine memory—thanks to its tape. Small amount of space needed for storage of data on take makes it possible to file away an "almost unlimited volume of information that is readily accessible" proponents ofthe machine maintain.

If its "memory" fits in a bureau drawer, however, the "brain's' 'sturdy thinking machinery is another matter. Its overall electronic equipment weight is three and one half tons.

That includes more than 2,500 vacuum tubes, each of which is necessary to the operation of the machine. Any "brain" that size is bound to get "hot and bothered" occasionally. For that reason the giant automatic processing machine must have its own special air conditioning system.

Humidity Controls

To prevent technical foul-up of its delicate assembly, the brain also must have humidity and dust controls. Without any of these, the machine is liable to fits of pique or temperament, its inventors have warned.

Besides its present application in the stock accounting field, inventory control and order processing the brain will eventually be pressed into use in administrative matters inside the Depot. Officials plan to let it handle all cost accounting, payroll, production control and billing as times goes by.

In case there are any doubts in the minds of laymen that the "brain" is a speedy gadget, the Depot yesterday released figures which shower that it can keep thousands of things on its "mind" at once.

For example: The "brain" can do 78,000 additions and/or subtractions in one minute if it is instructed to do so.

And the machine itself has few "doubts", they said. It can make "decisions" at the rate of 2,300 each second.

No competition with human beings here. No man in the world was ever that sure he was right.

Close Watch Being Kept On Illness

TOTAL number of absences in Monroe County schools continued to show a decline yesterday for the third straight day.

School officials voiced guarded optimism that the worst effects of the wave of respiratory illness had been felt. But absences were still sufficiently large to make administrators and health officials keep the close check on sniffles, fevers and headaches which has become routine during the past three weeks.

Stroud Union Schools showed a total of 617 absences for the morning when classes resumed. A breakdown showed that 211 of these were in the junior-senior high school level, according to the office of Earl F. Groner, superintendent. The remaining 406 absences occurred in the elementary grades, Roger A. Dunning, elementary supervisor said.

East Stroudsburg Area Joint Schools reported only 379 absent yesterday morning. That was a decrease of 53 students from the total (432) number of students absent on Tuesday. ESAJ operates seven schools in East Stroudsburg borough, Smithfield, Middle Smithfield and Lehman townships. Carl T. Secor is supervising principal.

95 Absentees

Hamilton Township School near Sciota continued in session with only 95 of its 237-pupil enrollment on the absent list yesterday. Principal Ed Doney said that the total showed that the school was doing well in its efforts to move back to normalcy.

Monroe County's three West End schools (Pleasant Valley Jointure) are closed until Monday, Oct. 28 as a result of absences in the student body and faculty.

Pocono Mountain Joint Schools — least hit by absences in the current wave of illness — again showed a slight decline in the number of students out of school, according to figures released by the office of C. Willis Dunlap, supervising principal.

The total in the Pocono Mountain Jointure's schools in seven districts showed 292 students out yesterday compared to a total of 303 absent for Tuesday. The figure represents less than 17 percent of the Pocono jointure's total enrollment.

Mrs. Miller, 88, Expires After Illness

MRS. ELIZABETH Miller, 88, of 173 Meyer St., East Stroudsburg, died in Monroe County General Hospital at 9:25 a.m. yesterday. She had been in failing health for a year and serious for three weeks.

A native of Smithfield Township, Mrs. Miller had lived most of her life in the county. Her husband, Dalmar Miller, died nine years ago.

The daughter of the late Jacob and Mary Ruster, she was a member of Grace Lutheran Church.

Surviving are one step-daughter, Mrs. Margaret Gehman, Souderton; a foster-son, Richard Fillman, Wismer, Pa.; one sister, Mrs. Louise Freeman, and a brother, Norman Ruster, both of East Stroudsburg.

Funeral services will be held in the Lanterman Funeral Home at 3 p.m. Saturday. Rev. William F. Wunder will officiate and burial will be in Prospect Cemetery.

Friends may call at the funeral home from 7 to 9 p.m. Friday.

PUC Hears Summation Of Testimony On Bridge

A PUBLIC UTILITY Commission hearing on a proposed bridge over Brodheads Creek near Coates Board and Carton Co. plant at Minisink Hills was held in Harrisburg Tuesday.

The bridge would be part of the proposed Stroudsburgs Thruway. The hearing consisted only of summation of testimony heard at previous hearings. No decision will be made for several weeks, a PUC spokesman said.

Appearing before the five-man commission group to make final argument against the bridge were representatives of the so-called Citizens Bypass Committee and the Delaware- Lackawanna and Western Railroad.

Objectors Represented

Arthur M. Trogner, who said he represented 2,000 residents of Stroudsburg and East Stroudsburg, objected to the entire route. Harold Edwards, Stroudsburg attorney, appeared in behalf of the DL and W.

The proposed bridge would cost about $929,500. It would be a limited access bridge running over a railroad track above the stream. The railroad opposes the bridge on the grounds that it may want to construct another track later.

Highway Department has applied for permission from the PUC to construct the bridge.

Foley Girl's Death Laid To Pneumonia, Pathologist At General Hospital Says

AN AUTOPSY yesterday showed that Nona Jane Foley, 7, died of pneumonia.

Dr. M. J. Leitner, pathologist at General Hospital of Monroe County, said that the pneumonia could have been a complication of any number of upper respiratory illnesses and not necessarily influenza.

Dr. Leitner said that the child had been ill for some time before she was sent to the hospital on orders of a physician. The physician, Dr. Marshall Metzgar, Stroudsburg, told The Daily Record that he had not been called in on the case until Tuesday.

Dr. Metzgar said he saw the child "only about 10 minutes" and immediately ordered the family to take her to the hospital for treatment. He said he had not seen the child previously during her illness.

6½ Hours in Hospital

The girl was admitted to the hospital at 1 p. m. Tuesday. She died at 7:30 p. m.

Nona Jane was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph A. Foley, Bartonsville. Besides her parents, a sister and two brothers, she is survived by her maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Transue, Craigs Meadow and paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Foley, Blairstown, N. J.

Funeral services for the child will be held Friday at 2 p. m. at Dunkelberger and Westbrook funeral home with Rev. Harold C. Eaton officiating. Interment will be made in Middle Smithfield Presbyterian Cemetery. Friends may call at the funeral home tonight after 7.

Halloween Parade Plans Take Shape In Boroughs

THREE "HEADLINERS" have already signed up for the annual Halloween Parade on Oct. 31.

The parade is scheduled for Stroudsburg and East Stroudsburg beginning at 7 p. m. that night. It is sponsored by the merchants of both boroughs. All details and arrangements are being handled again this year by the Pocono Mountains Junior Chamber of Commerce (Jaycees).

Three organizations which have indicated they will appear in the line of march are the following:

"The Kemp Kadets," a top-flight drum and bugle corps representing the George N. Kemp Post, American Legion, East Stroudsburg. The corps has been in competition in some of the largest contests in the State for this kind of musical group. It has won top prizes in many of these.

Depot Drill Team

The Tobyhanna Signal Corps Depot Drill Team which is made up of trained personnel chosen for their precision and expertness. The team appears through the courtesy of the U. S. Army and officials at the depot, parade managers said last night.

The Pocono Mountains Saddle Club, an organization devoted to horseback riding as a sport. Members will ride in the parade mounted on their horses.

All local organizations are invited to participate in the parade, Jaycees spokesmen said last night. Individuals are also urged to take port.

There will be a large list of prizes to be awarded, the group announced. Prizes will be given not only for marching units but, as was the case last year, also to the individuals who are costumed.

Cooperating with the Jaycees and merchants are members of the Monroe County Police Reserve Unit who will handle traffic and guard the line of march.

What To Expect From Flu

THOUSANDS of Americans by now have kept their much-heralded date with Asian flu. And if the bug continues on its expected way, many more thousands soon will.

While the affliction is generally so mild that this is not exactly a personal catastrophe, few are likely to receive the visitation with such wholesome joy as inmates of the Atlanta city prison farm. All 725 of them were released recently in an effort to arrest the epidemic in the jailhouse.

Despite its romantic-sinister name—one bettered, incidentally, by hospital attendants in Los Angeles, who dubbed it the Flu Manchu—the outbreak has been very unglamorous. Asian flu's repertory is startlingly unoriginal.

In fact, it's just like any other, non-oriental influenza. The symptoms are identical, unpleasant but homely; aching muscles, chills, a sore throat, and fever, in varying degrees and combinations.

After four or five days the bug slinks off for its next appointment, leaving the patient uncertain whether he's had Asian, ordinary flu, or just a bad cold.

Only laboratory tests could determine precisely which, and the effort involved is hardly worthwhile.

If you acquire Asian flu, you're supposed to take to your bed, go on a light diet, drink a lot of liquids, and take whatever you're accustomed to take to fight fever.

In the vast majority of cases, that's all there's to it. But there is a possibility of other germs getting to the patient while Asian flu has lowered his resistance.

If, after the fourth or fifth day, there's a sudden rise in temperature; if there are severe chest pains, coughing that brings up much mucous material, breathing difficulties, abnormal drowsiness, blueness of lips, or excessive muscular pains, a doctor should be called immediately. These are not part of the flu itself, but indicate complications.

People accustomed to salve a cold with a snifter or two will have to do without that cherished remedy in an encounter with Asian flu. Alcholic beverages, the U. S. Public Health Service says, are not recommended to Asian-flu sufferers.

THIS IS CROWNING GLORY?—The hairdressers of Paris must have been in a gay mood when they came up with these two creations in a contest. The one on the left is "Woodland Dancer" and the other is aptly described as "The Squirrel."

LEATHERNECKS PULL OUT—Marines of the Ninth regiment, of the Third U. S. Marine division file aboard a transport at the Yokosuka naval base just before leaving for Okinawa. They were the last Marines of United States forces in Japan.

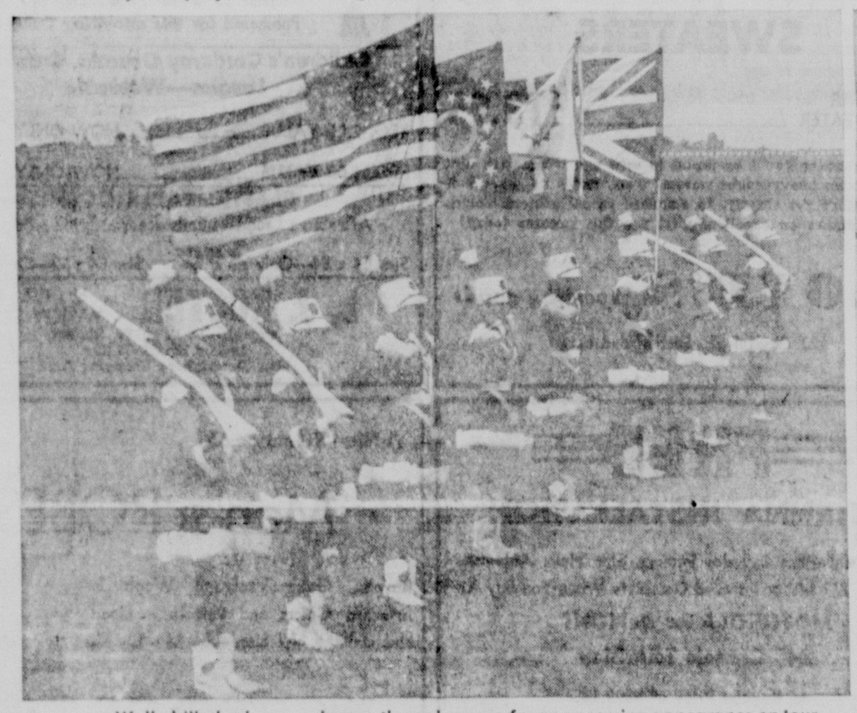
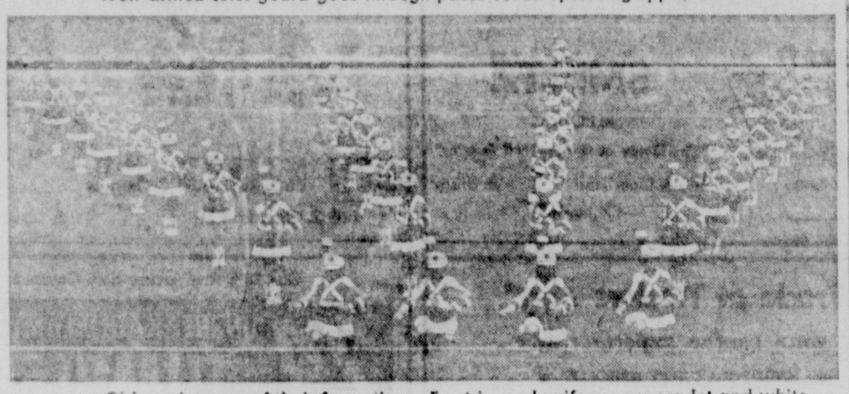
WHETHER IT'S A cherry festival or a professional football game, if the Cochran's Majorettes of Port Clinton, O., are there, the spectators can be certain of note-worthy entertainment. This teen-age all-girl unit has won 28 first place awards for precision drilling. Their 12-to-30-minute show is made up of baton twirling, Swiss flag-swinging, drum exhibitions, rifle drill routines and — their specialty—precision drilling. The 79 girls, who range from eight through 16, average 35 appearances a year. The Majorettes purchased a new bus with built-in rest room and the girls are insured for $300 thousand while riding in bus. This year the group is attired in new uniforms costing $7,000. Some of their appearances have been at Chicago's All-Star football game, the National Cherry festival in Traverse City, Mich., with Roy Rogers at the Ohio State fair, at Waterloo, Ont., Band Tatoo and other shows in mid-west and east.

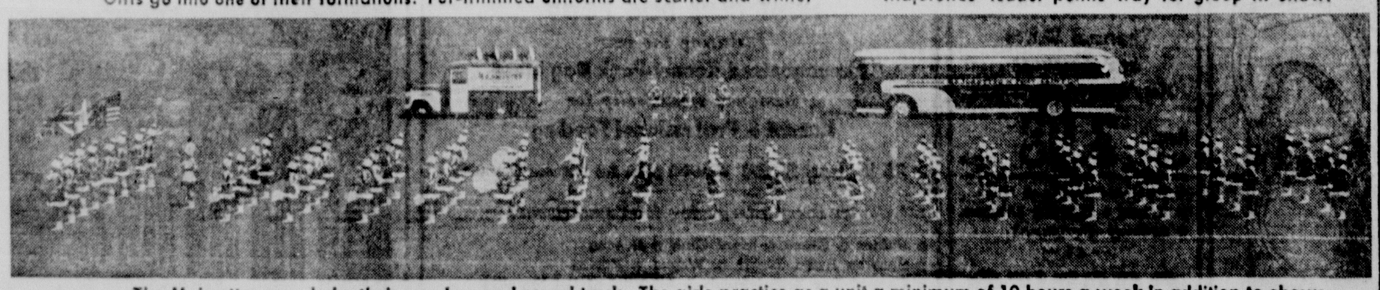


Well-drilled color guard goes through paces for an upcoming appearance on tour.

Majorettes' leader points way for group in show.



Girls go into one of their formations. Fur-trimmed uniforms are scarlet and white.



The Majorettes parade by their new bus and sound truck. The girls practice as a unit a minimum of 10 hours a week in addition to shows.

REAL DUCHESS, FAKE BABY—The Duchess of Kent shakes hands with a plastic doll during her tour of an annual London nursing exhibition. Duchess learned that such dolls are used in nursing courses. They can take abuse from students.

PLAYTIME FOR POLIO PATIENTS—Seventeen-year-old David Vesey has a "box seat view" from his wheelchair as other boys, also physically handicapped, play football on grounds of a school named for the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt in London. It was first day school for polio patients built in London since the war.

Green Thumb

Sawdust Mulch Provides Highest Yield Of Berries

TESTS FOR SEVEN years at Canada show that sawdust mulch gives the greatest yield of berries at the lowest cost. Three systems were used: Clean cultivation (no mulch at all); use of straw as a mulch, and third, using a six-inch covering of sawdust over the canes. The sawdust trials showed an increase of about 30% of berries over the other two methods. So, raspberry growers should use a mulch of straw or sawdust rather than no mulch (bare cultivation) to check weeds and conserve moisture.

Holiday Candles: The holiday seasons will soon be with us, so now's a fine time to say a word about easy-to-make candles from wax. Candles add glamor to your holidays, and they can be made with a minimum of equipment for just a few cents. Because of the great interest in candle making, we want to offer, free of charge, our new illustrated booklet, Holiday Candles. This 16 page guide is full of good tips for making Holly berry candles, Santa Claus candles, Star Candles, tall green and red and square types, plus many other novelties.

You may have a free copy of this guide by sending me a self-addressed, stamped envelope (must be at least 8½" x 3½"). Friends, please do not send smaller envelopes for this, and no postal cards. Send to me, Naples, N. Y.

Starter Solutions: If you're moving evergreens or setting out any kind of plants, spring, summer or fall, you'll want to take advantage of the so-called "starter solutions". These are quickly available plant foods dissolved in water and used at transplanting time. They get their name from the fact that they give plants a quicker start. Vegetable growers pour a good nutrient solution around the roots at planting time to revive the plants quickly and to stimulate growth, resulting in earlier maturity and less plant loss.

We use them for transplanting evergreens and all kinds of shrubs. During the transplanting operation fibrous roots are broken off and plants are apt to suffer shock from transplanting. Starter solutions help overcome this, and all you have to do is use one of the completely soluble transplanting mixtures on the market. Single-fertilizer materials are not as effective as the balanced ones containing high concentrations of nitrogen, phosphorus and potash.

Phosphorus stimulates earlier root development as well as maturity, but if used alone in a diluted solution, will burn the roots. Nitrogen alone stimulates leaf growth but tends to make succulent plants such as cabbage, etc. "soft", unless balanced with potash and phosphorus. If potash is used alone, the plants make a slow, dark-colored growth, with very firm stem tissue, but a mixture high in phosphorus, nitrogen and potash will produce a strong, quick-growing plant. So whichever liquid plant food you use as a starter solution or plant booster, be sure to follow instructions of manufacturer. Don't work on the theory that if a little will do a lot of good, twice the amount ought to be twice as good, or you'll get burning. Plants take up nutrients from the soil in very dilute concentrations, so if you overdo it, plants are apt to die.

Artificial Light: Gardeners interested in converting a dark room in the cellar into a "greenhouse" can resort to the use of artificial lights. Many of our gardening friends use cool fluorescent lights placed a foot above the plants or seed flats. A 40 watt tube in a reflector burning 15 hours a day is enough to grow healthy seedlings and plants. Temperatures varying between 60 degs. at night and 70 degs. by day should produce nice growth.

Damping off disease may kill seedling but you can prevent this by sterilizing the soil (baking it, or by pouring boiling hot water on it) before sowing seed. Cover with half-inch layer of sphagnum moss graded thru a fine sieve. Sow the

Bangor Band To Appear In New Uniforms

BANGOR — Slate Belters will be treated to the initial appearance of the Bangor Area Joint High School Band in its new maroon and white uniforms Saturday night when the annual Halloween parade sponsored by the Bangor Chamber of Commerce will be staged.

The Slater band will be attired in colorful uniforms of white coats trimmed in maroon; maroon trousers and military maroon caps with white visers. Matching outfits will also be worn by the majorettes and special military type uniforms have been secured for the color guards.

The uniforms have been secured for the band with an expenditure of some $5000 and marks a co-operative effort of the Music Boosters Club of the school composed of parents and patrons and the Bangor Area Joint School Committee.

Wilson Jackson, chairman of the parade committee has reported that more than six musical organizations are expected to take part in the parade. In addition to the senior band the Prep Band of the school composed of some 65 members will also take part in the parade along with its band front of elementary children.

Girls Rifle Club

Added to this matching unit will be the Girls' Rifle Squad of 25 members attired in maroon and white sweaters and skirts under the direction of John L. Williams in co-operation with the senior band.

Also slated to participate is the State Championship Drum and Bugle Corps of the E. H. Evans Post 378, American Legion, "The Yellow Jackets", who have been an added attraction at every parade in which they have participated in the past year.

The Washington Township Band, composed of elementary children, has also indicated that it will take part in the parade. The band of Pius X High School under the direction of Louis Angelini has also informed Jackson that it will provide some of the music for the parade, while several other organizations have reported that they probably will be on hand.

Jackson also has named the following judges for the parade. The judges will be stationed on the porch of the Bangor Jacksonian Democratic Club of Bangor when the parade moves at 7 p.m.

The judges include: Miss Josephine Farace, Mrs. Frank Horn, Mrs. Clifford Williams, Mrs. John Metzgar, Mrs. Willis Gardner, Mrs. Claire Piergallini, Mrs. Millard Gleim, Mrs. Shirley Matlock, Mrs. Mildred Stoddard, Mrs. J. Zerne Heberling, Mrs. Francis Snyder, Mrs. John Linaberry, Thomas Verona, Lawrence Petrei, John Metzgar, Willis Gardner, Ernest Turtzo, William Zackey, Millard Gleim and John Linaberry.

seeds in this moss and press it in lightly, or cover with thin layer. Moss is more or less antibiotic and helps prevent damping-off disease.

Minor Bulbs: Common snowdrop (Galanthus nivalis) is the first bulb to flower in spring. Actually, this should be the first to be planted in fall, although there's still time. While no garden flower grows and blooms when the soil is frozen, Snowdrop will often bloom in midwinter. Plant them 3 inches deep in a spot where they won't be disturbed for years. After the Snowdrops bloom the blue scillas or Squills, earlier than violets. They seed freely where not disturbed. Plant 3 or 4 inches deep.

And don't forget the spring-flowering Dutch Crocuses, with their quaint cupped flowers in white, light and dark blue, yellow, mauve, violet and striped colors. Plant 3 inches deep in rock garden, border or lawn.

Flowering at same time as Scillas and Dutch Crocuses are the Glory-of-Snow or Chionodoxas, with bright blue flowers and white centers. They also come in white and pink forms. Grape hyacinths or Muscari are becoming more popular and they'll grow almost anywhere. Set bulbs in clumps 3 inches deep, and 3 inches apart, in the rock garden or border.

Missionary To Speak

KRESGEVILLE — The Women's Guild of the Trachsville Reformed Church is in charge of the services on Sunday at 10:30 a. m.

A former pastor's daughter, Mrs. Ira Silverman, will speak. She is the former Mattie Mae Klingaman, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Ray Klingaman, now pastor of the Cherryville Reformed Charge.

Mrs. Silverman served as a missionary to Japan and Egypt. She was an honor student in the local school and is a graduate of Heidelberg College in Ohio.

THE NEW ADDITIONS to the "Lassie" series, Cloris Leachman and Jon Sheppod, are already filming new episodes for the programs, but they will not be used until late this year or early next year . . . It is doubtful if "Wire Service" will return to ABC, but if it does, Dane Clark may be its only regular star . . . Victor Borge's next one-man show will be seen on Feb. 19 on CBS.

A two-hour telecast of the opening of the National Horse Show from Madison Square Garden will be handled by ch. 11 on Nov. 5 . . . Donald O'Connor and David Wayne will co-star in a "Playhouse 90" production on Nov. 14. "The Jet-Propelled Couch", which will be directed by Burgess Meredith . . . It's official now that Carl Reiner will be in the cast of the upcoming Sid Caesar-Imogene Coca shows.

Singers Cathy Carr and Vernon Taylor will be the guests of Dick Clark and "American Bandstand today from 3 to 4:30 p.m. on chs. 6 and 7 . . . The nighttime version of "Tic Tac Dough", now a daytime favorite of many viewers, may be seen at 7:30 p.m. on chs. 3 and 4, with Jay Jackson as quizmaster.

A traveling bunco artist joins the Burke & Walsh troupe as a circus hand and tries to do some swindling on "Circus Boy" at 7:30 p.m. on chs. 6 and 7 . . . An exciting investigation of the problems and pressures of sandhogs, the heroic men who burrow under ground and under water, forms the background of "Tunnel of Fear" on "Climax" at 8:30 p.m. on chs. 2 and 10, starring Jack Carson, Buddy Ebsen and Darryl Hickman.

Hollywood star Terry Moore, along with Paul Winchell and friend Jerry Mahoney, will join Pat Boone as guests on his program at 9 p.m. on chs. 6 and 7 . . . Ernie Ford will welcome Lee Marvin, star of "M Squad" as his special guest at 9:30 p.m. on chs. 3 and 4.

In his only 'live' television role this season, Jack Lemmon, will star in "The Mystery of Thirteen" on "Playhouse 90" at 9:30 p.m. on chs. 2 and 10. Co-starring Herbert Marshall, Gladys Cooper and Margaret O'Brien, this teleplay is based on Robert Graves' novel about the life of Dr. Billy Palmer, an English physician who actually lived some one hundred years ago, and who was reputed to have killed thirteen people . . . A Japanese plane attacks a U. S. destroyer in the Coral Sea and turns an American sailor into a living booby trap in "Human Bomb" on "Navy Log" at 10 p.m. on chs. 6 and 7. Ernest Borgnine, a Navy veteran and Hollywood 'Oscar' winner, will act as special host to introduce this second offering of the current season.

MR. AND Mrs. Charles Lank recently returned from a ten-day trip through Delaware stopping at Lewes, Wilmington and New Castle. They visited in Philadelphia on their return trip.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cullen of Salem, N. J., Mr. and Mrs. Michael Gydos and children, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gebhardt, Mr. and Mrs. Elwood McClure all of Philadelphia, and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hockie, of Pen Argyl, were recent visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lank in Cherry Lane.

Mr. and Mrs. George Janson of Atlantic City, N. J., spent a few days visiting the Harry Jansons.

Mrs. Edward Gilvey and son, Matthew, of Pottstown, are spending two weeks in Tannsville at the home of Mrs. Glen Gilvey.

Most Fatal Crashes Laid To Motor Code Violators

CHICAGO, Oct. 23 (AP)—The blame for traffic accidents which killed 40,000 Americans last year was placed squarely upon motorists today by an insurance company safety engineer.

"A vast majority of American drivers look upon highway regulations casually, many of them with disdain," says Arthur S. Johnson of Boston.

Johnson, engineering vice president of the American Mutual Liability Insurance Co., told fellow specialists at the National Safety Congress a survey brought ready admissions from 90 per cent of motorists interviewed that they had violated traffic laws.

Few Don't Drink

Only 7 per cent, he said, stated they never drank when they were going to drive. Of the remainder, 32 per cent felt they could handle one drink before their skill and judgment were effected, 27 per cent believed they could handle two drinks, 13 per cent felt four drinks did no harm, and 3 per cent felt even more would not impair their driving ability.

Johnson said half of the drivers contacted reported they decided for themselves, regardless of posted limits, what their own speed limits should be.

It was people, rather than conditions, who were blamed for industrial accidents, too, by Robert C. Wagner, of New York City, industrial relations official for Universal Atlas Cement Co.

Portland

Mrs. Gwladys Carpenter
Phone TW 7-6936

MRS. Henriette Van Vorst of Mount Pocono, formerly of town, entered the Monroe County General Hospital at East Stroudsburg on Monday and underwent surgery on Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Hutcheon of Mount Bethel spent Monday and Tuesday in New York City.

Mr. and Mrs. William Sprich of Washington, N. J. accompanied by Mrs. E. Randall Carpenter of town were guests on Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis H. Beam at Bath.

Mrs. Otis Grendler of Ridgewood, N. J., spent the weekend with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. J. Davies. The condition of Mr. Davies, who has been seriously ill, remains unchanged.

Thursday, Oct. 31 will be the last day to pay school taxes at face value. After that date a five percent penalty will be added. Per capita taxes unpaid after that date will be collected by wage attachment, according to law. Dec. 1, all unpaid real estate taxes will be returned to the Court House at Easton and it will be necessary to go there to pay same.

Mr. and Mrs. Oliver West, Collingswood, N. J. returned home after spending several days with Mr. and Mrs. Harry Pensyl.

Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Hutcheon spent several days in New York City.

Truth Class of the Methodist Sunday School will meet Friday night at 8 at the home of Mrs. Margaret McCoy.

Pikes Face Competition

CHICAGO, Oct. 23 (AP)— A toll road official said today that the nation's turnpikes are going to have to maintain excellent roadside services to meet competition of the planed interstate federal highway network.

Gerald D. Gilbert, assistant to the commissioner of the Pennsylvania Turnpike Commission, told a meeting of pay road officials "we are facing a new and keen competition."

Gilbert said that motorist services — restaurants, service stations, rest rooms and the like —are a special attraction that turnpikes have for motor travelers. "Our success does not depend entirely upon superior road surface and high potential."

Exchangites Entertain Newlyweds

BANGOR—Bangor Exchange Club yesterday picked up Mr. and Mrs. Euclid Jones, Emmetsburg, Md., in Wind Gap and gave them a one-day vacation.

Jones is assigned to an Army base in Mexico. The couple were spending their honeymoon at Echo Lake Lodge in the Poconos, and they were on their way back when picked up.

They were given a tour of the slate quarries, the blouse and textile mills and presented gifts from each, and also a gift from the Kaiser Co.

Last night they were guests for dinner at the Green View Guest Farm in Saylorsburg and guests of the Gateway Motel. This morning they will be served breakfast at Caesar's Diner in Wind Gap.

Club Gift

The Exchange club presented them with two engraved book ends as mementoes.

Guest speaker at the dinner was Daniel Perry, an attorney in Harrisburg and attorney general under Governor Duff.

The Exchange Club had a short business meeting and voted to invite the Pen Argyl Exchange Club to bring the Pen Argyl football team to the annual Bangor football team dinner to be held Nov. 20.

Toll Bridge Bonds May Be Paid Off Within Ten Years, Meyner Predicts

PHILLIPSBURG, N.J., Oct. 23 (AP)—A free bridge between Phillipsburg and Easton, Pa., was reopened today some two years after it was destroyed in a Delaware River flood.

And Gov. Meyner said in a speech that bonds issued by the Delaware River Joint Toll Bridge Commission may be paid off within 10 years, leading to removal of tolls.

The bridge was opened after Mayors Orion H. Reeves and Francis B. Moule of Easton and Phillipsburg respectively cut a ribbon across the span.

Mr. and Mrs. Anthony J. Amato of Easton and their two sons were the first to drive across the bridge.

They were believed to be the last to cross the span before it was destroyed on Aug. 19, 195 in the flood.

Gov. Leader of Pennsylvania was represented at the ceremony by Maurice K. Goddard, state secretary of forests and waters.

The bridge commission, a bi-state agency, operates toll and free bridges between Pennsylvania and New Jersey from Trenton north to Montague.

Meyner noted that the dedication was "a Spartan affair, compared to the epicurean productions that have marked the opening of other Delaware bridges."

The commission was reorganized following charges by Meyner and Pennsylvania's Gov. Leader of lavish spending by the agency. Among the charges was an accusation that the commission purchased floral muffs for a half dozen models hired to appear at a bridge opening.

Meyner commended the commission for completing work on the bridge in 250 days, compared with the original estimate of 600, and for cutting commutation fares on its nearby toll bridge in half.

He said, "I am glad that the bridge we are reopening is toll free. It takes a real effort of memory to recall the last dedication of a free bridge over the Delaware."

YOUR NEXT PLYMOUTH JUST TAMED THE TOUGHEST TEST TRACK ON EARTH!

That's the "track" scrawled across the map: 58,000 miles... more than twice around the world. Six years of driving crammed into 58 days by a brand-new 1958 Plymouth. Read below, see how it affects your future.

When you step into an auto showroom and plunk down hard-earned cash for a new car, you've got a right to more than just surface beauty. You've got a right to a car that's going to stand up under the punishment of day in, day out driving. A car that can go on delivering new-car comfort and economy season after season.

We designed the 1958 Plymouth to do just that. But we didn't settle for endurance in theory. We wanted proof.

See that route outlined above? It spells out "Plymouth '58" across 37 states. We ran a new Plymouth—one of the first stock production models to roll off the lines—across the route three times to roll up 58,000 miles in just 58 days. That's 1000 miles a day!

Here are just a few of the results. And even experienced automotive editors who were there when the Plymouth braked to the final halt were impressed by the results of this extraordinary test.

- Total miles traveled: 58,000
- Total days elapsed: 58
- Number of brake applications: 37,551
- Number of wheel revolutions: 47,732,000
- Number of engine tune-ups: 6

And for all its punishment, the test Plymouth still rode, handled and looked like new. The figures above are just a few of the hundreds collected during this trip. Your Plymouth dealer will be glad to furnish you with lots more details.

You'll be able to see and drive this amazing new Plymouth in a very few days. Wait for it. It's going to show you how much you can expect in a low-price car. And you can expect it only in Plymouth for '58!

Coming November 1... Plymouth for '58

Just Between Us — —

—By Bobby Westbrook

I'd almost forgotten about Halloween. What with colds, coughs, sneezles, sniffles, temperatures and the fear of them, I guessed maybe the kids had too.

At any rate, the neighborhoods have been exceptionally quiet for the week before Halloween. Plenty of rest and fruit juices, say the mommas of the imps and hob-goblins, and the neighbors breathe sighs of relief.

However, there were signs of stirring of the Halloween spirit last night. On an otherwise deserted Main St. (where were you all, home gorging on aspirins?), there was one lively corner, where a Tri-Hi-Y group was initiating some interestingly-clad new members.

One stocking, long drawers and oddly placed lipstick seemed to dominate the costumes, and pails were accessories, for what purpose I never did find out.

Well, I'd hate to see Halloween pass out of existence, entirely. Especially this year with the UNICEF program being touted as a substitute for pranks that not only get the mischief makers in trouble, but also cause a lot of unnecessary damage.

Maybe if they forget about fairy costumes and ballet dancers and lion tamers—all of which require a minimum of underclothes — they can turn out enough clowns, polar bear and Eskimos to keep the children warm and still get in a bit of "Tricks or Treats".

Legion Aux. Board Endorses Amendment

Members of the American Legion Auxiliary have been requested by the executive board to remember to look for the amendments to the Constitution which will appear on the ballots at the election on November 5, and to record their vote.

The executive board went on record as favoring the amendment for bonuses for Korean veterans.

At the board meeting, it was also announced that the magazine campaign to raise funds for hospital supplies was being resumed at this time.

PTA Tonight To Plan For Dance Fri.

Family Fare

Inquiry For Ancestor Stirs Memories, Missing Letter, Possible Distant Cousins

A story about a man who died, lo, these many years ago, which appeared on Family Fare last week brought more lively reactions than many up-to-the-minute news releases. A lost letter, resurrected by an aunt in a bureau drawer in a barn near Denver, Colo., a tombstone in a cemetery out in the West End, the hint of a pre-Revolutionary scandal, and two possible third cousins of the original inquirer in Oregon are all woven into the story.

The original story began "While the search for the mysterious manufacturer goes on in the local pages, Family Fare has had an inquiry, too. However, few of its readers are apt to have known this one personally.

"From Coas Bay, Oregon, has come an inquiry for information about one Jacob Reece, who was born in the state of Pennsylvania "near Stroudsburg Town", about 1829, from a granddaughter who wants to know his father's full name as well as his mother's and the names of any brothers or sisters."

False Prophet

As a prophet, the editor could not have been more mistaken. From the distant past, a Jacob Reese was resurrected, and there is a possibility that a woman still living in Stroudsburg may have visited him in a trip to the West.

At any rate, things started happening in Stroudsburg town. In the first place Mrs. Horace Walters, custodian of the Monroe County Historical Society, dug into the rocords and came up with a Jacob Rees, spelled with an 's', born to Samuel Rees and Magdelina Rinker Rees, born in 1825 near Hamilton Square. This information she forwarded to Dorothy Reece Troxell, in Coas Bay, Oregon.

Descendants Remember

Meanwhile, Mrs. Clara Catlin of Sarah St., Stroudsburg, called the Daily Record to report that her grandfather, Samuel Reese, of Stroudsburg, son of the Samuel Reese of Hamilton Square, had had a brother, Jacob, who was supposed to have gone West about 1869.

As a matter of fact, one of her cousins, Edna Hauser Teeter, who is now 97 and lives with her daughter, Mrs. Eulalie Walton, once made a trip to Iowa to visit relatives, and thinks that Jacob might have been among those she visited.

Moreover, Mrs. Walton has in her possession a letter from Samuel Reece listing fourteen children, among them Jacob.

Letter Has Own History

Well, the plot was thickening rapidly, and nothing would do but a personal inspection of this letter, which has a mysterious history all of its own. The letter was found some years ago in a bureau stored in a barn near Denver by a noted artist, named Huffsmith (the Huffsmith name also appears in the letter) and eventually found its way back to Monroe County.

It was written February 15, 1850, from Fennersville Post Office, Monroe County by Samuel Rees to a William Sox, who had married Samuel's sister, Catherine, and was living in Greeley, Colo. After general greetings, the letter goes on to tell about Father Wise's rheumatism, and who the girls had married, and then gets down to the serious business of telling about his own children.

Like Biblical Begats

It was quite a task, since he lists fourteen of them. John was living in Nagelsville; Samuel was in Stroudsburg, where he was serving as register and recorder (this is Mrs. Catlin's grandfather, whom she remembers well); Eliza Ann was married to Rudolph Keller; Sally Ann was married to Adam Hufsmith (this family later moved West and may be the ancestors of the artist who discovered the letter);

Then there was Christina who was married to Jacob Bossard; and Elizabeth who was married to Lewis Houser (this was Mrs. Teeter's mother) and the children still at home:

Reuben, JACOB, Catherine and Laura, all still single; and Mary Jane, Joseph and Emma Lida still under age. Emma Lida, the youngest was then seven.

The Price of Rye

Things were prospering just then for Samuel, he reported, with the crops good. He had 800 sheaves of rye which was selling at 60 cents a bushel. Corn was selling at fifty cents, buckwheat at 40 and oats at 35.

The letter closes with the hope that the families may sometime see each other, but doubtful since the distance was so great. It was signed "Samuel and Polly", with the Polly possibly a nickname for Magdelina.

However the distance may not have been so great, after all, because Samuel's granddaughter, Edna Houser Teeter, now almost 97 years old, remembers visiting the West during her childhood. As a matter of fact she has always been a great traveler, and up until she had a slight stroke at 92 she travelled as far as California.

At any rate, the inquiry stirred up many memories and a longing to visit the cemetery and see again the grave of her grandfather. As for the scandal, it is a family secret that once wagged many a tongue in the infant Stroudsburg Town, but now is buried in the past.

Der Huundt Mon Gabutszdawg Heit Makes 72

Der Huundt mon ass in boddich ordt tseaga dut hut in gaburtszdawg heit, or in other words, Raymond Redline of the Redline Kennels on Route 209, Stroudsburg, is celebrating a birthday today, his 72nd.

"I'm a Dutchman," he said proudly, "like that fella that writes the Pennsylvania Dutch column in your paper," referring to Weidlich's column which appears on the editorial page today.

Redline, better known as "Dad", was born in Bethlehem, but moved to Monroe County for his health in 1931, and apparently it worked because he is still hale and hearty. In 1935 he acquired two hounds who were such excellent hunters that he soon found himself in the beagle business.

Since then he has branched out into boxers as well. In addition, he boards as many as 150 dogs during the summer when their vacationing owners leave them with him for a dog's vacation as well.

Redline has three children, Lt. Lester Redline, who was recently discharged from the U. S. Navy after almost 30 years of service, and who lives in California; Mrs. Althea Fenner, who lives in Sycamore, Ohio, and Mrs. Margaret Rogers, who lives in Belvidere, N. J.

He also has four grandchildren. And of course, the dogs, who are sure to give him a rousing welcome on his birthday.

WSCS At Yoch's

Mrs. Charles Yoch, of 1316 Fifth St., Stroudsburg, will entertain the members of the Women's Society of Christian Service of Wesley Chapel at a meeting at her home on Thursday night, Oct. 24, at 7:30.

The Harry Newharts Guests At Dinner On Anniversary

Tannersville—Mr. and Mrs. Harry Newhart, who were married on October 22, 1907, in Stroudsburg, were the guests of honor at a family dinner party on Tuesday night at the home of their daughter-in-law, Mrs. George Newhart, Tannersville.

There were four generations present to honor them, as represented by their son, Harold, and his son, Bryden, and his four-months-old daughter, Terri Lane.

Mr. Newhart, a butcher by trade, was born in Tannersville, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Sanford Newhart, and has lived there all his life.

Mrs. Newhart is the former Lulu Rowe, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Rowe, of Gouldsboro.

They have had five children: Mrs. William Sebring, of Illinois; Mrs. Albert Taglianetti, of Woodbridge, N. J.; Mrs. Floyd Kresge, of Stroudsburg; Harold Newhart, Stroudsburg, and the late George Newhart, of Tannersville.

They have fourteen grandchildren and six great grandchildren.

Agnes Holdorff, of our credit office, proudly displays a snapshot taken of her granddaughter, Ronann Clapper, on the little lady's first birthday. Dressed to the teeth for this important occasion, Ronann has turned her back to the camera, and bent over—showing not only a very wide skirt but a very saucy pair of Fancy Pants. An adorable miss, hers is an unusual name—a combination of her father's and her mother's . . . Cora Albertson, of our lingerie department, embarked on a vacation, but not without leaving a note for her girls, thanking them for the marvelous job they did during Women's Days. During her absence, Margaret Rickert has set up a pretty display of the newly arrived Schrank pajamas with 3-in-one collar. The fabric is actually cotton, but from the distance it passes as silk, it is so lustrous and beautiful. Clever cutting and buttoning permit the collar to pass as a Peter Pan, Mandarin, or Ivy League convertible, as the wearer wishes. The size range—32 to 38; the price, 6.00 . . . Jack LaBar, president of the PTA at our Stroud Union High School, and his vice president, Trudi Hellman, conducted a program committee meeting in our Tea Room the other morning, and there was I along with Mrs. Raub, Mrs. W. A. Anderson, Mrs. James Kitson and Mrs. Britt. It sounds like a very interesting PTA year, beginning this coming Monday night, October 28th . . . If you'd like a spray top for your favorite bottle of cologne or perfume, it's possible to buy one for only 1.00 in our cosmetic department. These are attached to a rubber cap that stretches to fit any bottle . . . Boy, am I proud of me! During Women's Days I not only did some of my Christmas shopping, but had it gift wrapped. It gives me a marvelous feeling—but I presume that by December 24th, I'll forget where on earth I've put my purchases, and will begin searching like made before buying replacements . . . Watching Hazel Henning of our Tea Room arrange chrysanthemums in a giant-size antique copper pitcher from Iran, I was impressed with the perfect way container and flowers combined. China or crystal would not have been half so effective. Later I took a good look at the copper display and found ever so many styles suited to flower arrangements of all kinds. No home, I've concluded, should be without copper—especially in the Fall when flowers are so well suited in both texture and color to metal . . . Betty Bartholomew is still on the sick list, and every afternoon there's a list at the switchboard of others who had to call it a day and go home. Betty Frantz, of the display department, and Doris Hinton, of jewelry, are among the latest to be felled by the flu . . . Harold Albert, back from vacation, tells me he became ill while in New England and his usual Frigidaire (?????) melted under a raging fever. Harold had a birthday this Tuesday, and was just 39—along with Jack Benny, and a few other pals . . . Having followed the Canadian and American visits of Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip rather closely, I was rather perplexed—even annoyed—by the way our American "sob sisters" drooled over the Queen's husband. I have never considered him handsome, nor even particularly charming. But I am willing to take it all back now, and admit that his personality is by far the friendlier of the two, and he is doing as terrific a job as she, with her quiet dignity, for the promotion of the Empire. Watching them on TV during the Royal Commonwealth Ball, that which impressed me most, I think, was the Queen's obvious dependence upon her husband. Time and again, she glanced back at him, or looked across at him from her chair in the Royal Box, to be reassured, perhaps, that she was doing magnificently and that he was proud of her. Time and again, too, he very obviously guided a conversation in her direction so that she was able to interject a well-timed line. And time and again it was he who ended a presentation, when the guests chose to linger, by smiling disarmingly and turning firmly aside. "This," I thought, "is how a marriage should be—the husband shielding and cooperating with the wife, and the wife leaning proudly upon him knowing that, Queen though she is, she would not be quite so flawless if he were not there." I think a great many women could learn a very important lesson from this diminutive lady who has, apparently, given her love so wisely. And I salute Prince Philip, who has become commanding and important through his very willingness to be just the man behind the woman on the throne.

Health Assn. Meeting To Survey Needs

MONROE County Mental Health Assn. chairmen will meet tonight at 8:30.

The meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Arthur Henning, 1549 Spruce Ave., Stroudsburg.

The Mental Health Assn. is now ready to begin the final phase of its ful-length survey of Monroe County needs in the field of mental health.

At tonight's meeting details of the survey will be discussed and ironed out, Mrs. Henning said. All chairmen of the various sub-committees set up for the study will attend.

Rev. Robert Galligan is in charge of the county-wide survey. This study will include discussions and questionnaires to all regions of the county and its institutions.

Report On Visit

During recent weeks one MHA sub-committee visited Allentown State Hospital. Their report will be prepared and submitted as part of the overall evaluation of mental health needs.

Other sub-committee units will evaulate Monroe County use of the Guidance Center of Northampton and Monroe Counties, attitudes of professional men and women toward mental health needs and various other specific groups within the community.

On Thursday, Oct. 30, the MHA begins its education series with a meeting in the Regina Suite of the Penn-Stroud Hotel. Dr. Charlotte Jordan will be in charge of the education program.

Initial speaker in the series of meetings will be Robert Oliver, State divisional representative of the Pennsylvania Mental Health Assn. Oliver is well known in this area. He has helped in establishment of the new County MHA and has worked with Mrs. Henning and other leaders on a step-by-step basis to form the group.

Grange Unit Takes Action On Resolution

MATAMORAS—Monroe and Pike County Pomona Grange 64 met with Mt. Prospect Grange 1995 as hosts on Oct. 19 with Pomona Lecturer Christine Teachman in the master's chair.

Three resolutions were submitted by the resolutions committee: Percy Polley, Arthur Drescher, Robert Hupka, George Wyckoff and Kate Card. They were passed by Pomona Grange and two forwarded to State Grange, which is now meeting at Reading.

Margaret Gavoille, Hazel DeGarmo and Robert Hupka were appointed to serve on the fifth degree committee.

After the afternoon meeting a hot dinner was served by Mt. Prospect Grange home economics committee under the direction of Ruby Moore, chairman, and Irma Hender, May Crane, Bertha Volker, Hazel DeGarmo, Kate Clark and Frieda Drescher.

Degree Conferred

The Pomona Degree was conferred on nine candidates by State Deputy Master Andrew Teachman and the Fifth Degree team consisting of: overseer, Emil Laubscher; lecturer, Gladys Blitz; chaplain, Edith San Pietro; steward, Levi Percival; assistant steward, Edmond McEvoy; treasurer, Alvin Blitz; secretary, Hazel DeGarmo; Pomona, Josie Keisel; Flora, Margaret Gavoille; Ceres, Mary Rowe; gate keeper, Clyde Rowe; specter, Robert Crane.

Court ladies: May Crane, Martha Bradshaw, Susie Moreaux, Anna Bauer, Sadie Harford.

Marching candidates: Lester Hendershot, Gertrude Hendershot, Charles VanSciver and Christine Teachman.

The delegates selected to go to State Grange were Lester and Gertrude Hendershot who left Monday to attend all State sessions.

Coal Profit Case Sent To Dauphin

SCRANTON, Pa., Oct. 23 (AP)—A decision on who can profit from coal removed from the right of way of the Scranton-Philadelphia extension of the Pennsylvanaa Turnpike was left to Dauphin County court today.

President Judge T. Linus Hoban of Lackawanna County dismissed the equity suit of Robert Y. Moffat, trading as Moffat Coal Co., against A. J. Schrader, Inc., and George M. Brewster and Sons, Inc.

Moffat sought to recover 9,516.91 tons of coal strip-mined from his former coal lands which had been condemned for the superhighway. The coal was taken out by Schrader under sub-contract from the Brewster concern which is general contractor on the final link of the highway through Mossic, Taylor and Scranton.

SLOWLY the sun is sinking in the west on this prognosticator. Maybe we can put the blame on the respiratory illness wave which is sweeping the area. However, last week, the college elevens let us down, or should we say, backfired on us.

Anyway the average is down to .742 via a 46-won and 16-loss season log. Last week our flu-hit rights were sapped with a 7-3 record.

Well the past is history so will go on another jaunt hoping all is feeling well in the schools and on the campuses the Lehigh Valley.

WEST CHESTER TEACHERS OVER East Stroudsburg STC — Glen Killinger's Rams are ramming all this year, and pretty handily at that. The Warriors, on the other hand have been handicapped by flu and other injuries. Just seems there is too much in the West Chester brigade for Eugene's Martin's "Hill" eleven to stop.

EAST STROUDSBURG HIGH OVER Wilson Borough — Despite its four straight successes and only a loss to probably the best —Easton High — in the Lehigh Valley, Wilson can be taken. If Jack Kist's elusive backfieldmen coordinates with its blocking and forward wall, the Warriors of Jud Hall are in for a rough night. Wilson can be halted as Stroudsburg showed in the second half of their game. However, the unbeaten Cavaliers have to score to win. We think Kist got the horses to do it this time.

STROUDSBURG HIGH OVER Whitehall — The Mountaineers of John Whitehead are slowly rounding into shape. We look for Stroudsburg to resume its winning ways at the expense of the Zephyrs. Whitehall has been far from exciting this year, while the Mountaineers have already posted a 3-1 record. Willi Piff, Whitehall coach, usually pulls the unexpected. But he would have to be a magician to get his club by Stroudsburg this time.

NORTHAMPTON OVER Palmerton — Both teams have been idle for a spell because of sickness, but the Konkrete Kids are tutored by Al Erdosy. Need more be said.

BANGOR OVER Coplay —It's been a long season for Granville (Fats) Evans at Bangor. But the winless drought should end with the Wildcats the Slaters first victim.

NAZARETH OVER Pen Argyl — What a way for the Green Wave to return to the grid wars after three weeks absence. It's bad enough facing the Eagles on fairly even terms but not when they have aroused after being dumped from the unbeaten ranks by Hackettstown last Saturday.

EMMAUS OVER Lehighton —Luke Lobb at Emmaus hasn't much, but the Indians of Lehighton have shown less.

CATASAUQUA OVER Slatington — Too many Rough Riders for the Slaters to tackle. Especially when 230 pound tackle Mike Bundra is leading Catty's way.

PARKLAND OVER Hellertown — One of these days Trojan back Arnie Peoples is going to win one all alone for his mates. Saturday could be that day.

OTHER SCHOLASTIC encounters — Easton over Bethlehem; Allentown High over Altoona; Allentown Catholic over Pottsville Nativity; and Phillipsburg over Atlantic City.

COLLEGE SETTOS — Lafayette over Bucknell; Lehigh over Columbia; Gettysburg over Muhlenberg; and Moravian over Lebanon Valley.

Campbell Plans Another Try

SOUTHAMPTON, Eng. Oct. 23 (AP) — Donald Campbell arrived home from the United States today and said he planned another attempt on his world water speed record during the next 14 days.

The 37-year-old British speed king said he would try to break his record of 225.63 miles per hour on Lake Coniston in the English lake district.

It was at Coniston that Campbell set the world mark in Bluebird Oct. 19 last year.

Campbell said he aimed at pushing the world record to 250 mph.

Haney Manager Of Year In NL

By BEN OLAN

NEW YORK, Oct. 23 (AP) — Fred Haney, who led the Milwaukee Braves to their first pennant and world championship, today was named National League Manager of the Year for 1957 in the annual Associated Press poll.

Haney won in a close vote over Fred Hutchinson, pilot of the second-place St. Louis Cards. The Redbirds were in a challenging position until the final week of the season.

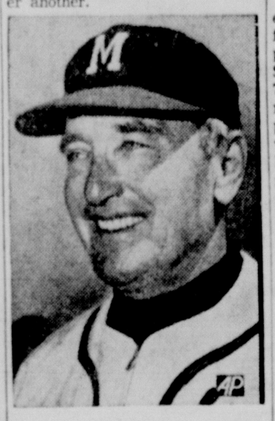
Haney received 90 votes and Hutchinson 84 of the 180 that were cast by members of the Baseball Writers' Assn. of America. Mayo Smith of the Philadelphia Phillies was named on five ballots and Bill Rigney of the New York Giants on one.

Cincinnati's Birdie Tebbetts, the NL Manager of the Year in 1956, did not receive a single vote.

Hollywood Story

The success story Haney wrote in Milwaukee the past season reads like something that more often emerges from Hollywood—a brisk walk from his Los Angeles home.

Although selected most likely to win the league championship in pre-season estimates, the Braves were dealt one damaging blow after another.



Fred Haney

At various stages of the campaign they were without the services of first stringers Joe Adcock, Eddie Mathews, Johnny Logan and Billy Bruton. Bruton's injury was the most serious and he did not return to the line-up after wrenching a knee on July 11.

Still, Haney brought his club on with a rush and it broke the race wide open with an eight-game winning streak in mid-September. The Braves clinched the flag Sept. 23.

Marked Contract

The result was in marked contrast to the outcome of last year's competition in which the Braves held the lead in the last week but were nosed out by the Brooklyn Dodgers on the final day.

The past season was the 59-year old Haney's eighth as a big league manager. He led the St. Louis Browns from 1939 through 1941 and Pittsburgh from 1953 through 1955. Except for the last two years, none of his major league teams finished higher than sixth.

'Y' Forming Junior Loop

A JUNIOR basketball league is being formed at the Stroudsburg YMCA as part of the fall and winter program. The members of the Junior Hi-Y of Stroudsburg will handle the applicants. All interested boys are urged to contact Ken Rozelsky at the YMCA. Players must be members of the YMCA.

The league will be composed of players whose ages are between 12-15 years old. No one who reaches his 16th birthday before Jan. 1, 1958, is eligible.

League contests will be played in the YMCA gym and all YMCA members are asked to register as soon as possible. Practice sessions will get under way Nov. 6 and continue through the 27. Rozelsky, PIAA official in basketball, baseball and football, will be the director of the program. Regular league play will begin Dec. 4.

Gotham May Get Video Of Phil Tilts

By JOE REICHLER

NEW YORK, Oct. 23 (AP)—There is a very definite possibility that the Philadelphia Phillies will televise most of their 1958 home games and several of their road games into the New York area, club President Bob Carpenter said today.

The youthful head of the National League club said he has a meeting scheduled tomorrow morning with officials of a New York television station for the purpose of ironing out some of the many problems that are bound to arise.

Carpenter already has had several preliminary meetings with officials of Station WOR, who reportedly have offered the Phillies $600,000 for the rights to telecast 77 of the club's games into the metropolitan area. The TV company also is said to be conferring with a brewery in the hopes of landing it as a sponsor for the games. WOR telecast Dodger games before their move to Los Angeles.

To Discuss

"There are a lot of things that have to be discussed before any definite program can be arranged," Carpenter said in a telephone interview. "But I believe everything could be worked out. At this moment, I would say there is a definite possibility that the Phillies will televise a majority of their home games into the New York area in 1958."

Carpenter declined to say whether he had discussed the intended project with the New York Yankees but gave the impression that he would keep the American League club informed of his negotiations with the television station.

Work With Yanks

"Whatever we work out," he said, "will be done on a basis of friendly agreement with the Yankees. If the deal is consummated, we will televise into New York only when the Yankees are on the road. We hope to televise all our home games, except when they conflict with the home games of the Yankees. There will be days when we'll both be playing at home. On those days we will not televise into New York."

In order to make up for those days, the Phillies probably will televise some of their road games on days when the Yankees will be away from Yankee Stadium.

Stroud Ladies Bowl Today

STROUD Ladies League will bowl today at Pocono Bowling Center, Stroudsburg, starting at 6:45 p. m. The schedule:

Syracuse and Cornell have met 33 times on the gridiron. Cornell holds a 23-10 advantage.

Set Rapid Pace In Pass Catching

By The Associated Press

IN A football season the most major college teams are using the forward pass sparingly, two players from one state are catching passes at a rate that hasn't been approached in recent years. A third is getting extraordinary yardage from comparatively few receptions.

Halfway through the season, NCAA Service Bureau statistics today showed that Stu Vaughan of Utah had caught 25 passes and Gary Kapp of Utah State 24. Each hauled in five last Saturday. In third place is Don Ellingsen of Washington State, whose 22 catches would have been tops at this stage in any of the past three seasons.

Buddy Dial of Rice has received only 13 passes but he has gained the top figure of 381 yards on them, averaging almost 30 yards a catch. It's the first time in five years anyone has taken passes for so much yardage in four games.

AP Lineman

The Associated Press

A couple of sophomore guards, Fred Brandel of Purdue and Rodney Breedlove of Maryland, waged a spirited duel of ballots for lineman of the week honors before the nod went today to Brandel.

Brandel won the weekly Associated Press poll of sportswriters and broadcasters for his key play in Purdue's stunning 20-13 upset of Michigan State, then ranked as the country's No. 1 team.

A 19-year-old 200-pounder from Hamilton, Ohio, Brandel recovered an MSU fumble on the Spartan 19 in the second quarter that paved the way for Purdue's tying touchdown at 7-7.

It was the turning point of the game, Purdue Coach Jack Mollenkopf said afterwards. "After that we knew we had them."

Breedlove, another 19-year-old, was a standout as Maryland upset North Carolina 21-7 before Queen Elizabeth II of Great Britain.

The 215-pounder from Cumberland, Md., twice threw North Carolina backs for losses on key plays, made tackles all over the field and made a vital block on Ted Kershner's 81-yard touchdown run in the last quarter that broke a 7-7 tie. Maryland Coach Tommy Mont said later that motion pictures of the game showed Breedlove was in on over 60 per cent of the tackles made by Maryland.

Buddy Dial, Rice end who caught two long passes as the Owls whipped Southern Methodist 27-21, also was high up in the voting. One pass was good for 55 yards and a touchdown

Claims Army And Oklahoma Used Tactics On Panthers

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 23 (AP) — An assistant coach of the twice beaten University of Pittsburgh football team says both of Pitt's conquerors used holding tactics.

End coach Ernie Hefferle made the charge against the football teams of Army and Oklahoma, the nation's No. 1 rated team, while addressing a Curbstone Coaches luncheon Monday. He said:

"I just came from watching movies of last Saturday's game and Army did a good job of holding, just the same as Oklahoma."

Army defeated Pitt 29-13 last Saturday. Oklahoma downed the Panthers 26-0 Sept. 21 in the season opener for both teams.

Michelosen Voices

Pitt's head coach, Johnny Michelosen, made the same charge against Army's team yesterday at Pitt's news luncheon. Michelosen made no reference to Oklahoma. He said:

"We had the report going into the ball game that Army was a holding football team. A couple of times early in the game we were being held and the boys called the attention of the officials to it. The officials said, 'You play football and we'll do the officiating.'"

Hefferle, while discussing the Army game at the Monday session, said:

Have To Practice It

"They do a thing up there at Army that Oklahoma does, and that's holding. The way they do it you have to practice it. Its tough enough to win a game as it is but when you have to battle a thing like that it's tougher."

Pitt has won its other three games of the season, beating Oregon, Southern California and Nebraska.

Monroe Classic Hit Pins Today

MONROE Classic League will hit pins today at Harmon's Recreation, East Stroudsburg starting at 7 p. m. The schedule:

Alleys one and two — Eagle "A" vs. Bill Altiers.

Alleys three and four — A. Besecker's Diner vs. Community Bar.

Alleys five and six — Square Bar vs. D. Katz and Sons.

Torpid Seen Trio Victor

WESTBURY, N. Y., Oct. 23 (AP)—Torpid, winner of the Little Brown Jug and the Cane Pace and the most sensational 3-year-old pacer since Adios Harry, is the 1 to 2 choice to sweep the triple crown by taking the $100,000 Messenger Stakes Friday night at Roosevelt Raceway.

The bay son of Knight Dream-Torresdale already has won 19 of 21 starts this year, and earned $108,000 for his owner, Max Hochberg of the Sherwood Farm, Irvington, N. J.

With 14 entered for the 3-year-old event, it was necessary to split the field in two seven-horse elimination divisions. The first four in each will return for the final one mile dash.

Second Division

Torpid, driven by John Simpson, is in the second division, where his main opposition is expected to be a 3-1 shot, Morris Eden, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Pivnick of South Orange, N. J., and piloted by Stanley Dancer.

In the first section, the Del Miller entry of Meadow Lands and Meadow Rhythm rules the 8-5 choice, with Adios Express, 9-5, Meadow Lands is owned jointly by Miller and Hugh Grant, Bradford, Pa., and is driven by Miller, while W. G. Reynolds of Louisville owns Meadow Rhythm, to be handled by Jimmy Arthur.

Adios Express was flown here from California, and is driven by Joe O'Brien. He is owned by the S. A. Camp Farms, Shafter, Calif.

Each elimination heat will be worth about $20,000, with the eight finalists shooting for the remaining $60,000. A horse winning his division, and the final brush, could collect about $50,000.

Pitchers have been the standouts of the last three World Series. In 1955 it was Johnny Podres of the Dodgers, then Don Larsen of the Yankees in 1956. In 1957 it was Lew Burdette of the Braves.

Familiar Word

Gavilan Camp Cries 'Keed' Was Robbed In Ortega Loss

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 23 (AP)—The familiar cry of "robbery" echoed from the camp of welterweight contender Kid Gavilan today, but the record shows that the 31-year-old veteran lost a split decision to Gaspar Ortega of Mexico.

Gavilan was a picture of dejection and said he felt certain he had won the 12-round outdoor scrap last night. His voluble manager, Yamil Chade, planned to protest the outcome with the state athletic commission.

At one stage Chade exclaimed: "It's shameful. Gavilan never fight here again or I go to electric chair."

Referee Frankie Van, under California's 10-point per round system, scored it for Ortega by two points and Judge Tommy Hart by three. In contrast, Judge Dynamite Jackson had it for Gavilan by four. The Associated Press had it by one point for Ortega.

Difficult To Score

It was a difficult fight to score. Each round was close. The referee explained his views with: "Gavilan was flashier but Ortega landed the harder punches."

Gavilan was a 10-7 betting favorite.

Ortega has been promised a match in February with Vince Martinez of New Jersey in another elimination match pointing toward crowning a new champion. Carmen Basilio vacated the title when he beat Sugar Ray Robinson for the middleweight title.

Hollywood Legion Stadium's promotion lost money. A disappointing turnout of about 7,800 paid an estimated $21,400 to see the action-packed fight at Wrigley Field.

Boyd Wins Over Szuzina

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Oct. 23 (AP) —Bobby Boyd of Chicago won a unanimous 10-round decision over Franz Szuzina of Germany in their nationally televised bout tonight in the near solitude of the War Memorial Auditorium. Boyd weighed 161, Szuzina 159.

By ED CORRIGAN

NEW YORK, Oct. 23 (AP) — Not too many months ago, Murray Rose "discovered" Alex Miteff, a heavyweight boxer. A couple of weeks ago, Mitff was knocked out in the first round.

So Rose decided to try football forecasting. His score last week was a wretched 26-19-4. Thus he discovered that calling football games can be as risky as picking future heavyweight champions.

...e missed on Army, Purdue over ...gon . . . but why go on. He decided to stick with Miteff. ...is week's picks:

Moore, Spieser Agree To Terms

DETROIT, Oct. 23 (AP) — Formal contracts were drawn up and signed today for a light heavyweight title bout between champion Archie Moore and Detroit's Chuck Spieser.

The 15-round fight will be staged at the State Fairgrounds Coliseum in Detroit in January. The exact date and the television deal had to await today's signing but managers of both fighters expressed confidence a $75,000 arrangement would be worked out with one of the major networks.

The champion, who knocked out Tony Anthony in seven rounds in his last title defense, is being guaranteed $100,000 to defend against Spieser, the fourth-ranked contender whose last outing was a three-round knockout last April at the hands of this same Anthony.

Today's contract calls for Moore to receive $100,000 or 40 per cent of the net receipts. Spieser will get 20 per cent of the net receipts. Another contract signed today calls for a return bout in Detroit within 90 days should Moore lose.

Phillies Nix JC Park Offer

JERSEY CITY, N. J., Oct. 23 (AP) —The Philadelphia Phillies have turned down an offer from Parks Commissioner Bernard J. Berry to play eight of their 1958 games in Roosevelt Stadium.

Berry said today he has received a letter from Robert M. Carpenter Jr., president of the Phillies, who explained that the club is "drawing very well in Philadelphia and the additional expense involved would not make it a practical situation."

National League teams in Cincinnati and Pittsburgh were also asked by Berry if they would be interested in using the 25,000 seat stadium either permanently or part time. They have not as yet replied.

Aaron, Ennis Top Majors Clutchmen

NEW York, Oct. 23 (AP)—A system for determining the outstanding late-inning clutch hitters in the majors for 1957 points at Hank Aaron for sparking the Milwaukee National League pennant drive and Del Ennis for keeping St. Louis in a contending position.

The system devised by The Associated Press statistical bureau, showed today that Aaron and Ennis each had nine game-winning blows, tops among the big league batsmen. Each player who put his team ahead to stay after the fifth inning received credit for a game-winning blow.

Lead American

Bill Skowron of the Yankees and Al Smith of the Indians compiled the most game-winners in the American League, seven each. The Dodgers' Gino Cimoli and the Redlegs' Don Hoak ranked behind the National League co-leaders, also with seven apiece.

Joe Cunningham of the Cards, Ernie Banks of the Cubs, Larry Doby of the White Sox, Gus Zernial of the A's, Mickey Mantle of the Yanks and Roy Sievers of the Senators all collected six game-winning blows.

Daily Double Pays $2,556

NEW YORK, Oct. 23 (AP) — N. Kero's Albia, a 2-year-old who had never won a race in 11 previous starts, and Betty Sechrest's Atom Rocket, a 3-year-old who had scored just once in 14 trips to the post, combined today for a $2.56 daily double at Jamaica.

Ray Broussard rode Albia to a nose decision over The Hedonist for a $99.40 payoff in the first race.

In the second race, P. J. Bailey piloted Atom Rocket to a neck victory over Tuckaroe, for an $81.40 mutuel.

There were 47 $2 doubles tickets and one $10 ticket sold on the combination.

Taylor Leads State Scorers

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 23 (AP) — Willie Taylor, runnerup for the Pennsylvania college football scoring championship last year as a freshman, vaulted into the lead in the 1957 point derby with three touchdowns last weekend, the latest weekly Associated Press survey disclosed today.

Taylor, who plays all the backfield positions for Geneva College in western Pennsylvania, scored three times as Geneva ended Westminster's unbeaten string at 24 games. The husky back now has six TDs in 5 games for 48 points. He was second to Jim Villa's 96 points last year with 90.

Shenk 2nd

Last week's leader, Bruce Shenk, Hershey High end now starring for the unbeaten West Chester Teachers, scored once to boost his total for the season to 42 points on seven touchdowns. Shenk and Taylor each have played in five games.

Bangor Coaches Work On Sputtering Slater Offense For Game With Coplay Friday

BANGOR — Plans for the invasion of Coplay High School's Maroons are being made by the coaching staff of the Slate Pickers of Bangor Area Joint High School, as they point for what is hoped will be the Slaters first win.

The highly regarded Maroons will present a hot passing combination plus a hard running group of backs for the Slaters to overcome on the greensward of the Bangor Memorial Park field Friday at 8 p. m.

Bangor's record to date a poor no wins against three losses inks the Slaters and with all hands ready for combat on Friday night, a spirited eleven is expected to take the field for the Bangorians.

Pep Offense

Downed by Palmerton 7 to 6 in the opener; run over by Catasauqua by a 46 to 0 and last Saturday evening stymied by East Stroudsburg 6 to 0, the Bangor coaching staff headed by Granville Evans is hard at work this week preparing the offensive that even to this date has been little more than a sputter.

Realizing that any kind of a "going offensive" against East Stroudsburg would have been the difference between victory and defeat, much time is being spent this week in timing the plays and the running of the backs.

Sure To Play

Question as to the possibility of the cancelling of the contest was raised the first part of the week, due to the invasion of the "flu" in the Lehigh Valley area. But it was removed yesterday when Paul LaBar, faculty manager of athletics at Bangor reported that the game will be played Friday.

With the possible return of Barry Reimer to the backfield of the Bangor combine after an absence of five weeks, added additional strength to the Slater attack. Reimer has missed both the Catty and East Stroudsburg games.

Although Coach Evans has not settled on a starting combine at this time indications are that Haas and DeNardo will be at ends; Lakey and Smith at tackles; Collura and Albert at guards and Sandercock at center. Backs will be Butz at quarter; Menhennitt and Jones or Reimer at halves and Joslla at full.

Three NL Teams Get Invitation

JERSEY CITY, N. J., Oct. 22 (AP) — Parks Commissioner Bernard J. Berry said today he has offered three National League baseball teams the use of Roosevelt Stadium.

Berry said he has sent letters to the presidents of the Philadelphia, Cincinnati and Pittsburgh clubs asking if they would be interested in using the 25,000-seat stadium either permanently or part time.

The Brooklyn Dodgers were partime tenants of the stadium for two years before their transfer to Los Angeles.

Get That Hip Out Of The Way

PUSH THE ball away sufficiently in timing with the first step, let it drop freely of its own weight into the backswing, and you're on your way to a grooved swing, sound form, and a smooth release.

To develop a swing that hugs your side, your first step in four-step footwork (right foot step) must be in line, so that, in your stride, the third step will also be in perfect line (see sketch).

Push the ball away at arm's length, let it drop of its own weight without physical restraint, and you'll feel the right hip turn out of the way as the ball, going back, passes it.

Explanation

Crack bowler Steve Nagy has a fitting explanation of the backswing. He says that he gets the feeling that, if he wanted to, he could put the ball into his right hip pocket. He calls it "swinging inside the arc."

Swinging inside a bit, instead of straight back, has this advantage: It grooves the swing in such position that Nagy's arm is directed to the right of the head pin and enables him to control his wide power hook.

Holding the ball a little to right of body center to start with, will help to get the swing inside the arc.

Chuck Zimmerman, Syracuse University quarterback, plays golf in the 70's.

U. S. Suspends Aid To Tito

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23 (AP)—The State Department disclosed officially today that "we are reappraising" United States programs of economic and military aid for Communist Yugoslavia.

From other sources it was learned that a tentative decision to suspend some of the assistance has already been made but final decisions on what should be cut off are still being debated.

The reason for the U.S. action, officials said, is dissatisfaction with President Tito's recognition last week of Communist East Germany and questions raised here as to whether Tito is moving back into the Soviet orbit.

Most top U.S. officials privately take the line that Tito probably does not intend to abandon his position as an independent Communist leader, free of Moscow dictation. However, the Eisenhower Administration has been under heavy pressure in Congress in the last two or three years because of its assistance to Yugoslavia and feels the greatest care must be exercised in dealing with the problem.

State Department press officer Lincoln White told a news conference today:

"In the light of recent developments, we are reappraising our programs for Yugoslavia. We expect to discuss various aspects of this matter with the Yugoslavs, but when these discussions will take place I do not know at the moment.

Talks Not Started

"In this connection negotiations with the Yugoslavs for PL480 (assistance surplus agricultural commodity sales) for next year have not yet begun."

White reported that "presently planned shipments including spare parts for American-made weapons and machines in Tito's military force, are still being supplied and that food shipments under presently operating programs are still going forward.

In official quarters the expectation is that the United States will shortly inform Yugoslavia that shipments of heavy military equipment, consisting almost entirely of jet fighter aircraft, are being cut off. Yugoslavia is also to be told that the United States does not think it is desirable to go forward in the immediate future with negotiations in Belgrade for new economic assistance, mainly in the form of surplus farm products.

State Department officials said the U.S. Government was upset by Tito's recognition of the East German regime because it seemed to open the way for other countires to follow suit. The more countries which recognize the regime, in the American view, the greater prestige becomes and the more difficult is the task of promoting the Western policy of seeking German unification through national, free elections.

Widely Scattered Sections Of Country Hit By Rain

By The Associated Press

STORMS and hard rains hit widely scattered sections of the country Wednesday.

Thunderstorms broke out from Louisiana northward into the Tennessee Valley.

Powerful winds ripped three offshore drilling vessles from their moorings at Orange, Tex. The boats were under construction at a shipbuilding yard. Workers described the blow as a baby twister.

Two traffic deaths were attributed to the rough weather in Texas.

A cloudburst dumped 4.60 inches of rain on Salina, Kan., in 2½ hours. Basement walls caved in under some houses, and streets were flooded. Two elementary schools were closed because the pupils coundln't reach them.

Rain spread over many sections in the broad inland area between the Rockies and the Appalachians. Rain also fell in northern New England and along the Pacific Coast from San Francisco north.

More than an inch of rain fell at Greenwood, Miss., and Jackson, Tenn. Almost an inch fell at Findlay, Ohio, Detroit and Cape Blanco Ore.

A cold front rolled southeastward across the Mississippi Valley.

A large area in the Northwest experienced the chill of winter.

Snow reached a depth of four inches in Helena and Great Falls, Mont., and 10 above at Havre Mont. Spokane, Wash., had a three inch fall, which set a record there for October.

Low temperatures ranged down to three above at Lewistown, Mont., and 10 abovee at Havre and Cut Bank, Mont.

Pay-TV Held Threat To Free System

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 23 (AP)—The president of the National Broadcasting Co. contended today that pay-television "could ultimately sweep away the nation's free broadcasting system."

"The only choice left to the public," said NBC president Robert W. Sarnoff, would be "pay-or-you-don't see."

Sarnoff, in a luncheon address, spoke out against both wireless and wired systems of pay television.

Your Horoscope Today

By FRANCIS DRAKE

FOR THURSDAY, OCT. 24, 1957

March 21 to April 20 (Aries)—There's no better day than this in which to make plans for the future, for sitering outmoded methods, accepting the latest improvements. An excellent aspect of Mars should encourage your best efforts.

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus)—The forgotten promise may put you on a spot today. But go on in your usual sensible way, attending to important things first, minor ones later. Let others chafe; you be calm.

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini)—You will have to allocate duties properly, be ready to capitalize on good opportunities as they appear. All may not run as smoothly as you wish, but keep on going; things will improve.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer)—You, too, will need more verve, a calm attitude in the face of stubborn opposition. Have faith; don't dally, don't fret.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo)—Without being overanxious or too vociferous, you can make this day produce more than may seem likely at first. The sure method, the steady gait, and the smile will do it.

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo)—Better note the DOs and DON'Ts of most other Zodiacal Signs today. You will run into many similar situations and, if you don't maintain self-control, you could invite friction.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra)—Be convincing in speech, but not dictatorial; steer clear of prevarication and overdoing. You may have some incompetence to deal with, and maybe cunning. Keep your head.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio)—Something of importance may come up, but in all things be discreet, particular, and tend to first things first. Don't attempt too much for one day, or become involved in others' heated talks.

November 23 to December 21 (Sagittarius)—Deal with everyone in your innately straightforward manner. You can make good headway now.

December 22 to January 20 (Capricorn)—Some unusual influences. Be careful in what you accept as true or false. Seek more facts where possible, but do not be hesitant. Follow a forward-looking acting policy.

January 21 to February 19 (Aquarius)—Consider all angles and possibilities before you embark on projects. You can make good strides now, but don't allow yourself to be hampered by people who impose upon your generosity and willingness.

February 20 to March 20 (Pisces)—There will be more stimulation in this day than you may believe at first. Pitch in and work with consistency; have no misgivings or fears. Courage and amiability will help you to win.

YOU BORN TODAY were born in the Libra-Scorpio Cusp—the change of Signs—which makes you especially dynamic, full of enthusiasm and willing to take chances. In the latter, be careful—not foolish. You of this birthdate often reach great heights through your industriousness and ability to tackle any number of jobs without considering the hardships or difficulties. Your common sense can carry you far. You are especially adapted to scientific affairs and have the qualities of leadership. You are friendly but not always demonstrative. Avoid overexertion and spending beyond your means.

Birthdate: A van Leeuwenhoek, Dutch microscopist.

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

$40 Million Road Bonds To Be Sold

HARRISBURG, Oct. 23 (AP) — The state Highway and Bridge Authority yesterday voted to sell 40 million dollars in bonds to help finance a 153-million-dollar federal-state roadbuilding program.

At the same time, it rejected a state Highways Department proposal that $7,900,000 in costs for acquiring rights-of-way be financed by the bond issue.

The 12-member agency—during an argumentative four-hour session—sharply revised a department plan two weeks ago outlining 175⅓ million dollars in federal aid projects.

Eight projects, mostly in rural areas, were added. But seven were dropped for the time being. The latter were principally expensive projects in built-up areas of Philadelphia.

As the federal aid program now stands, 23 projects are on the interstate list, qualifying them for 90 per cent assistance. An additional 22 are federal primary highways for which the state receives 50 per cent in federal aid.

Depot Officer Club Speaker

NEWFOUNDLAND — "The Military Assistance Program" was the the topic discussed for local Rotarians at their weekly meeting at Green's Restaurant. Lt. Col. Edward Moran, deputy commander of Tobyhanna Signal Depot, was guest speaker.

S. Elmore Haag presided. Moran was introduced by Henry Arneberg, program chairman.

Pointing out that our government is supplying various countries with military equipment to keep a peacetime army in readiness, the speaker noted that this policy is less costly than putting our own equipped troops into these countries.

It was announced that a director's meeting to discuss the proposed community band shell will be scheduled. Fund-raising projects to further the band shell program were discussed.

Urges All-Out Try

NEW YORK, Oct. 23 (AP) — Milk industry and Teamster Union negotiators, bargaining to avert a strike of milk drivers threatened for tomorrow, were urged by Mayor Robert Wagner today to make "an all-out intensive effort" to settle the dispute.

Congregation Is Building New Church

THE Bible Fellowship Church will hold its closing service at its present location Sunday at 7:30 p. m.

The congregation now worships at 135 S. Courtland St., East Stroudsburg. A new church being erected in the Franklin Hill section of East Stroudsburg is almost completed and will be the new place of worship.

Sunday's service will include special music and a time for testimony as to the work accomplished by the church in its 28-year history.

The congregation has had two ministers — Rev. O. H. Darby, now pastor emeritus, and the present pastor, Rev. Pat Loftus.

AFL-CIO Council Suspends Teamsters

Hamilton May Merge With Stroud

A KEY local issue on the ballot in the Nov. 5 election will involve only three areas.

It will be the question: Shall Hamilton Township join with the Stroud Union School District for the sole purpose of operating schools?

That question will appear on ballots in the five wards of Stroudsburg, the three voting districts in Stroud Township, the borough of Delaware Water Gap and Hamilton Township.

Hamilton school board petitioned county and state officials — and the courts — for the right to merge with Stroud Union. That right was given.

Under regular procedure, the proposition must now be approved by voters in the districts involved.

120 In State

Hamilton and Stroud Union electors will be among those in 120 school districts throughout Pennsylvania who will vote on formation of union or merged school districts on election day. Up for decision are 34 other proposed unions or mergers.

A union or merged school district, according to the State Department of Public Instruction, is the formation of a single district from two or more smaller ones. The difference between union and merger is only in the way the courts are petitioned to place the question on the ballot. For union the court is petitioned by districts themselves; for merger, the county school superintendent petitions.

The State strongly encourages formation of unions or mergers. Among the advantages cited by the State are these:

That transportation services can be better coordinated and more economically run; more equitable distribution of costs and more efficient operation of schools are possible and a single school board is less subject to "cliques or pressures."

By far the most important argument offered by the State in favor of unions or mergers, however, is the increase in State subsidies allowed to the larger districts.

Unions or merged districts receive an increase of 60 per cent in their subsidies.

Reasons For Objections

In general, the department said yesterday in a press release objections to union districts are the result of local pride, fear of "centralized" control and loss of representation.

None of these fears is based in fact, State officials point out. There is, for example, no more centralization of control in a union than in a group of smaller districts simply because the small districts invariably already send at least part of their students to the larger unit on a tuition basis.

Under State law each district in a union or merger has representation on the combined board which governs school operations.

Union and merged districts are nothing new under the Pennsylvania education sun. They've been in existence since 1911 and 89 of them have been formed since that year.

If the 35 proposed districts—including Hamilton and Stroud Union— are approved by voters the number of districts in Pennsylvania will be reduced from 2420 to 2335.

Paint Poisons Twins

Testimonial Dinner Is Announced For Retiring Red Cross Executive

NEXT THURSDAY the people of Monroe County will join with Red Cross officials in paying tribute to a woman who devoted 30 years of her life to their service.

The woman is Mrs. Ida Kunkle. And she will be the lone guest of honor at a giant testimonial dinner in the Penn Stroud Hotel ballroom.

The dinner will begin at 7 p. m. It will mark the formal close of a career which has spanned three decades, two wars and a major disaster.

Tickets for the testimonial dinner have been mailed out by the committee. It is headed by Clifford R. Gillam, Buck Hill Falls. Gillam said last night that "the public is cordially invited to take part in the dinner."

Reservations should be made to the Ida Kunkle Testimonial Committee at 38 Court House Square, Stroudsburg. All persons are urged to respond as quickly as possible so that accurate reservations may be obtained, Gillam said.

In announcing preparations for the dinner, local officials of the Monroe County Chapter, American Red Cross, pointed out that they felt countless Monroe Countians would want an opportunity to share in the tribute to "a woman who has served those who needed her so ably."

When announcement of Mrs. Kunkle's resignation was made at the October board meeting, a past chairman, Charles R. Bensinger paid this informal tribute:

"Not only the directors but everyone in the community owes Mrs. Kunkle a tremendous debt of gratitude for the unselfish service she has given the Red Cross and all those who needed it far beyond the demands of duty."

As executive director of the local chapter, Mrs. Kunkle has been in charge of Red Cross activities during three of Monroe County's most trying and perilous times.

Already well established in her job when World War Two exploded, Mrs. Kunkle readily organized or helped to form the many vital wartime efforts on the home front. Administra- time work doubled, also. Where- as the normal flow of work would have entailed contact with no more than a few dozen persons during a routine year, the displacement of human beings brought about as a by-product of war put thousands of names on Red Cross contact lists.

As the days and months of the war rolled by, so filled with work that one was barely distinguishable from another, Ida Kunkle's name became directly familiar to more and more Monroe County families. Emergency telegrams to servicemen brought hundreds of families into the small Red Cross office over county school headquarters in the square.

And the red and white flag of Red Cross emblazoned its image on the minds and hearts of dozens more through the service the local chapter provided.

With the end of the war there came a period of relative calm. But it was filled with the continuous new demands of the community. Together with officers of the chapter and volunteers, Ida Kunkle helped to build Monroe County's blood donor program into one of the strongest in the region.

Linked by Red Cross

Another war came. This time in Korea. But the local Red Cross was still there, on the job, maintaining contact between families at home and men isolated from them overseas. Many times the Red Cross was the sole link between the two.

TAKING IT EASY — Horace Frantz of 1107 Dreher Ave. relaxes in his home following his retirement after 57 years of service with H. B. Marsh and Son Foundry. (Staff Photo by MacLeod)

Frantz Retires At Foundry After 57 Years Of Service

HORACE FRANTZ of 1107 Dreher Ave., has retired from H. B. Marsh and Son Foundry after 57 years of service with the firm.

Frantz first joined the firm when the foundry was located at Sand Hill and helped build the company's present foundry on Dreher Ave.

First employed as a laborer, he later became a moulder and during the last three months of his employment served as a watchman.

Little Loss of Work

He estimates that he missed only about nine weeks of work during his 57 years on the job.

Asked his plans for the future, he said he is doing odd jobs, but nothing steady. He has five children, all married, and lives with his oldest son at the Dreher Ave. address.

Bovet Name Winner Of Nobel Prize

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Oct. 24 (AP)—Dr. Daniel Bovet, an Italian scientist who helped ease the lot of allergy sufferers with antihistamines and of surgical patients with a deadly poison, was awarded the 1957 Nobel Prize for medicine today. He arose from a sickbed to say how happy he was.

Dr. Bovet is the man who adapted curare, used by South American Indians for centuries to poison their darts, for use synthetically as a relaxing anesthetic in modern surgery.

He was a pioneer in the development of antihistamines to combat such irritants as hay fever, rash, eczema and asthma.

$42,000 Prize

Now he is studying the effect of tranquilizers on human beings.

Sweden's Royal Caroline Institute of Medicine made the award, which carries a cash prize of about $42,000 from the foundation established by Alfred Nobel, the inventor of dynamite.

Dr. Bovet was recovering from Asian flu at his home in Rome when he got the official notification from Sweden's ambassador to Italy, Eric von Post. The lean, slightly built Swiss-born scientist, 50, was happily overwhelmed.

"I'm very happy," he said. "It was a great surprise. I did not even know I was a candidate.

Auto Policy Windfall

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 24 (AP)—The state Insurance Department announced today it has ordered 11 insurance companies writing auto collision policies to refund more than $700,000 to 25,707 car owners in the state.

Deputy Commissioner Bernard J. Kelley, head of the department's bureau of examination here, said the policyholders had been charged Class 2 rates—where persons under 25 drive the car—instead of Class 1, a cheaper rate for drivers over 25.

The firms sell insurance to people who finance their cars through finance or acceptance companies.

Kelley said the average check to policy holders was $30 but that refunds ran as high as $134.50. He said a routine investigation uncovered the fact that motorists were charged the higher rate wherever there was doubt as to which class they belonged in.

Kelley said the companies said the burden was on the car buyer to furnish the proper information for rate classification.

Industrials Keep Market Above Water

NEW YORK, Oct. 24 (AP)—A tug-o'-war between bulls and bears after yesterday's historic rally left the stock market irregularly higher at the close today.

It was a turbulent day with turnover of 4,030,000 shares compared to 4,600,000 yesterday when the market staged its greatest one-day recovery in 28 years.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks rose 50 cents to $157.20 with the industrials up 70 cents, the rails down 20 cents and the utilities up 60 cents. The weakening in rail shares was pushed to some extent by a report that carloadings were at a three-year low.

Of 1,224 issues traded, gains totaled 612 and losses 420. There 55 new lows for the year and 3 new highs, Alleghany Preferred, Carter Products and General Tire.

Wolf Whistles Greet Oldsters

OWRTHING, England, Oct. 24 (AP)—Two elder stateswomen of Britain told a women's national meeting here London after dark is not safe for women of any age.

Lady Nunburnholme testified "men whistled at me every night during the blitz" of the early 1940s. She was over 70 then.

Another who admitted to being "past retiring age" claimed she won whistlings whenever she wore a red-lined raincoat on London's streets.

Little Hope For Truce In Syrian Crisis

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Oct. 24 (AP)—Most delegates to the U.N. General Assembly abandoned hope tonight of mediation in the Syrian-Turkish crisis. They prepared for a second round of bitter Middle East debate.

Declarations in Damascus and statements by Syrian representatives in the U.N. made clear that mediation by King Saud of Saudi Arabia is not in the cards at present.

Syria pressed instead a demand that the Assembly appoint a U.N. inquiry commission as quickly as possible to investigate the situation on the Syrian-Turkish border.

Meets Today

The Assembly, which has been in recess since Wednesday pending possible mediation efforts, is set to reconvene tomorrow afternoon.

Foreign Minister Salah Bitar and Ambassador Farid Zeineddine of Syria met for an hour with U.N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold on the Middle East.

Robbers Escape In Small Plane

FORT MEADE, Fla., Oct. 24 (AP)—The First State Bank of Fort Meade was robbed of $26,657 today by a pair of bandits who escaped in a small private plane. Later two men were arrested at Tampa's International Airport for questioning by the FBI.

At Tampa, Sheriff Ed Blackburn identified them as Donald J. Thompson, 32, pilot for a Tampa construction company, and Irvin Suits, 26, also of Tampa.

Agent Testifies To Part In Plot

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24 (AP) — Walter J. Patterson, an agent of Nathan W. Shefferman, testified today he distributed money received from the Whirlpool Co., to help influence employes to vote against joining labor unions.

He said some money was handed out "rather freely" as expense remuneration to employes at the Whirlpool plant in Clyde, Ohio, and some was distributed as loans.

U.S. Reports New Missile Successes

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24 (AP)—The United States is hurling aloft a virtual fusillade of mighty missiles and rockets, ranging from a record-shattering shoot into outer space to spectacular destruction by a robot weapon of a target plane a hundred miles out over the Atlantic Ocean.

In obvious challenge to Russia's claims of leadership in the race of scientists and weaponeers, this country had chalked up by tonight these new achievements:

1. The launching of two research rockets by the Air Force from balloons. One of these seems to have swooshed straight up to not less than 1,000 miles. This height dwarfs the previous farthest-out record. The Army's Jupiter C experimental device, not of weapon design, was unofficially reported to have gone about 3,000 miles and climbed to an altitude of more than 600 miles a year ago. Russia's Sputnik satellite was put into orbit at a reported altitude of 560 miles.

Purpose of Test

The Air Force emphasized that the rocket shoots in its Operation Far Side made from balloons floating 100,000 feet over Eniwetok Atoll in the Pacific, were not intended to put an object into orbit but merely to make scientific soundings of the vast ocean of space straight up.

2. The firing of an Air Force Bomarc long-range antiaircraft guided missile yesterday from the Cape Canaveral, Fla., Missile Test Center which ferreted out, collided with and knocked down—without benefit of warhead—a drone bomber a hundred miles out over the Atlantic Ocean. The automatic warning device built into the Bomarc weapon system, built by Boeing Airplane Co., put the target-hunting missile into the air in less than two minutes after the alert signal.

3. Another successful shoot today of an Air Force Thor intermediate-range ballistic missile—IRBM—from Cape Canaveral. This was the sixth time the USAF has test-fired a Thor and the fourth successful shot. Today's missile "flew its prescribed course and landed in the preselected impact area," said an Air Force announcement. The Thor was understood to have gone more than 1,500 miles and hit its target.

Greater Range

Unofficial reports became current tonight that today's Thor firing actually reached a range greater than any previously attained by either an Air Force or Army IRBM.

These reports said that the Air Force aimed at and hit an impact area more than, 2,500 miles distant.

Earlier in the day, another research rocket, not a weapon, also was fired from Canaveral. On Tuesday the Army, competing with the Air Force in IRBM development, made another successful launching of its Jupiter weapon. The unofficial score for the Army now stands at three successful Jupiter weapon tests, one an outright failure and one of doubtful value.

Ike, Macmillan Chart Arms Pool

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24 (AP) — President Eisenhower and Prime Minister Macmillan met for 2½ hours tonight to chart combined American-British action in development of new atomic and missiles weapons.

With 12 of their top advisers at their side, the two Western leaders considered concrete moves recommended by two teams of experts who reviewed the problem during the day.

No announcement was made after the session, the third between Eisenhower and Macmillan since their far-ranging global review began yesterday.

Talks End Today

The round of talks was due to end tomorrow afternoon after a fourth session. A final communique was expected to disclose some of the highly secret moves discussed to offset Russia's scientific-diplomatic challenge to the free nations.

In advance of tonight's meeting, both men pledged in a midday announcement to seek to pool their atomic-missile resources "for the service of the free world" and not just their two nations.

Authoritative officials said both governments planned talks afterward with Allied countries in Europe, the Mideast, Asia and Latin America to help mobilize the assets of all democracies in the cold war struggle.

In Full Accord

Lifting slightly the tight secrecy lid imposed since the talks started yesterday, the White House said the two government heads and their foreign affairs chiefs—Secretary of State Dulles and Foreign Secretary Lloyd — were in full agreement on finding ways to harness their nations' resources to meet the Soviet challenge.

The joint announcement disclosed that two separate high-level committees were named to make recommendations before the day was over on action in these two critical fields.

They are:

1. Nuclear relationship and cooperation.

2. Problems dealing with missiles and rocketry.

Chairman Lewis L. Strauss of the Atomic Energy Commission was picked to head the atomic-hydrogen study group along with Sir Edwin Plowden, chairman of Britain's Atomic Energy Authority.

Cooperation Stepped Up

Recommendations for stepping up cooperation in the missiles-rocket field were placed in the hands of Deputy Secretary of Defense Donald Quarles and Sir Richard Powell, permanent secretary of the British defense administration.

The announcement was given out by presidential press secretary James C. Hagerty with Macmillan's press officer, Peter Hope, standing alongside.

Eisenhower and Macmillan jointly stressed in their formal statement that any new partnership arrangement devised would aim at insuring the security of not only their two countries but of all the free world.

Good Morning!

A bore is someone who boasts about his accomplishments when he should be praising yours.

It's Back To Standard Time Sunday

DAYLIGHT Saving Time ends at 2 a.m. Sunday, in case you've forgotten.

At that hour, or before you go to bed Saturday night, turn your clocks and watches BACK one hour.

Walter Sees Danger In Weapons Pool

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24 (AP)—Rep. Walter (D-Pa) said today the U. S. has no guarantee that any exchange of missile and atomic secrets with Great Britain would be safe from a security standpoint.

In a statement, the congressman from Pennsylvania said "we have absolutely no guarantee that such an exchange will not simply provide the Kremlin with a regular bullet on our scientific developments, as has been the case in the past."

Walter said he has instructed members of the staff of the House Committee on Un-American Activities, of which he is chairman, to set up new security measures for any "crash" program for the development of ballistic missiles. He said he was taking the step to prevent a recurrence of security breakdowns noted in similar previous programs.

$150,000 Fire At Northampton

NORTHAMPTON, Oct. 24 (AP)—Damage estimated at between $125,000 and $150,000 was caused today to the warehouse of the R. A. Smith Milling Co.

The warehouse of the nearby Sacks Sales and Service Co. also was damaged by the flames while a third warehouse, that of Roth Brothers, Inc., was damaged by smoke.

Whale Of A Halibut

GRIMSBY, England, Oct. 24 (AP)—Six fishermen here figure they brought ashore 1,000 meals in one chunk. Their trawler caught a 504-pound halibut, one of the biggest ever boated in Britain.

Hoffa Must Be Ousted, Says Meany

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24 (AP) — The AFL-CIO Executive Council today suspended the Teamsters Union until James R. Hoffa and other allegedly corrupt officials are ousted from the truckers union.

The suspension was announced by AFL-CIO President George Meany who said the Teamsters, largest AFL-CIO unit, had failed to rid itself of corruption.

Meany said the vote for suspension was 25-4. He declined to name the dissenters.

Dissenters Listed

However, it was learned those voting against suspending the Teamsters were council members John F. English, secretary-treasurer of the Teamsters; Maurice Hutcheson, Carpenters Union president, Herman Winters, former Bakery Workers president, and William Doherty, Letter Carriers Union president. Doherty was reported to have 10 votes in order to block the required two-thirds vote for suspension by the 29-man council.

Asked whether the Teamsters had done anything at all to correct widespread corrupt conditions, as previously charged by the AFL-CIO and the Senate Rackets Investigating Committee headed by Sen. McClellan (D-Ark), Meany replied with a flat "No."

Meany said the suspension actions means that the 1½-million-man teamsters organization cannot be accepted back in good standing in the parent federation unless it completely boots James R. Hoffa.

Meany and the council ruled that unless the Teamsters promptly consent to ousting Hoffa and meet other cleanup conditions, complete expulsion of the union from AFL-CIO ranks will be recommended to the AFL-CIO convention in December.

Others Named

Meany also said such other newly elected Teamsters officials, as Owen Bert Brennan, Detroit, and John O'Rourke, New York, should stand a rigid Teamsters Union investigation.

Hoffa, who would succeed Dave Beck as president, and the others were elected at a recent Miami Beach convention which U. S. District Judge F. Dickinson Letts yesterday ruled was rigged to pick Hoffa. Letts has barred the officials from taking office until the case is tried on its merits.

Meany spoke after the 29-member AFL-CIO Executive Council held a three hour closed session to decide whether the Teamsters had met AFL-CIO conditions for a cleanup. The AFL-CIO, among other things, had demanded that the union toss out Hoffa.

Hoffa and other Teamsters bosses pleaded today for a one-year's delay in their threatened ouster. But rather than promising specific reforms, they stressed mainly how bad it would be for labor for their union—the nation's largest — to be kicked out of the AFL CIO.

Bing Crosby Takes Kathy Grant As Bride At Ceremony In Church Near Las Vegas

LAS VEGAS, Nev., Oct. 24 (AP) — Widower Bing Crosby married a bright, brown-eyed beauty from Texas named Kathryn Grant today in a nuptial mass culminating a romance that began four years ago on a movie lot.

"Mrs. Crosby, how about that!" the crooner grinned as they walked out of St. Ann's Catholic church.

The 45-minute ceremony, during which both received Communion, was performed by Msgr. John J. Ryan. Crosby, 53, wore a blue pinstripe single-breasted suit with white shirt and blue tie. His actress bride, 23, was dressed in a white suit with purple orchid and a white lace mantilla she bought in Spain.

The wedding took even their friends and family by surprise, but Bing airly seemed to wonder what all the fuss was about.

"We're been going together for four years," he told The Associated Press during a post-wedding breakfast at the Sands Hotel.

But wasn't the romance broken off a year ago?

"Ostensibly it was, but that was only so we could sit back and think things over," he replied.

"I've been sold on the idea for a long time. It was a matter of selling Kathy on it. We decided to go ahead in the past week."

Bing didn't let any of his family except his mother in on his plans. He and Kathy came to Las Vegas yesterday with his long-time friend, LeRoy Lynn, and her friend, Mrs. Guilbert Banks. They attended the wedding couple. Bing told his plans to Msgr. Ryan, requesting that no reporters be present during the ceremony.

"He was rather a detective," the priest smiled to newsmen. "He fooled all you people." Bing and Kathy showed up at the marriage license bureau in the courthouhe shortly before 9 a.m. and signed the application in their legal names — Harry Lillis Crosby and Olive K. Grandstaff.

Then they hurried to St. Ann's, a small church on the outskirts of Las Vegas. After the wedding, Bing gave the two delighted altar boys his autograph, staining his hands with ink as he did.

Auten Helps Honor Queen; Is Mistaken For Hitchcock

By Leonard Randolph

CAPT. HAROLD Auten, Bushkill, last night described the visit of Queen Elizabeth to New York City as "a wonderful thing" and said that he felt the Queen's American tour had been a decided success in cementing relations between America and England.

Capt. Auten was a guest at

Capt. Harold Auten

the Waldorf-Astoria luncheon for the Queen on Monday. He was invited by Mayor Robert Wagner of New York as a holder of the Victoria Cross.

Besides the V. C., Auten is the only man ever to receive both this award and the U. S. Legion of Merit during two separate wars. He received the V. C. as an anti-submarine boat commander in World War One and the Legion of Merit from President Truman for his work as chief liaison officer for the Port of New York during World War Two.

Auten was also the top "name" from the motion picture industry at the Waldorf luncheon. He is the American representative of Australian motion picture distributors.

The cheerful, round-faced Auten, whose clipped English accent and physical appearance make him a ringer for Alfred Hitchcock many times ran into this same difficulty at the luncheon. He was seated at a table with Mrs. Herbert Lehman, wife of the former New York senator by a waiter who looked at him intently as he entered the dining room then said:

"This Way, Please"

"So nice to have you with us, Mr. Hitchcock. This way please."

Auten, who has known Hitchcock for years, was vastly amused but, weary of attempting to explain the mistake to utter strangers for years, did not attempt to correct the waiter.

The luncheon with the Queen was "beautifully managed," Auten said last night. "Everything was perfectly planned and it all went off just like clockwork," he said.

The retired British Naval captain said that he felt the people of New York had been greatly impressed by the Queen and that New York's reaction to her visit had been "splendid."

The announced purpose of the Queen's tour was to improve relations between "our two nations," he noted. And in this respect, he said, it could hardly have been more successful.

Capt. Auten returned to Bushkill Manor, the resort hotel he operates at Bushkill, yesterday morning.

Merger Survey Favors Single Water And Sewage Authority

Study Covers Potentials Of Consolidation

ESTABLISHMENT of a single authority for the provision and operation of both water supply and sewage disposal for the entire Stroudsburg-East Stroudsburg area has been recommended by the Pennsylvania Economy League.

Ted Hoffman, a Rotarian, so advised the Stroudsburg Kiwanis Club at its weekly meeting Wednesday at the Penn Stroud Hotel.

Hoffman is chairman of the Rotary Club committee which worked with the Economy League in making a study regarding potentials of consolidating the twin boroughs. The survey was undertaken in cooperation with the Central Labor Union, which is sounding out public sentiment on the merger proposal.

Quoting from the survey report compiled by the league, Hoffman noted that water supply and sewage disposal service are operated in both boroughs as self-sufficient utility operations neither contributing to nor draining from the general fund of either community.

Could Continue Separately

They likely will continue in this status under present borough organization and could be continued as separate self-supporting utilities should the boroughs merge, Hoffman remarked.

Conversely, he said, in the absence of municipal merger the services can be merged water with water, sewer with sewer or in total if deemed appropriate.

For this reason, these utility services are severable from the merger of the two municipal governments for consideration of their operations and costs.

Hoffman pointed out that the survey was limited to a review of the existing structure of government in each borough, services currently rendered by each borough and the basic means of financing these services. Finally, he said, the study was concerned with the probable results in terms of service and cost should the boroughs merge.

$22,500 Saving

Estimated savings in the cost of operating municipal functions—aside from water, sewage and schools, which he said should be covered in special studies—were placed at $22,500 annually under consolidation.

Broken down, Hoffman said in quoting the survey report, the savings would be divided as follows: general government, $3,000; street department, $10,000; police protection, $6,500, and fire protection, $3,000.

Other details of the merger study which already had been discussed at last week's Rotary meeting also were reviewed by the speaker.

Howard Keiper, program chairman, introduced Hoffman and two members of the CLU committee on consolidation of the boroughs, Ralph Paul and Howard Strouse.

Testimonial Dinner Set In Mrs. Kunkle's Honor

challenge, in terms of service to people, came in August of 1955. With the deluge of the flood and its horrible aftermath, Monroe County Red Cross was again thrown into the center of a "conflict."

This time the struggle was closer to home. It was a matter of life and death, occasionally. But, more often, it was the painful, crawling process of bringing families back together against—this time from the shattered remains of Lower Main Street or The Flats to temporary "homes" in a movie theater or a church.

Red Cross struggled to fight its way through the massive mountains of information requests—many of them desperate—which piled up in the Court House Square office. Extra help was brought in to assist in carrying the load.

But through the weeks of reconstruction ahead and the dark hours of the flood itself, Ida Kunkle worked to bring order out of the chaos in the community.

Can't Measure Deeds

Her successor, Mrs. Charles Mott, Shawnee, said yesterday that "no one will ever know how much time Ida Kunkle has put into this job. No one will ever know because you can't sit down and total up all the times she has spent hours working with a family or trying to help an individual. And even if you did find out, people would never believe there were that many hours in the day."

On Thursday, Oct. 31, the testimonial committee will give Red Cross officials, workers and the people of the County she has served a chance to show Ika Kunkle that no time sheet could sum up the work that she has done.

In the rehabilitated homes, the minds of servicemen's families and—consciously or not—in the lives of thousands of men and women whose lives have been saved by blood transfusions, that work goes on and on.

Route Survey Proceeding On Schedule

CHIEF Engineer Robert A. Farley of the State Highways Department said yesterday surveying of the route of the Keystone Shortway is proceeding on schedule.

Reports on the study of the 300 million dollar highway will be ready by January, he said. Two private consulting firms conducting the location surveys are expected to have their reports to the department ready shortly after the first of the year.

The proposed 291-mile superhighway would link Stroudsburg and Sharon.

Michael Baker Jr., Inc., Rochester, Pa., is surveying for placement of the road between the Ohio border and Brookville in Jefferson County.

Local Section

Buchart Engineering Corp., York, is maping the route between Stroudsburg and White Deer in Union County.

Department engineers will plan the center section between White Deer and Brookville.

Construction on the project is expected to begin either late next year or in 1959 with completion set for 1972.

The highway will be 90 per cent financed by the federal government with the state's cost estimated at about $30,000,000.

The superhighway figured in a controversy Wednesday on the proposed location of another new federal highway to join the Scranton and Harrisburg areas.

Route 11 Connection

Lewis M. Stevens, state highways secretary, told a group representing the Original Route 11 Assn. he will determine whether consulting engineers had considered the feasibility of making a connection with the Shortway near White Deer which would serve the Harrisburg area.

Funeral Notices

ROGERS, Ralph E., of East Stroudsburg, October 24, aged 42. Relatives and friends are respectfully invited to attend funeral services Sunday October 27 at 2:30 p.m. from the William H. Clark funeral home. Interment in the Analomink cemetery. Viewing Saturday after 7 p.m.

Rain Lowers School Attendance

RAINY weather apparently put parents on warning yesterday morning. Absences from Monroe County schools rose again after a three-day period of decline.

Schools in East Stroudsburg Area Jointure were ordered closed at noon to open again this morning. Supervising Principal Carl Secor said the step was taken as a precautionary measure.

"A lot of our students go home for lunch and then must come sloshing back through the rain. We talked it over with the school nurse and in our opinion it was better to keep the children from getting wet any more than necessary," Secor said.

450 Absentees

Secor said there were 450 students reported absent yesterday morning as compared to 379 for the previous day. The jointure has a total enrollment of 2,050 students.

A pattern established earlier in the week in Stroud Union schools continued in effect yesterday: Absences declined in the junior-senior grades and increased in the lower grades.

Alfred W. Munson, high school principal, listed 205 as the absence-total for upper grades. This was a decrease of six from Wednesday's total.

In the lower grades, Roger A. Dunning, elementary supervisor said that absences totaled 424 at first morning class sessions. Added to the day's total, however, were 47 absences in afternoon kindergarten sessions and other grades. These brought the total number of absences in Union grade schools up to 471 for the day.

Fewer Than Wednesday

In Pocono Mountain Joint schools a total of 270 absences were reported yesterday. C. Willis Dunlap, supervising principal, said that some of the absences were probably caused by safety measures in keeping students out of school on a bad day. The total was 22 less than the 292 reported for Wednesday.

At Hamilton Township School near Sciota, Edward Doney, principal, said that absences totaled 98 yesterday morning. The total was three higher than the 95 for Wednesday, but attendance was still considered good under the circumstances.

Monroe County's three West End schools (Pleasant Valley Jointure) remain closed until Monday.

Attracting Industries

The Pennsylvania State Commerce Department is embarking on a program to tell the nation's businessmen about what the state has done to create a tax pattern attractive to industry.

And it's a good thing, too. For it was our old tax pattern that discouraged new industry from coming into the state and lost us many thousands of good jobs in manufacturing that went to other states.

We've learned our lesson, and we're not likely to forget it. So, we've given manufacturers an exemption from the capital stock tax, repealed a securities transfer tax, made the sales tax permanent and reduced the tax on purchases by manufacturers.

That isn't all Pennsylvania has to talk about, in seeking new industrial payrolls. Besides our other advantages, such as geographical location, transportation, water, power, a 41,000-mile road system and natural gas, we've got people, in going communities, able and ready to go to work.

Some of the big industrial plants which Pennsylvania lost in recent years went to localities in other states where taxes were low. One reason why they were low is that the communities haven't been developed, and workers have to be brought in from outside.

The tax advantage these manufacturers got is bound to be temporary. For when the communities are developed to serve the influx of thousands of industrial workers, to provide hospitals, schools, police and fire protection and the many other services people need, the tax bill is going to increase. There's no way to avoid that, if our standard of living is to be maintained.

Pennsylvania's advantage in this respect is that it has available, in already developed communities, the labor and all the other facilities needed. The manufacturer who picks a site in one of these communities—and there are many in Pennsylvania—may be sure that the community has the facilities it needs to serve his employes, and that the local tax rate isn't going to shoot up suddenly.

We have these community facilities available because of the decline in employment in other industries, such as coal and textiles. And for the same reason we have available the intelligent and industrious labor to man new industries.

What is more, the Commerce Department, operating with a new appropriation wisely provided by the Legislature, is making grants to many local governments for planning, urban development and renewal, to make the communities more attractive.

"Clean, modern and progressive cities, with alert citizens, go a long way in attracting to Pennsylvania manufacturers who need skilled workers," Secretary of Commerce William R. Davlin says. Our money will be well spent on such projects as these.

Opinions Of Other Editors

Assessing Responsibility

The Democratic Advisory Council, we see by the papers, has placed "most of the blame" for the troubles in Little Rock on President Eisenhower for failing "to take an early and firm position."

Well, we wouldn't argue that the Administration handled that unfortunate affair in the wisest possible way. But to lay most of the blame at the White House doorstep rather conveniently minimizes the role of a number of other people who had something to do with it, including the Democratic Governor of Arkansas.

Reminds us of the fellow who went careening down the highway, sped through a red light and crashed into a parked car. Later his friends told the judge it was all the police's responsibility because they hadn't caught him earlier and led him firmly off the highway.—Wall Street Journal.

Robert S. Allen Reports . . .

McElroy Reverses Order

Washington, Oct. 24—Defense Secretary McElroy has about decided to reverse another of his predecessor's vital research axings — the development of an atomic - powered plane.

Behind McElroy's concern about this lagging project are urgent warnings the U.S. is again in danger of being outdone by Russia in this crucial field.

Scientists and other authorities are sternly telling the new Pentagon boss that it is now unmistakably evident the Soviet is bent on repeating its spectacular coup in earth satellites, and is going all-out to be the first to put a nuclear-powered plane into the air.

Latest to stress this far-reaching possibility is Rep. Melvin Price (D., Ill.), senior member of the Joint Atomic Committee, who has just returned from a survey in Russia.

On the basis of what he saw and heard there, Price is firmly convinced the Reds have determined to produce an atomic plane within two years.

The cutback goal for the U.S., as set by former Secretary Wilson, is 1963.

In a detailed letter to McElroy, Price points out that a nuclear airplane, like this country's growing fleet of powerful atomic submarines, would have great military potentialities.

"Not only would an atomic plane tremendously increase Russian striking power," declares Price, "but they would also gain many advantages in commercial aviation. Above all, their world prestige would be enormously enhanced. The U.S. simply cannot be topped by the Soviet in this supremely important matter."

Two immediate measures are advocated by Price to avert that.

He is advising McElroy to double the present slowed-down spending rate for atomic plane development, and to place the numerous aspects of the project under a single director.

As now conducted, it is divided between the Air Force, Navy and Atomic Energy Commission.

Slashed Funds — Approximately $196,000,000 is available for the project in the current fiscal year.

Of that total, $100,00,000 is unspent portions of previous Air Force appropriations for this purpose, and $96,000,000 is new money for it which the recent Congress gave the Atomic Commission.

Last summer, in Secretary Wilson's secret research fund freezing, he ordered the Air Force to sharply curtail spending for urgently-needed work on the atomic plane.

That caused the cancellation of contracts for a top-priority reactor.

This vital atomic "engine" would be revived under Secretary McElroy's contemplated release of these impounded research funds.

Prior to shelving them, his predecessor had also barred the Air Force from asking Congress for an additional $100,000,000 for this project. The money was included in the Air Force's budget, but was thrown out by Wilson.

When questioned about that by the Senate Armed Services Committee, he attributed the slash to President Eisenhower.

"This decision was not wholly mine," Wilson said. "I was in accord with it, but I did not initiate it. The President did that. When he saw this $100,000,000 item in the Air Force's budget, he ordered it eliminated. Naturally, that was done."

"Why?" demanded Senator Richard Russell (D., Ga.), chairman.

"The President felt there were other things more important than this," replied Wilson, "and also that it was essential to balance the budget and to stay within the $175 billion debt ceiling."

"In other words," snapped Stuart Symington (D., Mo.), "in his and your opinion, balancing books is more important than ensuring the nation's defenses."

Note — Graphically illustrative of the stupendous costs of "push-button" weapons is $111,308,000 so far spent for merely developing a prototype nose cone for TITAN, the Air Force's still-untested intercontinental ballistic missile. The great difficulty in producing an effective nose cone is to keep it from burning up as it hurtles earthward with a hydrogen warhead at speeds of many thousands of miles per hour.

Sparks—Former U. S. Information Director Arthur Larson's White House adviser job is temporary. It is primarily to tide him over until he lines up satisfactory private connections. Despite all the official disclaimers, Larson was definitely ousted from USIA. The first he knew about his exit was when questioned about it by newsmen who got the inside tip he was headed for the ax.

Washington Slipped Here

George Sokolsky Says . . .

Aftermath Of Royal Visit

Elizabeth II and Philip of Edinourgh have come and gone. They have been dined and wined and applauded and cheered. The President has appeared in a photograph wearing a British order around his neck, a novelty in our way of life.

A research student in history, with a grant from one of the foundations that have such a trying time spending their money, might do a research job to discover whether a President of the United States has ever worn a foreign decoration in the presence of a visiting monarch. It is an interesting detail for which a fellow might earn a Ph. D.

After the delightful Queen and her fortunate Philip, comes the British Prime Minister who is the working head of the British government and is here not to win good-will but to do some kind of business. The Queen's visit having been a great success, which is beyond doubt true, the Prime Minister follows up to see what can be done about the loose ends in the Anglo-American Alliance.

There is little question but that the shewdest statesman in the world today is Nikita Khrushchev who has achieved by maneuvering and propaganda the elimination of Great Britain and France from the Arab world in Asia and much of Africa.

This weakens the century-old hold of Great Britain on the Mediterranean and the routes to India. The removal of British control over Suez, Egypt and Sudan was a blow greater than any suffered by Western Europe in either World War I or World War II. Thus, Soviet Russia started the process of becoming the sucessor to the British Empire in Africa and Asia.

This and not the sputnik is Khrushchev's audaciously brilliant achievement, There can be no question but that he understood the purport of American anti-imperialism and anti-colonialism and took full advantage of it. Thus he was able to use the United States to damage Great Britain and France and to imperil NATO.

On the other hand, it is not a decisive victory. Unquestionably, Soviet Russia's coup in Syria has frightened Egypt, Saudi Arabia, Jordan, Iraq, Iran and Israel. What keeps the Arabian countries together is their emotionalism over the existence of Israel.

I am willing to risk a blind guess that the day is not too distant when Egypt will sit down with Israel to straighten out their border problems and when Israel will sit down with Egypt and Jordan to deal with the thunderously unpleasant subject of Arab refugees.

Unless Soviet Russia can bring on a local war in the Near East before these two irritants are disposed of, it is altogether possible that Egypt will find a way to turn westward as the only hope for independence.

Such a diversion would strengthen Great Britain's position throughout the world and there can be no question but that British diplomacy is aimed to preserve Arabian oil for Western Europe and Arabian and North African trade for Great Britain. Much can be done by the British, if the United States does not upset the apple-cart as we did over Suez.

This is one problem which concerns the British. Another is Red China. The British have been hypnotized by the possibility of a schism in the Communist world between Soviet Russia and Red China. They have believed this possible since 1950. It has not occurred. It is not likely that it will occur in any short enough period to be important now.

Maoist China and Khrushchev's Russia have no ground for quarrel except that China's demands are too great for Russia to meet. But then both the Chinese and the Russians have known of old that China always demands at least twice as much as is necessary in the hope of getting a little more than was really expected.

The British would like to dominate at least the south China trade and possibly the Yangtze trade and get back some of their sequestered capital investments. Nobody can blame them for wanting. Also nobody can blame them for hoping that the United States will go along. Not even the Eisenhower Administration which often ignores public opinion can risk that scandal while Americans are still prisoners in Red China. It will be a mistake to raise the question here.

The Once Over

by H. I. Phillips

A surgeons convention is told doctors should confer with patients on their bill and hospital costs before an operation. Now, look here, doc! You can scare a patient to death by telling him what it will cost him to be sick. If you're going to do it you should give him an anaesthetic so he won't feel the discussion.

• • •

Surgeons and physicians have no easy life. They save lives and face many hassles over costs. But at today's prices they should be able to stand it as much as the old-fashioned country doctor who drove miles by horse and buggy and said, "Now don't you worry about money. I'm here to make you well. The surgeons convention was told "The introduction of health and hospital insurance plans is confusing patients." You're darned tootin' doc. And when a sick man gets through having the financial picture explained by his physician he can be in worse shape than ever.

Neil McElroy, soap tycoon, now Secreary of Defense, demands a report on missile progress weekly. (And bad spots will be washed out by a detergent.) Russian scientist says Soviet will have a station on the moon. Man in the Moon is reported putting up "No Visitors," "Keep Out" and "Positively No Fission" signs. Hallmark will be playing wrong cards if it doesn't give repeat of "Green Pasture" on TV . . . Sir Cedric Hardwicke and elephant were too strong opposition last time.

The Pennsylvania Story

Negative Approach

By Mason Denison

Harrisburg—When Pennsylvania's political goliaths collide next year in their bid for control of the governor's office and the State Legislature administration Democrats will harp on a somewhat unique and rarely used note—a negative note.

Rarely in Pennsylvania annals has this approach been used by a party holding the administration reins. It has no parallel in contemporary times which makes it unique and interesting.

Up to this point the generally accepted theme has been to emphasize the positive. Negative factors have been largely ignored.

It is not meant to imply that next year Democrats will drop the positive emphasis. Far from it.

But what is unusual concerning strategy plans now developing is that the negative facets of the Democratic Leader Administration will share almost equal billing.

How well it will pay off will be determined at the finish line a year from now.

The important point is that Democratic strategists are willing to gamble on it becoming the deciding factor in putting them across.

Basically these negative factors will be concerned with what the Republican-controlled Legislatures of the past two sessions have done to blot out or curtail Democratic Leader Administration programs.

It is a peculiar quirk of circumstance that has provided these conditions where an administration has found itself faced with a legislative branch controlled by an opposing party.

Such a condition has not prevailed within the past two decades.

Under these circumstances the so-called negative aproach could hardly have been used inasmuch as any failure on the administration front in relation to the legislative branch could be paid at no other doorstep than the party controlling both branches.

The past two sessions have provided an entirely different pace.

In the 1955-56 session, although administration Democrats controlled the House of Representatives, anti-administration Republicans held the grip in the Senate thus providing an effective roadblock to the administration's program.

In the past 1957 session both houses fell into anti-administration hands, leaving the Democratic Leader Administration a wide open boulevard for a host of reforms and proposals they knew at the beginning stood little or no chance of passing.

Nevertheless all this provided the groundwork for the year ahead—and the decision now to emphasize with equal clarity the negative points of the past three years.

In this respect Democrats unquestionably are richer in fertile ground on which to trod.

There is hardly a phase in the legislative field where they cannot point to a slapdown by the 1957 GOP-controlled Legislature.

It runs the gamut from pro-labor legislation, through the field of education to the ever vulnerable field of public health.

Whether the proposals offered by the administration were practical or within the realm of common sense makes no difference insofar as emphasizing the negative is concerned.

The fact remains that the programs were offered—and rejected by a Legislature of opposing political faith. This is the reason why the "negative" note for the first time, with political justification, can be harped on next year. Unrealized by most is the fact that Governor Leader is already setting the pace in his current speech schedule—a foretaste of things to come in 1958.

Good Evening Ladies!

Innocent Hubby's Chagrin

By Ken Duvall

Newspaper editors have long recognized that the details of some crimes are better left unpublished because there is always the chance that some weak-minded person will attempt to emulate them. Crimes committed by wives against their husbands should, I think, be included in this category. And will everybody please remember I did not say all wives are weak-minded, although in looking at some husbands there may be reason to wonder about a few.

Still, I see no harm in warning husbands that national publicity was given recently to the despicable actions of a wife in Denver, a thing that might very well appeal to a large number of wives just because it was especially diabolical.

This wife found a blue garter in her husband's luggage after a business trip, said nothing about it, then baked it into the dressing of a turkey she had prepared for him. When he found it on his plate he had a heart attack.

About the only place you can find a garter these days is at one of the few surviving burlesque shows where a painted houri is likely to toss one into a gentleman's lap, and this is exactly what happened to this husband, and I believe him when he says it. But he was divorced anyway.

This serving of incriminating evidence at meals has horrifying possibilities. Men are always borrowing matches and I sometimes pick up a paper of them bearing the insignia of some dive I wouldn't be caught dead in. Perhaps a guy has said, "Keep 'em, Bub, I've got more." To find these under my eggs some morning certainly would put a strain on what is laughingly known as marital relations around here.

Forgotten Romance Recalled

Suppose some forgotten romance of the dim past should be brought to a husband's mind because the girl, now a full-blown woman, maybe a full-blown widow, drops him a friendly note which touches nostalgically on events of the old days. He puts it in his pocket, intending to show it to his wife for the laughs, forgets about it and then finds it in his mashed potatoes some night. Delicately constituted men have fallen dead after lesser shocks.

Now let's take a man who has been telling his wife that his take-home pay after all deductions is $78.62 a week. One day she finds an empty pay envelope with the cashier's computations on its face showing plainly that he has been getting $88.62 right along. This she tucks into a peanut butter sandwich with a leaf of lettuce and puts it in his lunch box. A man can lose half a dozen fingers in a punchpress after such treatment.

None of this stuff has ever happened around here, but there have been some interesting possibilities from time to time. For example, returning late one night from my labors I found a pair of red shoes on the sidewalk at my front gate. They were obviously feminine and pretty well worn, indicating that their owner led a gay and uninhibited life. I brought them into the house, tossed them in a chair and went to bed.

All that hapened next morning was a little screaming, such as, "Where is the woman who goes with these shoes?" But they could have shown up with the roast that evening.

On Broadway —by Walter Winchell

The Headliners

Long before Sputnik began its dizzy journey, a trip to the stars was full of fascination.

From the depths of obscurity to the heights of stardom encompassed the ageless magic of every Cinderella tale . . . In this case, Cindy is named Lena Horne.

About 18 years ago, there was a lovely, ambitious girl working for her break-and-butter in a revue titled: "Blackbirds of 1939." Of course, the chorine was Miss Horne, who was then earning a lavish $45 weekly. And now, as they say in Hollywood, we fade to 1957. Our heroine is making her first appearance in a Broadway show since "Blackbirds." She is still lovely—and a major star. She is coming to town in a musical titled "Jamaica."...The girl who once earned $45-a-week as a chorine now has enough star-power to make a show a hit before it opens. Thanks to Miss Horne, the Golden Girl, her show's advance sale exceeds $1,500,000.

The public's fascination with stars has almost the unbearable wonder of a child with his first toy. Consequently, millions of words were published in an effort to discover whether Marlon Brando's bride is or isn't an Indian charmer. After all, what does it mater where Mrs. Brando comes from—so long as she went into his heart? . . . A comment Brando made several months ago is applicable to his situation today: "Today East is West, and those who don't accept that, or are ignorant of that fact, are the footdraggers of our civilization, and will be sorely blistered and scarred when that realization comes to pass."

In brief, people are people—everywhere. And Cupid has never been bounded by geography.

William Saroyan's latest contrib to the theatre is "The Cave Dwellers." Saroyan is a rare alphabet-scrambler. Filling a blank page with words comes easy to him, For example, his biggest hit, "The Time of Your Life," was written in 6 days. He intended creating a 6-act play and wrote one act a day. Eventually, it was cut to 5 acts. Equally remarkable, "Time of Your Life" was purchased by a producer sight unseen.

Wall Street's humpty-dumpty course has again demonstrated a single forceful fact about the stock market. There are no real experts on the market—the pros are only slightly less ignorant than amateurs. As Bernard Baruch once pointed out: "No one, not even the most experienced trader, economist or business man can predict with certainty the course of the stock market. Whether stocks rise and fall, is determined by innumerable factors, forces and elements, by economic conditions, the actions of governments, the state of international affairs, the emotions of people—even the vagaries of the weather."

In short, the stock market represents one gigantic quiz contest.

Marie Torre, the Herald Tribune's radio-tv colyumiss, is being threatened with a jail term for refusing to divulge a source of information . . . Of course a reporter's protection for his sources of information represents a defense of the free press . . . Without sources of information, there cannot be freedom since such protection enables a reporter to function.

Joanne Dru To Discuss Film Role

By HARRISON CARROLL

Hollywood — Joanne Dru gets a trip to London, all expenses paid, to discuss a part in "Rain of Fear," which producer Joe Kaufman plans to shoot after finishing Lana Turner's "Another Time, Another Place."

Joanne Dru

Joanne and Lana are close friends, so the two girls will see London on the arm of Del Armstrong. He was her favorite Holywood date before he went to England with Lana's company.

At Twentieth Century-Fox, producer Charles Brackett was showing the studio to the wife of Indonesia's film censor. The lady said Indonesians love Hollywood pictures except for shots revealing players in a state of undress.

So what happened?

So the party arrived on "The Gift of Love" set just as Lauren Bacall and Bob Stack were playing a honeymoon scene. Lauren was in bed and Bob was in undershirt and shorts.

Speaking of Lauren, she still has no buyer for her $275,000 home, but she expects to be moved into her smaller, new place by Nov. 1.

I asked her again if she and Frank Sinatra are about to announce their engagement.

"I'm not the announcing type," she laughed. "Besides, Frank and I have no plans."

The Eddie Fishers have been given a two-month extension before they have to move out of their recently sold home. Makes it easier, because Eddie is working on his TV shows and Debbie is in the middle of her U-I picture, "For Love or Money."

I hear Arthur Cameron will loan a house for a big party to be given Nov. 2 for director Alfred Hitchcock.

Can Hardly Believe It—Joan Crawford, who used to be frightened to death of air travel, has flown 68,000 miles with husband Alfred Steele since last spring.

They were here for a day en route to an International Industrial Conference in San Francisco, and will be back later in the month.

The redecoration of their New York apartment (they had to rebuild the top story of the building) finally is nearing completion.

Joan says several new pictures are under discussion to follow "The Story of Esther Costello," but nothing is definite as yet.

To this story, Bishop adds the postscript, "Las Vegas is the only spot in the world where you'll find ladies with chinchilla wraps and diamonds fishing for nickels in a slot machine.".

Fact Sheet Distributed

HARRISBURG — Up-to-date facts and figures sheets are being prepared by the Pennsylvania Department of Commerce for every county in Pennsylvania.

Secretary of Commerce William R. Davlin said the up-to-date summaries "are vital factors in helping us talk, with authority, to industries contemplating bringing factories to Pennsylvania."

The fact and figures sheets give a broad picture of conditions in a given area, such as bank deposits, taxes, highways, railroads and airports, retail trade, population, labor availability and the major types of manufacturing.

One of a number of "sales tools" used by the Commerce Bureau of Industrial Development, the facts and figures sheet is supplemented by such items as a summary of the Pennsylvania Plan of 100 per cent financing for factory buildings, a plant location services brochure, a summary of the industrial development projects announced during 1956, a brochure showing available plants and industrial sites and an informational bulletin describing the Pennsylvania Industrial Development Assistance Act.

Backed with this type of material—plus a five-man research staff—a crack team of Pennsylvania "salesmen" are in daily contact with industrialists in many parts of the nation, Davlin said.

How We Rate 'em

By Dick Dunkel

Look for another wild weekend in the rollicking Big Ten, where the top seven teams rate within 10 points and upset-maddened coaches are making reservations in the paper dolly ward.

For example here's how three of next Saturday's league games shape up on average performance to date, as shown by the Power Index:

Wisconsin 1 over Ohio State, Minnesota 3 over Michigan, and Michigan State 4 over Illinois.

Iowa, Big Ten leader and national No. 2 rater, may escape the squirrel cage this week. The Hawkeyes will play Northwestern over whom they stand by 28 points.

Meanwhile No. 1 Oklahoma will be stacking its 118.1 rating against Colorado's 90.2—a difference of virtually 28 points. An increase in that margin will bring a corresponding jump in the Sooner rating.

No. 3 Mississippi, also anxious to advance, has a 16-point ratio over its Saturday adversary, Arkansas.

The Power Index reflects comparative records for this season to date and is not necessarily a forecast. However the higher rating team has won in 77.5 per cent of 961 games, omitting ties, covered to date. Following are the pars, or rating differences, in other big games this week:

Thursday: South Carolina 12 over Clemson.
Friday night: Miami, Fla. 19 over Kansas.

Saturday

EAST—Army 16 over Virginia, Navy 30 over Penn, Syracuse 12 over Penn State, Dartmouth 25 over Harvard, Yale 13 over Colgate, Princeton 5 over Cornell.

MIDWEST—Purdue 26 over Miami, O.; Notre Dame 5 over Pittsburgh, Missouri 25 over Nebraska, TCU 37 over Marquette.

SOUTH—Duke 5 over N. C. State, Rice 3 over Texas, Auburn 15 over Houston U., Texas A & M 7 over Baylor, LUS 6 over Florida, Miss. State 19 over Alabama, Kentucky 10 over Georgia, Ga. Tech 19 over Tulane W. Virginia 17 over W & M, No. Carolina 23 over Wake Forest, Tennessee 3 over Maryland.

FAR WES T— UCLA 16 over Stanford. Oregon State 18 over Washington, Oregon 3 over California, Wash. State 9 over So. Califronia.

Power Index pairings for the weekend's games follow:

Dick Dunkel's COLLEGE FOOTBALL POWER INDEX

EXPLANATION: The Power Index ratings are past performance averages. Example: a 50.0 team has been 10 scoring points stronger, per game, than a 40.0 team, against equally rated opposition.

Bartonsville Shop Looted By Thieves

STROUDSBURG State police said yesterday that burglars broke in at Cyphers Electrical Shop on Route 611 at Bartonsville and stole two portable TV sets, an electric clock and a steam iron valued at more than $200.

The burglary occurred sometime Wednesday night or early yesterday morning, troopers said. Police released the following descriptions of part of the stolen goods:

Both TV sets have 14-inch screens. One is bronze and ivory finish. The other is green and ivory.

The clock is a regular self-starting electric clock finished in brown plastic.

Helicopter To Drop Scrip Money

MONEY will rain down from the sky in East Stroudsburg tomorrow.

It's something new in the way of promotion ideas sponsored by the East Stroudsburg Businessmen's Assn.

During the early afternoon, a helicopter loaded with ping-pong balls will appear over the borough. In the balls will be scrip money valued at several hundred dollars.

At 2:30 p.m., the helicopter will fly up and down Washington St., between Courtland and Crystal Sts., dumping its cargo on the crowd of people expected to assemble there.

The scrip, ranging in value from 25 cents to a dollar, may be redeemed for merchandise at any of the cooperating stores, according to Frank Butler, president of the East Stroudsburg Businessmen's Assn.

Velasquez, the 17th century Spanish portrait painter, also did landscapes, classical and religious works.

Weber Wins Free Trip To Europe

B. E. WEBER, of East Stroudsburg, has been awarded an all-expense-paid vacation to England, France and Germany. He and his wife will leave Nov. 13 and be gone two weeks.

Weber, Studebaker-Packard dealer in East Stroudsburg, was one of 20 dealers in the United States who won the free flights to Europe in the Summer Sales Derby sponsored by Studebaker-Packard.

Just before the start of the trip, the winners will gather in New York for a banquet at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel. The Mercedes-Benz factory will be one of the places to be visited during the group's tour of Europe.

FOUR delegates from Bartonsville are representing their community at the 37th annual meeting for stockholders of Cooperative G. L. F. Exchange, Inc., in Syracuse, N. Y. The two-day session opened yesterday.

Attending from here are Mr. and Mrs. Jacob L. Learn, Mr. and Mrs. James N. Canfield.

Some 3,000 committeemen and G. L. F. members will vote for seven directors, all farmers, and will hear reports from the board of directors and management, on operation of G. L. F., the country's largest farmer purchasing cooperative.

WHAT IS probably a record for continuous advertising in American newspapers has been set by Bell-Ans, familiar little black antacid tablet. Bell & Company have not missed one year since they began advertising in 1915. In the previous decade Bell-ans was sold only on doctors' prescription.

"When we took the prescription of newspaper advertising," says Joseph G. Dodge, present Bell head, "sales greatly increased. We think it appropriate that our famous tablet which gives fast, sure relief from indigestion should be advertised in a way that gives fast, sure relief from sales-building problems. We are as proud of our 42-year record of advertising as of our pleased customers. We will continue to use newspapers because we believe that if a person reads anything at all, he reads a newspaper."

STAFF MANAGER Walter J. Gretkowski, of the local office of the Prudential Insurance Company of America, has announced that William C. Fisher has been appointed to an agency position with the company.

Fisher, a Stroudsburg native, is the son of Mrs. Susan Fisher and the late Lawrence Fisher. A graduate of East Stroudsburg High School, he is a World War II veteran having served in the Army for three years.

Fisher is married to the former Leona Hay of Delaware Water Gap. They are the parents of a son, William Scott Fisher. The family makes its home in Delaware Water Gap.

JOSEPH KASPERSKI was a local winner in the Atlantic Refining Co.'s Imperial Gasoline Sales Contest. Kasperski operates his Atlantic Service Station at Courtland and Analomink Sts., in East Stroudsburg. He has been located there for three years.

Family's Luck Turns To Good

HONG KONG, Oct. 24 (AP) — The Tong family had a string of bad luck ending with a stroke of good luck this week.

The father, a laborer, broke a hand. A 4-year-old Tong was hurt falling out of bed. His brother was hit by a car.

Then young Kuong, fretting over the family misfortunes, fell from a four-story rooftop but landed on a canopy just over the pavement and was unhurt.

Ven. Dean Z. Stevenson

Archdeacon Stevenson Here Sunday

THE Venerable Dean L. Stevenson, Archdeacon of Bethlehem, will be the preacher at Christ Episcopal Church, Seventh St., Stroudsburg, on Sunday at the 8, 9:45, and 11 a.m. services. Archdeacon Stevenson will speak on the mission churches of the Diocese of Bethlehem, as part of the Every Member Canvass campaign being conducted by Christ Church.

Archdeacon Stevenson was appointed to his past last May by Rt. Rev. Frederick J. Warnecke, D. D., Bishop of Bethlehem. Before that he was dean of Leonard Hall in Bethlehem. Archdeacon Stevenson administers the missions' properties and supervises the mission clergy, as well as directs the opening of new missionary work. The deacons of the diocese are under his care, and he is in charge of the diocesian records. In the absence of the bishop, he institutes new rectors in their parishes.

The office of Archdeacon is of great antiquity. Originally the Archdeacon was the chief of the deacons attached to the bishop's cathedral, and his duty was to preach and to supervise the deacon and their work.

Close To Bishop

Though he was only in deacons' orders his close relationship to the bishop gave him great importance. Thus beginning with the fifth century A. D. in the Eastern Churches, and somewhat later in the Western Churches, the Archdeacon came to assume much of the administrative, supervisory, and disciplinary powers of the bishop.

In the Episcopal Churches in the British Isles, independent as they were of the Western and Eastern Churches on the Continent, the office of Archdeacon first occurred in 803 A. D. It did not become general until after 1066 when the Norman Conquest of the British Isles eventually brought the formerly independent Episcopal Churches under the jurisdiction of the Bishop of Rome. In the Episcopal Church the Archdeacon is now always in priests' orders.

Good Will Rotary Aim, Club Told

ROTARY Clubs in 102 countries throughout the free world are united in an endeavor to promote international understanding, good will and peace.

That was the message of Dr. W. R. Toewe of Stroudsburg, governor of District 741 of Rotary International, in addressing the local Rotary Club yesterday, following a conference with the local Rotary officers and committee chairmen.

In addition to the activities of Rotary's 9,500 clubs within their own communities to promote this objective, Dr. Toewe explained, Rotary International has spent more than $2,500,000 in recent years through its program of student fellowships, which enables outstanding college graduates to study for one year in countries other than their own, as Rotary ambassadors of good will.

957 Fellowships

Since 1947, when this program was established, 957 Rotary Fellowships have been awarded to students in 61 countries for study in 42 countries, with grants averaging $2,500. We in this district, have had students from Pittston, Kingston, Towanda, and Scranton studying obroad.

Dr. Toewe urged the local Rotarians to attend the Rotary District Conference to be held in the Poconos in May, and to make plans for the Rotary International convention to be held in Dallas, Texas.

Gray Ladies, Hospital Staff Honor Mrs. Mott For Seven-Year Service

Tributes from the General Hospital staff and the members of the Red Cross Gray Ladies Service which she has headed for seven years were heaped upon Mrs. Charles Mott at the meeting of the Gray Ladies at the General Hospital on Tuesday night.

Mrs. Ingraham Named

The post which Mrs. Mott resigned will be filled by Mrs. Harold Ingraham, it was announced by Mrs. Walter Dreher, chairman of the Red Cross Volunteer Services. Mrs. Frank Reusswig will be assistant chairman.

The surprise tributes followed an orientation course for six new members of the Gray Ladies Corps. Dr. Claus Jordan outlined the professional and ethical attitudes necessary for a smooth integration of the service of the Gray Ladies and the hospital. Harry Smith outlined the rules of the hospital itself.

Charles Bensinger, past-chairman of the Monroe County chapter, sketched in a brief history of the Red Cross.

All of the speakers stressed the vital role which members of the Gray Ladies play in the hospital and in the Red Cross program.

Token Gifts

Personal tribute to Mrs. Charles Mott for her dedication to service, her cheerful and efficient leadership the organization and administration of the Gray Ladies Service over the past seven years, was paid by Frank S. LaBar, president of the General Hospital Board.

As a token of the personal appreciation, he presented her with a gift of a cranberry bowl from Dr. Claus Jordan, chief of the surgical staff; Dr. Charles Flagler, chief of the medical staff and himself.

A matching set of cranberry glasses were presented as a token of affection from the Gray Ladies themselves.

Recruits and Veterans

New members of the Gray Ladies Service are Mrs. Alex Bensinger, Mrs. Howard Canfield, Mrs. Karl Dresdner, Mrs. John LaBar, Mrs. Kenneth Roeder, Mrs. Henry Surrey and Mrs. Frederick Trumpbour.

During the meeting four-year chevrons were presented to Mrs. Fred Blaker, Mrs. Anthony Harlacher, Mrs. Frank LaBar and Mrs. Joseph Wallace.

Five-year pins were presented to Mrs. Nelson Beers, Mrs. Fred Blaker, Mrs. Kenneth Carlton, Mrs. Harold Ingraham and Mrs. Evan Reese.

AT THE SAME OLD POST she has held for seven years is Mrs. Charles Mott, center, who was honored at the meeting of the Gray Ladies Service of the Red Cross this week. Hospital staff and the Gray Ladies paid tribute to the retiring chairman. Shown with her are Mrs. Walter Dreher, Red Cross Chairman of Volunteer Services, left; and standing, Harry Smith, superintendent, and Frank S. LaBar president of the General Hospital board. Wedding At Mt. Pocono Methodist

Mt. Pocono — Miss Louise Meloney, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Frank Meloney of Salem, N. J. and William D. Hutchinson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer E. Hutchinson, of Minersville, will be united in marriage by a double ring ceremony officiated by The Rev. Clyde Kauffman, pastor of the Congregational Church, Minersville, Pa. assisted by The Rev. James F. Mort, pastor, in the Mount Pocono Methodist Church on Saturday afternoon, October 26, at 2 p.m.

Miss Meloney will be given in marriage by her father A. Frank Meloney. Mrs. Richard Watson will be matron of honor. Bridesmaids are Miss Emily Price, Miss Marion Turnich and Mrs. Gerald Miller.

Louis Price, Jr. will serve as best man.

Soloist will be Miss Jane Cave and Mrs. Joseph Williams will be organist. Traditional wedding music will be played; "The Lord's Prayer by Malotte" will be sung during the wedding ceremony.

Miss Meloney is a graduate of Stroudsburg High School and of Cedar Crest College, Allentown. She has been employed as a dietitian at Germantown

Mr. Hutchinson is a graduate of Minersville High School, Moravian College, and Harvard Law School. He is an attorney.

Snake Hunt At Gap PTA Program

Delaware Water Gap Parent-Teachers Assn. will have a change in the announced program for their meeting on Monday night at 8 at the school. Clarence (Buck) Pipher will show pictures in color of snake and fox hunts.

All parents are invited to attend, particularly the fathers who should find the program of particular interest. George Regan, president, will preside at the brief business meeting. Refreshments will be served.

Advertise in The Daily Record.

Halloween Party Friday At Beakleyville

Beakleyville Baptist Church Sunday School will hold a Halloween party on Friday, October 25 at 7:30 p.m. John R. Wilson will judge all contestants in costume.

There will be games, prizes and refreshments. Members and friends are invited and asked to bring doughnuts.

Special Service Tonight At Mount Pocono

Mount Pocono — Tonight at 8 the Woman's Society of Christian Service will hold its Week of Prayer and Self-denial Service in the church sanctuary. Mrs. Franklin C. Miller, director of music, will preside at the organ. Mrs. Patrick Horgan, president of the WSCS, and Mrs. Homer Jones will lead devotions. Mrs. Robert Latzo will be soloist.

A talk on "The Home Mission Field" will be given by Mrs. James F. Mort and a talk on "The Foreign Mission Field" (Japan) will be given by Mrs. Elmer O. Headrick, Jr. Meditation and Prayer will be in charge of Mrs. Louis T. Powers and Mrs. Earl H. Dennis. Ushers are Mrs. Paul Courtright and Mrs. Robert Newhard.

Immediately following all women present will be invited to enroll as members of the Altar Guild at a meeting held in the church school rooms with Mrs. Paul Courtright and Mrs. James F. Mort as co-chairmen.

The next regular meeting of the Mount Pocono WSCS is scheduled for Wednesday evening, November 13 at 8 p.m.

Democratic Club

Mount Pocono — The Pocono Mountains Democratic Club will hold a public meeting, Oct. 29, at 8 p.m. at Happy Landing dining room, Mt. Pocono. Candidates for the various offices will attend, and everyone is welcome. There will be refreshments.

Gary, Ind., once had a law which made it illegal to board a street car for four hours after eating garlic.

Republicans, Democrats To Share Smithfield Platform

Months of preparation will come to a climax in the Know Your Candidate Night at the Smithfield School on Monday night at 8 o'clock.

All of the candidates whose name will appear on the ballot were invited early in the Fall, and letters of reminder were sent to them last week. In addition, every registered voter in the township this week received a letter, explaining the program and inviting them to attend.

Candidates have been invited to be at the school before the meeting for a cup of coffee and a chance to meet the committee in charge. The meeting will start promptly at 8 p.m.

A member of the committee will explain the duties of each office and the compensation, if any. Each candidate will then be given a five-minute period to speak to the voters.

Harold T. Hamlen is chairman of the political program committee which includes Alfred J. Baxter, Frank Dreisbach, Richard MacDonough and Omar H. Michaels.

Reservations Due Today For Breakfast Sun.

Major business transacted at the meeting of St. Matthew's Altar and Rosary Society were the plans for the Communion breakfast to be held at the Penn-Stroud Hotel next Sunday at 10:15, following mass at St. Luke's Church, to be held this Sunday only at 8:30 a.m. standard time.

In addition to the program already announced, Mary Ann Reap of Honesdale, a student at Marywood College, will be soloist with Miss Joan Marie Wilkinson, as accompanist. Reservations may be made with Mrs. Truman Burnett or Mrs. Arthur Bomberger before tonight.

The program for the society meeting on Wednesday night was a Masquerade Party, arranged by Mrs. Theodore Viechnicki, with the members guessing the identity of the selected masqueraders. Mrs. Joseph Chobey and Mrs. Harold Goldy were ways and means chairmen.

Refreshments were served with Mrs. Ervin Bush and Mrs. John Bachman, chairmen, assisted by Mrs. William Adelman, Mrs. Anthony Alberts, Mrs. Frances Ace, Mrs. Harry Ahnert Sr., Mrs. Harry Ahnert Jr., Mrs. Robert Ahnert, Mrs. John Arnst, Mrs. Robert Baird, Mrs. John Baujan, Mrs. Charles Bensinger, Mrs. Samuel Bittenbender, Mrs. Carl Bleck, Mrs. Miles Bossard Jr., Mrs. Arthur Bomberger, Mrs. Edward Boushell and Mrs. Jack Boushell.

It's Back-To-School Night For Parents

The parents of all students in the Stroud Union High School are invited to an open house, sponsored by the Parent-Teachers Assn. on Monday night. In addition to the usual program, whereby the parents follow a typical day's schedule for their own child, they will also be given a chance to see the expanded school plant.

The school building will be open at 7 p.m. At 7:30, the school bell will call for assembly in the school auditorium where instructions will be given. At 7:45, the parents will go to their child's home room.

There they will find their own child's daily schedule, meet the homeroom teachers, and be given a chance to join the PTA.

At 8 p.m. the seven ten-minute periods will begin ending at 9:15 with refreshments to follow in the new cafeteria.

During the periods when their child would have "study hall", the parents may visit Miss Joyce Behney and T. Manning Curtis in the gymnasium; Robert Logan in the art room; Robert Hawik, John Montgomery and Albert Cross in the industrial art department; Miss Janet Bender in the old library; Numa Snyder and John Pile in the music rooms; or Miss Elizabeth Martin in room 2.

Hostesses for the social hour will be Mrs. John Foelker, Mrs. Murray Blutman, Mrs. James Hagerty, Mrs. Claude Cyphers and Mrs. Helen Teeter.

Mrs. Paul Howard Hinton (Lens Art)

Miss Ruth Lohman Bride Of Paul Hinton In Bangor

Bangor — Miss Ruth Marie Lohman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Lohman of Bangor RD 1, was married to Paul Howard Hinton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Hinton, also of Bangor RD 1, at the Trinity Lutheran Church at 2:30 on October 19.

Rev. William E. Dennis performed the ceremony with Miss Mona Rutt as organist and Mrs. Arlington Stiles, Mount Bethel, as soloist.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a ballerina-length gown with a lace bodice and a full tulle skirt with a lace peplum, trimmed with glitter. A lace trimmed cap held her fingertip veil of silk illusion and she carried a white Bible with an orchid.

Jaquelin Schlegel of Wind Gap as maid of honor wore a ballerina gown of nile green tulle and lace with a picture hat to match. Her bouquet was of violet carnations. Mrs. Earl Hower of Bangor and Miss Joyce Lohman, Bangor RD 1, both sisters of the bride, were bridesmaids with ballerina gowns of tulle and lace in violet and gold. They carried gold and green carnations.

Jean Eichlin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward I. Eichlin of East Bangor, a niece of the bride, was flower girl. She wore pink lace and tulle and carried a basket of mixed flowers. Paul Shoemaker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Warren Shoemaker, Mount Bethel, a cousin of the bride, was ring bearer.

Clayton Hinton of Bangor served as his brother's best man. Ushers were brothers-in-law of the bride, James W. Shoemaker and Edward T. Eichlin.

After a reception at Belfast-Edelman's Sportsman's Assn., the newlyweds left for a trip through the New England States. They will reside in Mount Bethel. The bride is employed at the Hillside Blouse Co., Roseto, and the bridegroom at the J&R Blouse Co., Roseto.

Just Between Us — —

—By Bobby Westbrook

You know, we haven't talked about people for a long time but some of the news about some of my favorite people is so startling that I think we ought to.

One of the stories sweeping the Skitler's Bowling League yesterday afternoon was why Henrietta Baldwin is in the hospital. Seems on Wednesday afternoon she was melting butter to bake one of her famous cakes when it caught fire. In an attempt to salvage it, she burned her right hand and arm so badly that she'll be in the hospital for some time.

Everybody was wincing in sympathy—and missing her like the dickens. She is always so thoughtful of everyone else that I imagine she'll be swamped with sympathy, but that's getting it the most painful way I can think of.

Another item I picked up was about Rev. Ernest Campbell, formerly of the Stroudsburg Presbyterian Church. He's been named to a three-man inter-faith committee to negotiate with both sides in the York-Hoover four-month-old strike. Other members of the committee are a priest and a rabbi.

Didn't need hear-say for the next one: I could see for myself that these months of concentrating on being a mother hadn't cut down Sig Butler's power bowling one bit. Zowie!

And I saw for myself, too, how well Mrs. Harold Croasdale is managing to walk after all those months with a broken leg.

Plan Banquet, Entertainment For Veterans

Two future engagements were planned at the meeting of Gateway Auxiliary to Post 56, Society of the 28th Division, at their meeting at the VFW on Sunday afternoon.

The first is the annual banquet to be held this Saturday at the VFW Home with Mrs. Lillian Mosher as chairman.

The second is to be an entertainment for the patients at Wilkes-Barre Veterans Hospital on Sunday, November 3. It will be given in memory of Howard Mount and will be presented by Mrs. Howard Mount, immediate past president.

In other business, it was reported that pecans have been ordered by the chairman, Sarah Frantz; that the meetings will be listed on the Ann Logan Society calendar. Mrs. Christina Haas gave a report of the national executive board meeting held in Harrisburg. Margaret Mosher, Ethel McCarrick and Wanda Haas also attended.

It was announced that Margaret Mosher, past president, is ill at her home and that Bess Marek is recovering from an illness.

A buffet supper was held with the men of the post following the respective meetings.

The Junior Woman's Club's rummage sale will be held today and tomorrow at 314 Main St., Stroudsburg, for the benefit of their welfare fund.

The sale will be held today from 9 .m. to 9 p.m. and on Saturday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

This year, the membership of the club has been divided into project teams to raise funds for the club's welfare program. Mrs. Richard Primrose is chairman of the Roses who are in charge of the sale: Joan Brown, Margaret Delk, Donna Hornibrook, Barbara Hummel, LaVonne Kupice, Anna Lazo, Mary Jane Lindsey, Marilyn Litts, Marie Metzgar, Linda Pipher, Ruth Popkin, Pat Rauchenberger, Henrietta Reasor, Lois Sheeley, Mary Jane Snyder, Emma Jane Strunk and Joyce Wilson.

West End Legion Aux. Sponsors Drive

The West End American Legion Aux. 927 is sponsoring a magazine drive. The proceeds will be used to purchase sick room equipment to be made available to the public for free home use whenever it is needed.

Mrs. Warren Burskey, Aux. president, announced that accredited representatives will have letters of identification signed by the unit officers, and that residents should ask to see this identification.

The auxiliary already has sick room equipment purchased from previous drives, which can be borrowed for temporary use, free of charge. Mrs. Margaret Shubert of Gilbert is in charge of arrangements for the equipment.

Bake Sale Saturday

Tannersville — The Women's Society of Christian Service of the Tannersville Methodist Church will hold a bake sale at Metzgar's Store in Tannersville on Saturday beginning at 1 p.m.

AAUW Book Fair Opens Wide Variety Offered

The annual Book Fair sponsored by the Stroudsburg branch of the American Assn. of University Women opened yesterday afternoon in the basement of Wyckoff-Sears with a wide selection of books to offer the public. Top price yesterday was fifty cents.

Today the price will be dropped to 25 cents and on Saturday to 10 cents, but many of the bargains were going fast yesterday. They included modern novels and many of the classics, in sets and in single volumes.

This year the college and school text book division is especially rich in selections. Rare and old book buyers can also find some antique treasures.

Also in great numbers were the children's classics in matched sets and in individual copies. National geographics in mint condition were selling at give-away prices.

Mrs. Wendell Wicks and Mrs. Robert Schaffer are chairmen of this year's book fair, and are being assisted in selling by AAUW members. All proceeds of the sale are used for the national AAUW Fellowship Program which provides fellowships for outstanding women students in this country and scholarship grants for women of other countries who want to study here.

The Book Fair will be open during store hours today and tomorrow.

In Sayre Hospital

Mrs. Lulu Lanterman, owner of the Green Lantern Inn, East Stroudsburg, is a patient at the Robert Packer Hospital, in Sayre. She hopes to return to her home on Milford Road in another ten days.

Bowlers Have Party For Mrs. Leffler

A farewell dinner for Mrs. Louis Leffler was held at Gap View Inn Wednesday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Leffler are leaving Stroudsburg to live in Zanesville, Ohio.

Giving the party for Mrs. Leffler were the members of two bowling teams to which she has belonged. Attending were Mrs. Richard Altemose, Mrs. Lester Abeloff, Ruth Bush, Mrs. Vincent Shafer, Mrs. Clarence Pipher, Mrs. Edward Wagner and Josephine McGowan.

The guest of honor was presented with a farewell gift by those in attendance.

The Wyckoff Shopper
"the friendly store"
A.B. Wyckoff
STROUDSBURG, PA.

Noticing chicken chow mein on our Tea Room menu, I dropped back to dine with Hazel Henning, Ann Williams, and Elsie Hay the other noon hour. Hazel showed me a charming postcard received from "Papa" Wyckoff, who had mailed it from Holland. An unusual feature were the embroidered trousers and skirts worn by the little Dutch children of the picture. While I ate my chow mein and sipped a cup of tea (coffee doesn't go with chow mein, somehow or other) Hazel busied herself on a platter of food that a lumberman might stow away. The wonderful part about it is that it was ALL included in her diet to lose weight. Working on the principle of maintaining a perfect balance between fats, proteins, and such, so that every bit of food intake is properly utilized, Hazel's doctor has worked out three square meals a day (and I mean SQUARE) which keep her comfortably filled, fit as a fiddle, and at just the right weight . . . This pay day I mean to buy one of the cross-stitched linen tablecloths in Amy Eilenberger's art goods department. Working cross stitch can be very relaxing, and I'm in the mood to begin something large this time—at the moment, I've no need for any more dresser scarfs . . . Also in Amy's department I notice little kits of 100% pure, French long hair Angora, for the making of collars, priced at only 1.00. Pearls for trim are included. Many persons are buying them to complete before Christmas. Another 1.00 gift item from the art goods department is the kit with all the makings of a pair of bootees. What better gift for a baby, or mother-to-be, than Bootees that are Beauties? . . . The girls in our housewares department report that Mary Hitesman was in for a few words of greeting today. Mary's been ill for the past month, but hopes to return to work within the next couple of weeks. In time for the Christmas rush!!!!! . . . It's rather frightening when you realize that the month of October is all but gone—which reminds me to stock up on candies and apples for the Hallowe'en prowlers who will soon be ringing the bells and scaring us out of our wits . . . Our store has teapots galore right now, and some of them are unusually attractive. The gift department has several styles imported from England, some with matching sugar and creamer. Three piece sets are priced at 7.98. Then we have the famous Hall teapots in our housewares department, priced in the neighborhood of 4.00—beautiful indeed, but on the heavy side. Some have matching cookie jars. At 98c, we have six cup teapots in shiny dark glaze with a smattering of colored flowers—traditional teapots if ever we've seen them, from Japan. Also from Japan we have 1.00 teapots in white with pink, aqua or yellow, and a tracing of gold. These are easy to handle, not too heavy, and a good buy—unless you are a tea fancier who wants to do things up really flossy. As a matter of fact, I bought a pink one just the other day, because while I'm not much of a tea drinker, there are always people stopping by who prefer it to coffee . . . Did you ever stop to think about words? Take "HOUSE," for instance. House has US in it, but it's not nearly as warm and cozy a word as "HOME" and home has only ME . . . Times have certainly changed since I was a first grader. In those days of 37 years ago, we youngsters coaxed for pennies and nickels. But when we had our grab bag during Women's Days the children turned up their noses at ten cent packages and purchased 25 centers. So—on future Women's Days we won't be going to the trouble of wrapping any cheaper items. Today's children don't know what dimes are—anything south of a quarter doesn't exist . . . Chunky, semi-precious stones set in gilt wire and attached to gold-filled key chains are cute 1.00 gift items. You'll find these in our accessories department inside the front door . . . Here it is not quite 3 p.m. and I'm ready for a siesta. No need for me to take sleeping pills these days. I want the stay awake variety—and they'd better be powerful, the way I'm feeling!

Drivers Fail To Use Eyes Correctly

CHICAGO, Oct. 25 (AP)—Five tips on how to see your way safely through traffic hazards were offered today at the Na- tional Safety Congress.

They were given by Elbert Hugunin of the training staff fo the Northwestern University Traffic Institute.

He said experiments indicate four of each five drivers fail to see motoring dangers soon enough because they don't use their eyes correctly.

Here are Hugunin's tips:

Aim high in steering. Sit be- hind the steering wheel erect and with your back well sup- ported and with an adequate field of vision.

Get the big picture. Most drivers think they watch well ahead while actually their eyes are fixed on the car in front.

Keep Eyes Moving

Keep your eyes moving. De- velop a habit of scanning areas to the rear, far ahead, nearby and on both sides. See in quick glances.

Leave yourself an out. Adjust your speed so you have a stop- ping margin and an open space, at least on one side, so you can swerve away from sudden dan- ger.

Make sure the other motorists see you. Give early warning with your horn or blinker lights. Nev- er assume the other driver won't do something unexpected. Don't count on traffic laws to protect you.

Nehru Assails Caste Riots

NEW DELHI, Oct. 24 (AP) — Prime Minister Nehru said to- day caste riots are damaging India's reputation abroad.

Nehru declared at a large out- door U. N. Day gathering that India talks big at the United Nations but is told it cannot solve the problem of its caste- ridden society at home.

He referred to riots last month between untouchables and caste Hindus in the Ramnad area of southern India, where 14 persons were killed.

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, sub- tract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

BILL Bailey, one of Stroudsburg High's athletic stars of not too long ago, is continuing his football career in great style on the service front.

Bill is a regular halfback on the U. S. Naval eleven at Newport, R. I., and has helped his team go undefeated in five straight contests.

Bailey, a fireman in the Navy, entered the service Jan. 27, 1955.

The Pennsylvania Teachers Football Conference is faced with the problem of naming a champion this year that may not have had the required four games played.

Hit by the wave of flu, the PFTC finds itself in the unusual position of getting this type winner because of cancellations which have hit four teams in the circuit.

No provisions in the loops constitution and by-laws were made about cancellations due to an unusual situation such as the illness epidemic.

The question of claiming these cancellations as forfeit wins has arisen, asserting that the team who requests the cancellation be given a loss and the other school involved in the calloff, a win.

Conference president Waldo Tippin of Clarion STC, said the matter will be discussed and resolved at the next meeting of the organization—Nov. 24-25 at Harrisburg.

This session will be held after the circuit completes its regular schedule of games.

From here it looks like the naming of a champ is out for this season. However, this loop has pulled the unexpected before, and is capable again.

A local golfer is being boosted for the position of head professional at Glen Brook Country Club. Persons in the know claim that all is needed is the local linksman to give his okay. His initials might be JK.

BOWLING TIDBITS — Daily Record of the Industrial League holds the season high mark for single and three-game series. The Newsboys hammered out a 972 and a 2728 to take top honors for the year in the circuit.

By winning, The Record stayed in a first place knot with Stroudsburg Garage. Russ Dennis, Jr.'s 200 and 201 which generated a 586 led the Greasemen back into the stalemate.

Biggest gains in averages, aside from Oscar Stuckey's seven point rise to 190, were produced by Dennis, Jr., 169 to 173; Kenny Barnes, 167 to 171; W. Buenzli, 158 to 163; and Harold Stetler and Ted Cramer 152 to 157 and 150 to 155 respectively.

Jim Harmon, Sr. held onto the average lead in the Commercial "B" League with a 185. He holds an eight-point edge over Russ Dennis, Jr., who owns a 177 norm. Tom Sommers, who had a 604 last week, moved into sixth place.

Ralph Van Why's 638 match enabled him to take over the lead in the Monroe Classic in the average chase with 187. He is followed by Frank Laise and Tom Sommers with 183 each.

Angelo P. DeSanto garnered himself a 659 series to lead the keglers in the Monroe Couty League this past week. Angelo put together games of 204, 222 and 233 for his top score. The 233 and 659 are high for the loop for the year.

Legion Auxiliary To Bowl Today

LEGION Auxiliary League will bowl today at the American Legion alleys, East Stroudsburg, starting at 7 and 9 p.m. The schedule:

7 p.m.—Alleys one and two—Musketeers vs. Four Squares; alleys three and four—Comets vs. Doozies.

Way To Look At It

ANNAPOLIS, Md., (AP)—Coach Eddie Erdelatz was straining to appear philosophical about his Navy football team's upset defeat by North Carolina. "You know," he mused, "there are millions of Chinese who don't know we lost. In fact, they didn't even know we were playing."

Panama Night Racing

PANAMA CITY, Panama (AP)—Night thoroughbred racing will be held on Saturday nights at the Hipodromo Presidente Remon in January. The programs will replace the regular Saturday afternoon programs at the new $6 million plant.

Cavaliers Put Unbeaten Log On Line In 8 P.M. Contest

AN ELEVEN which has powered is way past four straight opponents will be unbeaten East Stroudsburg High's foe today when the Cavaliers host Wilson Borough at Memorial Stadium. Game time is 8 p.m.

The Warriors, generated by three-fearsome threesome—backs Bobby Kline, Harold Helm and Ron Heinrich — have punched over 26 points or more in four straight outings since dropping their season opener to highly-touted Easton.

Eastburg's forces, coached by Jack Kist also have a trio of runners who in swift "jet pets," Carl (Corky) Smith, Roger Ray and Phil Simon.

Both squads are led by two adept quarterbacks on each side. Eastburg will feature Bob Herman and Charley Lupin, while Wilson signal-callers are Bobby Barr and Denny Elliot.

The contest shapes up as an offensive duel. However, the play of the lines of both teams has been superlative in the early goings.

Kist's proteges ended drills yesterday with a light signal workout. The Warriors of Jud Hall spent the day going over the Cavaliers offense and improving timing on their short punt and "T" plays.

Probable Starters

Kist announced last night thaat he will probably send Bob Stine (if sufficiently recovered from an ankle sprain) and Wes Werkheiser to the endposts. However, if Stine is sidelined Ray Uhl will take over the flank spot.

At tackles will be Doug Smith and Foster Ladlee, while Co-Captain Horace Cole and Denny Patti (also doubtful because of illness) or Larry Stettler. Tom Long will occupy the center berth.

The backfield will be either Lupin or Herman at quarterback; Co-Captain Ray and Simon or Smith at halves; and Don Miller or Smith at fullback. Miller will be a last minute switch, providing his injured knee is capable of standing up in game competition.

Wilson Lineup

Wilson will probably counter with Dick Young and Ron Haag, ends; Carl Berger and Jay Brotzman, tackles; Barry Walters and Dale Murray, guards; and Jim Smith, center.

Wilson's backfield will have Barr, Kline, Helm and Heinrich.

Sophomores Lead Clemson To Upset Win

COLUMBIA, S. C., Oct. 24 (AP)—Clemson's sophomore-studded second unit, led by quarterback Harvey White, blasted South Carlina for two touchdowns and an upset 13-0 win here today.

The unexpected Atlantic Coast Conference victory before a record "Big Thursday" crowd of 44,500 in the teams' 55th State Fair meeting also featured top defensive work by Clemson's first string unit, headed by end Ray Masneri.

Leads March

White ran for 21, passed to halfback Bill Mathis for 28 and caught halfback Sonny Quesenberry with a 15-yard touchdown throw in an 86-yard march just before the half ended.

White & Co., on the move again at the end of the third period, rolled 71 yards to score in four plays. The big play was White's 60-yard pass to end Whitey Jordan. Jordan caught the ball on the 15 but dropped it at the 1 as both he and the ball went out of bounds. Fullback Rudy Hayes popped it over on the next play. White converted.

ABC Aides To Vote On Proposals

MILWAUKEE, Oct. 24 (AP) — Delegates to the American Bowling Congress' annual convention in Syracuse, N.Y., next spring will vote on two proposals to change the format of the 55-year-old ABC Tournament, it was announced today.

An eight-man tournament committee heard the proposals here Sunday at a special meeting of 37 ABC representatives from throughout the nation. It will report its findings to the ABC Board of Directors and the convention during the week of April 20.

Establish

One proposal, suggested by John Sabo of Detroit, would establish a booster doubles and singles division to correspond with the present booster team division for teams with an 850 average or less.

The second, advanced by Fred Thoma Jr., of Peoria, Ill., would establish three classes in the tournament based on averages of entrants.

At present bowlers are divided into two team categories, open and booster, with doubles, singles and all-events on an optional one class basis.

Diddel, Platt Senior Finalists

PINEHURST, N. C., Oct. 24 (AP)—William H. Diddel, 73-year-old Carmel, Ind., golfer today scored a 1-up victory to gain tomorrow's semifinal round of the North and South Seniors golf championship.

Diddel defeated Benjamin F. Kraffard Jr. of Titusville, Pa., and tomorrow will play J. Wood Platt of Philadelphia, who today defeated Frank Ross of West Hartford, Conn., 4 and 2.

Wagner To Play Grove City

NEW YORK, Oct. 24 (AP)—Wagner of New York and Grove City, Pa. a couple of teams that had lost football opponents for Saturday because of the flu, today agreed to meet each other at Wagner.

Rough Easy To Find

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — After playing an inspection round at Minikahda course for the recent Walker Cup matches, Capt. Gerald Micklem of the British team was asked how he found the rough. "I find it very easily," Micklem answered wryly. "My troubles start when I try to get out."

'Hero' Snead, Demaret Hot In Far East

TOKYO, Friday, Oct. 25 (AP) — Golf interest, already at a feverish pitch, reached a new high today as the leading team of Sammy Snead and Jimmy Demaret teed off with the surprisingly strong Japanese runners-up in the second round of the international Canada Cup competition.

The luck of the draw paired the long driving U.S. favorites and the Japanese combination of Torakichi Nakamura and Koichi Ono in this second round "natural" before a gallery expected to reach more than 10,000.

Record Score

Snead, the hero of the Japanese fans because of his tremendous drives, fired a competitive course-record breaking 34-33-67 and Demaret equaled the mark with a 36-33—69 for a combined score of 136 in the opening round Thursday. This was five strokes better than the fine 141 total racked up by the home duo.

Nakamura, a 43-year old teaching pro, carded a 33-35—68 and Ono a 37-36—73, over the 6,895-yard, par 72 Kusumigaseki layout.

Thus the 45-year old Snead of White Sulphur Springs, W.Va., had a one stroke lead over Nakamura in the individual phase of the tournament. The unexpected battle between "long hit" Sam and the paunchy little Nakamura has stirred Tokyo as few sports events in the past.

4-Day Affair

The tournament is a 72-hole, four-day affair with the Canada Cup team and international trophy individual championships to be determined simultaneously. The team crown, won a year ago by Snead and Ben Hogan in Surrey, England, is decided on the aggregate scores of the two players representing each country.

Only seven players in the star-studded field of 60 professionals from 30 nations managed to beat Kasumigaseki's par. Besides Snead, Nakamura and Demaret, par-wreckers included four who fired 71s. They were young Harold Henning of South Africa, Stan Leonard of Canada, Juan Querellos of Brazil and Celestino Tigot of The Philippines.

DREAMING OF SPRING?—He should be, even though he's trying to catch up on freshman studies at Southern Illinois university. He is Catcher Bob Taylor, signed by the Milwaukee Braves for a reported $100,000-plus after his graduation from Metropolis High School last June. He enrolled at Southern Illinois shortly after the World Series.

Schoolboys In Big Tests

HARRISBURG, Oct. 24 (AP)—Although the flu casts a pall over scholastic football prospects for the weekend, a number of prime games have been slated east and west that could count in pennant races.

In the Southern Division of the vast Eastern Conference, high-flying Shamokin squares off against Berwick. The other top-rated team in the division—Mount Carmel — was knocekd off by Coal Twp. early in the week in a game rescheduled because of flu. The outcome was a major upset for the Townshippers, since they had been sliding since early in the campaign.

Northern

In the Northern Divisions a first rate contest—if not flu-hit—pairs Old Forge and Scranton Central, two of the top teams of the area. The game is a tossup. Old Forge is undefeated, while Central has lost only to outside competition. Central has defeated among others, West Scranton.

In the Suburban One League Lower Merion returns to action against Upper Darby in an attempt to recapture the loop crown it won last year. Its only loss has been to Norristown, which is paired off with Haverford.

Duplicates Ace

PONCA CITY, Okla. (AP)— Bob McCartney, Ponca City junior high school basketball coach, believes he's doing better hitting the cup than the net. He scored his second hole-in-one in a year—and both on the same 14th hole. It is a 118-yard, per three-hole.

Can't Win For Winning

North Carolina State, Auburn, And UCLA Banned From Participating In Bowl Games

NEW YORK, Oct. 24 (AP)—The National Collegiate Athletic Assn. (NCAA) enforcement program, which has touched 41 colleges since it was inaugurated in 1952, has sharply curtailed the list of possible football bowl teams this season.

At least three possible candidates — North Carolina State, Auburn and UCLA — are on probation and banned from bowl games and post-season and championship competition in all sports. And there may be others before Jan. 1 rolls around. The NCAA still has 29 cases in its files and some more big schools could be slapped down.

Stiff Penalty

North Carolina State, which could win the Atlantic Coast Conference championship if it gets past Duke Saturday, drew one of the stiffest penalties ever handed out by the NCAA for a basketball recruiting violation last year. The Wolfpack, with its best team since the ACC was organized, thus loses its chance to get the Orange Bowl bid in the final year of the pact between the conference and the bowl.

N.C. State not only was placed on probation for a four-year period, which won't end until November 1960, but was barred from NCAA championships and post-season games. It also was deprived of the privilege of appearing on the national football television program and of voting on NCAA affairs.

Similar but slightly lighter penalties were handed out to Auburn, unbeaten co-leader of the Southeastern Conference, and UCLA, which became a strong contender in the Pacific Coast Conference by upsetting Oregon State last Saturday.

The SEC champion almost invariably gets a bowl bid and sometimes the runner-up also is invited. The Rose Bowl spot ordinarily goes to the PCC champion.

Also Barred

Also barred from bowl games and similar activities are Florida, Southern California, Washington, and Montana State, whose records indicate they wouldn't be considered anyway. The latest schools to feel the touch of NCAA penalties, West Virginia and Indiana, aren't contenders either, though they weren't barred from the bowls.

Ohio State, back in a contending spot in the Big Ten, recently was removed from probation. Oklahoma and Texas A&M, completed their terms earlier this year.

American Loop Attendance Jumps 4 Percent In 1957

CHICAGO, Oct. 24 (AP) — American League attendance this baseball season jumped almost four per cent over last year and, for the seventh time in the past decade, reached over the eight million mark.

Total home attendance for the eight league clubs was 8,196,218, compared with 7,893,683 last year, AL publicitor Earl Hilligan disclosed today. That represented an increase of 302,535 or 3.8 per cent.

Although the champion New York Yankees led all clubs with attendance of 1,497,134, the runner up Chicago White Sox turned in the biggest increase over the previous year, 135,578, with a fourth-place total of 1,135,668. The Yankees increased 5,350 over last year.

Second in total attendance were the Detroit Tigers with 1,272,346, followed by the Boston Red Sox with 1,181,087. The Tigers picked up 221,164 this year and the Red Sox increased 47,929.

Fifth behind the White Sox were the Baltimore Orioles, who climbed 128,380 to a total of 1,029,581.

Of the three clubs which finished under the one million mark, only the last place Washington Senators had an increase over the previous year. Washington had 25,432 more patrons, but still wound up with a tail-end total of 457,079.

The Kansas City A's slipped 114,087 to 901,067, while the disappointing Cleveland Indians dropped 143,211 to 722,256.

Robinson, Boyd Join .300 Group

By SHELDON SAKOWITZ

NEW YORK, Oct. 24 (AP) — Frank Robinson of Cincinnati and Bob Boyd of Baltimore joined the select ranks of batters whose major league lifetime averages are .300 or better, as a result of their 1957 performances.

Statistics compiled by The Associated Press disclosed today that 18 active players boast a career acerage of .300 or over, two less than there were at the end of the 1956 season. Records are based on players who have participated in at least 300 games.

Robinson and Boyd became the only new additions. The Redlegs' outfielder hit .322 to boost his lifetime mark from .299 to .307. Boyd's career average went from .284 to .301. The Orioles' first baseman batted .318 last season.

Dropout

Three National League players dropped out of the elite category and Jackie Robinson retired from baseball prior to the 1957 campaign with a .311 career average.

Those who dipped below the .300 circle were San Francisco's Don Mueller (.302 to .298), Cincinnati's Smoky Burgess (.301 to .299) and Pittsburgh's Bill Virdon (.301 to .284). In 1957 Mueller batted .258, Burgess, .283 and Virdon, .251.

A trio of National leaguers increased their .300 plus career percentages and moved up in the listings. Hank Aaron of Milwaukee displaced Philadelphia's Richie Ashburn as runner-up to Musial, .313 to .312. Aaron hit .322 in 1957 and his lifetime average rose three points. Ashburn's career figure fell off one point after a .297 season average.

Also Gained

The others to show a gain were Willie Mays of San Francisco and Carl Furillo of Los Angeles. Mays soared from .306 to .311 as a result of his .333 season performance and Furillo batted .307, his career mark rising one point to .301.

Mickey Mantle of the New York Yankees was the only member of the American League select circle to display an improvement on his lifetime figures. The switch-hitting outfielder, in advancing to third just one point behind teammate Bill Skowron, produced a .365 average in 1957. This output lifted his lifetime percentage from .308 to .313.

Skowron, second-ranked to Williams, suffered a five-point decline as his average fell from .319 to .314. He hit .304 for the season.

Bowling Clinic

By BILLY SIXTY

Let the Ball Drop Naturally

FORMER match champion Connie Schwoegler offers a key check point for beginners, average bowlers—and topflighters.

"It's at the top of the backswing that trouble begins," he says. "That's where timing is lost because that's where you force the ball. You over-power it, instead of letting it drop naturally of its own weight into the same groove in which it swung back."

The sketch shows what Schwoegler means, and what really adds up to either a smooth swing, in the groove to a long, free, controlled release of the ball, or one that ends with a quick jerk, with no direction.

Allow Ball

Allow the ball to drop of its own weight and the arm will swing effortlessly in a straight line to the finish, with no pressure on the hand or the fingers.

More than that, you'll keep your footwork straight in line. And of course the ball will swing into a low arc; so that, at release, the arm can be lifted up smoothly. That is when the fingers, coming out of the holes after the thumb is out, apply hook spin without exertion. No quick turn of the wrist.

Unknown Gets Big Chance In Garden Bout With Busso

NEW YORK, Oct. 24 (AP)—Gale Kerwin, a sub for a sub, gets his big chance in Madison Square Garden tomorrow night when he meets Johnny Busso, ninth-ranking lightweight contender, in a national television 10-rounder.

"I intend to make the most of the opportunity," said Kerwin, a rangy, 22-year-old Canadian now living in Valley Stream, N.Y. "This is something I've been dreaming about for a long time."

Kerwin, a 5-8, 140-pounder, was elevated from the semifinal to the main event when Paolo Rosi and then Ernie "Sonny Boy" Williams of Washington, D.C. were stricken with the Asian flu. Williams became ill the day after he was chosen to replace Rosi, fifth ranking lightweight from Italy and New York.

13-5 Underdog

Although Kerwin is inspired and full of hope, bookmakers made the 23-year-old Busso the 13-5 favorite.

The New Yorker, about the same size as Kerwin, is an aggressive fighter with more experience than his rival. A pro five years, Busso has a 30-5-1 record, including 14 knockouts. In his last two starts he whipped Larry Boardman at Boston, June 28, and dropped a 10-round decision to third-ranking Ralph Dupas in New Orleans, Aug. 30.

Kerwin's record is 24-4-1, including six knockouts.

The feature bout will be broadcast and telecast by NBC at 9 p.m. EST.

BILL Bailey, one of Stroudsburg High's athletic stars of not too long ago, is continuing his football career in great style on the service front.

Bill is a regular halfback on the U. S. Naval eleven at Newport, R. I., and has helped his team go undefeated in five straight contests.

Bailey, a fireman in the Navy, entered the service Jan. 27, 1955.

The Pennsylvania Teachers Football Conference is faced with the problem of naming a champion this year that may not have had the required four games played.

Hit by the wave of flu, the PFTC finds itself in the unusual position of getting this type winner because of cancellations which have hit four teams in the circuit.

No provisions in the loops constitution and by-laws were made about cancellations due to an unusual situation such as the illness epidemic.

The question of claiming these cancellations as forfeit wins has arisen, asserting that the team who requests the cancellation be given a loss and the other school involved in the calloff, a win.

Conference president Waldo Tippin of Clarion STC, said the matter will be discussed and resolved at the next meeting of the organization—Nov. 24-25 at Harrisburg.

This session will be held after the circuit completes its regular schedule of games.

From here it looks like the naming of a champ is out for this season. However, this loop has pulled the unexpected before, and is capable again.

A local golfer is being boosted for the position of head professional at Glen Brook Country Club... Persons in the know claim that all is needed is the local linksman to give his okay. His initials might be JK.

BOWLING TIDBITS — Daily Record of the Industrial League holds the season high mark for single and three-game series. The Newsboys hammered out a 972 and a 2728 to take top honors for the year in the circuit.

By winning, The Record stayed in a first place knot with Stroudsburg Garage. Russ Dennis, Jr.'s 200 and 201 which generated a 586 led the Greasemen back into the stalemate.

Biggest gains in averages, aside from Oscar Stuckey's seven point rise to 190, were produced by Dennis, Jr., 169 to 173; Kenny Barnes, 167 to 171; W. Buenzli, 158 to 163; and Harold Stetler and Ted Cramer 152 to 157 and 150 to 155 respectively.

Jim Harmon, Sr. held onto the average lead in the Commercial "B" League with a 185. He holds an eight-point edge over Russ Dennis, Jr., who owns a 177 norm. Tom Sommers, who had a 604 last week, moved into sixth place.

Ralph Van Why's 638 match enabled him to take over the lead in the Monroe Classic in the average chase with 187. He is followed by Frank Laise and Tom Sommers with 183 each.

Angelo P. DeSanto garnered himself a 659 series to lead the keglers in the Monroe Couty League this past week. Angelo put together games of 204, 222 and 233 for his top score. The 233 and 659 are high for the loop for the year.

Cavaliers Put Unbeaten Log On Line In 8 P.M. Contest

AN ELEVEN which has powered is way past four straight opponents will be unbeaten East Stroudsburg High's foe today when the Cavaliers host Wilson Borough at Memorial Stadium. Game time is 8 p.m.

The Warriors, generated by three-fearsome threesome—backs Bobby Kline, Harold Helm and Ron Heinrich — have punched over 26 points or more in four straight outings since dropping their season opener to highly-touted Easton.

Eastburg's forces, coached by Jack Kist also have a trio of runners who in swift "jet pets," Carl (Corky) Smith, Roger Ray and Phil Simon.

Both squads are led by two adept quarterbacks on each side. Eastburg will feature Bob Herman and Charley Lupin, while Wilson signal-callers are Bobby Barr and Denny Elliot.

The contest shapes up as an offensive duel. However, the play of the lines of both teams has been superlative in the early goings.

Kist's proteges ended drills yesterday with a light signal workout. The Warriors of Jud Hall spent the day going over the Cavaliers offense and improving timing on their short punt and "T" plays.

Probable Starters

Kist announced last night thaat he will probably send Bob Stine (if sufficiently recovered from an ankle sprain) and Wes Werkheiser to the endposts. However, if Stine is sidelined Ray Uhl will take over the flank spot.

At tackles will be Doug Smith and Foster Ladlee, while Co-Captain Horace Cole and Denny Patti (also doubtful because of illness) or Larry Stettler. Tom Long will occupy the center berth.

The backfield will be either Lupin or Herman at quarterback; Co-Captain Ray and Simon or Smith at halves; and Don Miller or Smith at fullback. Miller will be a last minute switch, providing his injured knee is capable of standing up in game competition.

Wilson Lineup

Wilson will probably counter with Dick Young and Ron Haag, ends; Carl Berger and Jay Brotzman, tackles; Barry Walters and Dale Murray, guards; and Jim Smith, center.

Wilson's backfield will have Barr, Kline, Helm and Heinrich.

Sophomores Lead Clemson To Upset Win

COLUMBIA, S. C., Oct. 24 (AP)—Clemson's sophomore-studded second unit, led by quarterback Harvey White, blasted South Carlina for two touchdowns and an upset 13-0 win here today.

The unexpected Atlantic Coast Conference victory before a record "Big Thursday" crowd of 44,500 in the teams' 55th State Fair meeting also featured top defensive work by Clemson's first string unit, headed by end Ray Masneri.

Leads March

White ran for 21, passed to halfback Bill Mathis for 28 and caught halfback Sonny Quesenberry with a 15-yard touchdown throw in an 86-yard march just before the half ended.

White & Co., on the move again at the end of the third period, rolled 71 yards to score in four plays. The big play was White's 60-yard pass to end Whitey Jordan. Jordan caught the ball on the 15 but dropped it at the 1 as both he and the ball went out of bounds. Fullback Rudy Hayes popped it over on the next play. White converted.

ABC Aides To Vote On Proposals

MILWAUKEE, Oct. 24 (AP) — Delegates to the American Bowling Congress' annual convention in Syracuse, N.Y., next spring will vote on two proposals to change the format of the 55-year-old ABC Tournament, it was announced today.

An eight-man tournament committee heard the proposals here Sunday at a special meeting of 37 ABC representatives from throughout the nation. It will report its findings to the ABC Board of Directors and the convention during the week of April 20.

Establish

One proposal, suggested by John Sabo of Detroit, would establish a booster doubles and singles division to correspond with the present booster team division for teams with an 850 average or less.

The second, advanced by Fred Thoma Jr., of Peoria, Ill., would establish three classes in the tournament based on averages of entrants.

At present bowlers are divided into two team categories, open and booster, with doubles, singles and all-events on an optional one class basis.

Diddel, Platt Senior Finalists

PINEHURST, N. C., Oct. 24 (AP)—William H. Diddel, 73-year-old Carmel, Ind., golfer today scored a 1-up victory to gain tomorrow's semifinal round of the North and South Seniors golf championship.

Diddel defeated Benjamin F. Kraffard Jr. of Titusville, Pa., and tomorrow will play J. Wood Platt of Philadelphia, who today defeated Frank Ross of West Hartford, Conn., 4 and 2.

Wagner To Play Grove City

NEW YORK, Oct. 24 (AP)—Wagner of New York and Grove City, Pa. a couple of teams that had lost football opponents for Saturday because of the flu, today agreed to meet each other at Wagner.

Rough Easy To Find

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — After playing an inspection round at Minikahda course for the recent Walker Cup matches, Capt. Gerald Micklem of the British team was asked how he found the rough. "I find it very easily," Micklem answered wryly. "My troubles start when I try to get out."

Legion Auxiliary To Bowl Today

LEGION Auxiliary League will bowl today at the American Legion alleys, East Stroudsburg, starting at 7 and 9 p.m. The schedule:

7 p.m.—Alleys one and two —Musketeers vs. Four Squares; alleys three and four—Comets vs. Doozles.

9 p.m.—Alleys three and four —Ten Pins vs. Pin Pals.

Way To Look At It

ANNAPOLIS, Md., (AP)—Coach Eddie Erdelatz was straining to appear philosophical about his Navy football team's upset defeat by North Carolina. "You know," he mused, "there are millions of Chinese who don't know we lost. In fact, they didn't even know we were playing."

Panama Night Racing

PANAMA CITY, Panama (AP)—Night thoroughbred racing will be held on Saturday nights at the Hipodromo Presidente Remon in January. The programs will replace the regular Saturday afternoon programs at the new $6 million plant.

'Hero' Snead, Demaret Hot In Far East

TOKYO, Friday, Oct. 25 (AP) — Golf interest, already at a feverish pitch, reached a new high today as the leading team of Sammy Snead and Jimmy Demaret teed off with the surprisingly strong Japanese runners-up in the second round of the international Canada Cup competition.

The luck of the draw paired the long driving U.S. favorites and the Japanese combination of Torakichi Nakamura and Koichi Ono in this second round "natural" before a gallery expected to reach more than 10,000.

Record Score

Snead, the hero of the Japanese fans because of his tremendous drives, fired a competitive course-record breaking 34-33-67 and Demaret equaled the mark with a 36-33—69 for a combined score of 136 in the opening round Thursday. This was five strokes better than the fine 141 total racked up by the home duo.

Nakamura, a 43-year old teaching pro, carded a 33-35—68 and Ono a 37-36—73, over the 6,895-yard, par 72 Kusumigaseki layout.

Thus the 45-year old Snead of White Sulphur Springs, W.Va., had a one stroke lead over Nakamura in the individual phase of the tournament. The unexpected battle between "long hit" Sam and the paunchy little Nakamura has stirred Tokyo as few sports events in the past.

4-Day Affair

The tournament is a 72-hole, four-day affair with the Canada Cup team and international trophy individual championships to be determined simultaneously. The team crown, won a year ago by Snead and Ben Hogan in Surrey, England, is decided on the aggregate scores of the two players representing each country.

Only seven players in the star-studded field of 60 professionals from 30 nations managed to beat Kasumigaseki's par. Besides Snead, Nakamura and Demaret, par-wreckers included four who fired 71s. They were young Harold Henning of South Africa, Stan Leonard of Canada, Juan Querellos of Brazil and Celestino Tigot of The Philippines.

He enrolled at Southern Illinois shortly after the World Series.

Schoolboys In Big Tests

HARRISBURG, Oct. 24 (AP)—Although the flu casts a pall over scholastic football prospects for the weekend, a number of prime games have been slated east and west that could count in pennant races.

In the Southern Division of the vast Eastern Conference, high-flying Shamokin squares off against Berwick. The other top-rated team in the division—Mount Carmel — was knocked off by Coal Twp. early in the week in a game rescheduled because of flu. The outcome was a major upset for the Townshippers, since they had been sliding since early in the campaign.

Northern

In the Northern Divisions a first rate contest—if not flu-hit—pairs Old Forge and Scranton Central, two of the top teams of the area. The game is a tossup. Old Forge is undefeated, while Central has lost only to outside competition. Central has defeated among others, West Scranton.

In the Suburban One League Lower Merion returns to action against Upper Darby in an attempt to recapture the loop crown it won last year. Its only loss has been to Norristown, which is paired off with Haverford.

PONCA CITY, Okla. (AP) — Bob McCartney, Ponca City junior high school basketball coach, believes he's doing better hitting the cup than the net. He scored his second hole-in-one in a year—and both on the same 14th hole. It is a 118-yard, per three-hole.

Can't Win For Winning

North Carolina State, Auburn, And UCLA Banned From Participating In Bowl Games

NEW YORK, Oct. 24 (AP)—The National Collegiate Athletic Assn. (NCAA) enforcement program, which has touched 41 colleges since it was inaugurated in 1952, has sharply curtailed the list of possible football bowl teams this season.

At least three possible candidates — North Carolina State, Auburn and UCLA — are on probation and banned from bowl games and post-season and championship competition in all sports. And there may be others before Jan. 1 rolls around. The NCAA still has 29 cases in its files and some more big schools could be slapped down.

Stiff Penalty

North Carolina State, which could win the Atlantic Coast Conference championship if it gets past Duke Saturday, drew one of the stiffest penalties ever handed out by the NCAA for a basketball recruiting violation last year. The Wolfpack, with its best team since the ACC was organized, thus loses its chance to get the Orange Bowl bid in the final year of the pact between the conference and the bowl.

N.C. State not only was placed on probation for a four-year period, which won't end until November 1960, but was barred from NCAA championships and post-season games. It also was deprived of the privilege of appearing on the national football television program and of voting on NCAA affairs.

Similar but slightly lighter penalties were handed out to Auburn, unbeaten co-leader of the Southeastern Conference, and UCLA, which became a strong contender in the Pacific Coast Conference by upsetting Oregon State last Saturday.

The SEC champion almost invariably gets a bowl bid and sometimes the runner-up also is invited. The Rose Bowl spot ordinarily goes to the PCC champion.

Also Barred

Also barred from bowl games and similar activities are Florida, Southern California, Washington, and Montana State, whose records indicate they wouldn't be considered anyway. The latest schools to feel the touch of NCAA penalties, West Virginia and Indiana, aren't contenders either, though they weren't barred from the bowls.

Ohio State, back in a contending spot in the Big Ten, recently was removed from probation. Oklahoma and Texas A&M, completed their terms earlier this year.

American Loop Attendance Jumps 4 Percent In 1957

CHICAGO, Oct. 24 (AP) — American League attendance this baseball season jumped almost four per cent over last year and, for the seventh time in the past decade, reached over the eight million mark.

Total home attendance for the eight league clubs was 8,196,218, compared with 7,893,683 last year, AL publicitor Earl Hilligan disclosed today. That represented an increase of 302,535 or 3.8 per cent.

Although the champion New York Yankees led all clubs with attendance of 1,497,134, the runner up Chicago White Sox turned in the biggest increase over the previous year, 135,578, with a fourth-place total of 1,135,668. The Yankees increased 5,350 over last year.

Second in total attendance were the Detroit Tigers with 1,272,346, followed by the Boston Red Sox with 1,181,087. The Tigers picked up 221,164 this year and the Red Sox increased 47,929.

Fifth behind the White Sox were the Baltimore Orioles, who climbed 128,380 to a total of 1,029,581.

Of the three clubs which finished under the one million mark, only the last place Washington Senators had an increase over the previous year. Washington had 25,432 more patrons, but still wound up with a tail-end total of 457,079.

The Kansas City A's slipped 114,087 to 901,067, while the disappointing Cleveland Indians dropped 143,211 to 722,256.

Robinson, Boyd Join .300 Group

By SHELDON SAKOWITZ

NEW YORK, Oct. 24 (AP) — Frank Robinson of Cincinnati and Bob Boyd of Baltimore joined the select ranks of batters whose major league lifetime averages are .300 or better, as a result of their 1957 performances.

Statistics compiled by The Associated Press disclosed today that 18 active players boast a career acerage of .300 or over, two less than there were at the end of the 1956 season. Records are based on players who have participated in at least 300 games.

Robinson and Boyd became the only new additions. The Redlegs' outfielder hit .322 to boost his lifetime mark from .290 to .307. Boyd's career average went from .284 to .301. The Orioles' first baseman batted .318 last season.

Dropout

Three National League players dropped out of the elite category and Jackie Robinson retired from baseball prior to the 1957 campaign with a .311 career average.

Those who dipped below the .300 circle were San Francisco's Don Mueller (.302 to .298), Cincinnati's Smoky Burgess (.301 to .299) and Pittsburgh's Bill Virdon (.301 to .284). In 1957 Mueller batted .258, Burgess, .283 and Virdon, .251.

Ten American League batsmen possess .300 or better lifetime averages, topped by Boston's Ted Williams. The Thumper, in winning his fifth hitting crown with a .388 average, raised his lifetime mark from .348 to .350.

A trio of National leaguers increased their .300 plus career percentages and moved up in the listings. Hank Aaron of Milwaukee displaced Philadelphia's Richie Ashburn as runner-up to Musial, .313 to .312. Aaron hit .322 in 1957 and his lifetime average rose three points. Ashburn's career figure fell off one point after a .297 season average.

Also Gained

The others to show a gain were Willie Mays of San Francisco and Carl Furillo of Los Angeles. Mays soared from .306 to .311 as a result of his .333 season performance and Furillo batted .307, his career mark rising one point to .301.

Mickey Mantle of the New York Yankees was the only member of the American League select circle to display an improvement on his lifetime figures. The switch-hitting outfielder, in advancing to third just one point behind teammate Bill Skowron, produced a .365 average in 1957. This output lifted his lifetime percentage from .308 to .313.

Skowron, second-ranked to Williams, suffered a five-point decline as his average fell from .319 to .314. He hit .304 for the season.

Bowling Clinic

Let the Ball Drop Naturally

FORMER match champion Connie Schwoegler offers a key check point for beginners, average bowlers—and topflighters.

"It's at the top of the backswing that trouble begins," he says. "That's where timing is lost because that's where you force the ball. You over-power it, instead of letting it drop naturally of its own weight into the same groove in which it swung back."

The sketch shows what Schwoegler means, and what really adds up to either a smooth swing, in the groove to a long, free, controlled release of the ball, or one that ends with a quick jerk, with no direction.

Allow Ball

Allow the ball to drop of its own weight and the arm will swing effortlessly in a straight line to the finish, with no pressure on the hand or the fingers.

More than that, you'll keep your footwork straight in line. And of course the ball will swing into a low arc; so that, at release, the arm can be lifted up smoothly. That is when the fingers, coming out of the holes after the thumb is out, apply hook spin without exertion. No quick turn of the wrist.

Unknown Gets Big Chance In Garden Bout With Busso

NEW YORK, Oct. 24 (AP)—Gale Kerwin, a sub for a sub, gets his big chance in Madison Square Garden tomorrow night when he meets Johnny Busso, ninth-ranking lightweight contender, in a national television 10-rounder.

"I intend to make the most of the opportunity," said Kerwin, a rangy, 22-year-old Canadian now living in Valley Stream, N.Y. "This is something I've been dreaming about for a long time."

Kerwin, a 5-8, 140-pounder, was elevated from the semifinal to the main event when Paolo Rosi and then Ernie "Sonny Boy" Williams of Washington, D.C. were stricken with the Asian flu. Williams became ill the day after he was chosen to replace Rosi, fifth ranking lightweight from Italy and New York.

13-5 Underdog

Although Kerwin is inspired and full of hope, bookmakers made the 23-year-old Busso the 13-5 favorite.

The New Yorker, about the same size as Kerwin, is an aggressive fighter with more experience than his rival. A pro five years, Busso has a 30-5-1 record, including 14 knockouts. In his last two starts he whipped Larry Boardman at Boston, June 28, and dropped a 10-round decision to third-ranking Ralph Dupas in New Orleans, Aug. 30.

Kerwin's record is 24-4-1, including six knockouts.

The feature bout will be broadcast and telecast by NBC at 9 p.m. EST.

J. S. Operation Vanguard To Answer Reds' Sputnik

By WILLIAM B. HARWOOD

BALTIMORE, Oct. 24 (AP)—Globe-ndling Sputnik may cross orbit ortly with an American satellite ot the gold-plated, instrument-iffed moon of Operation Van-ard but a modest sphere with radio voice.

The full U.S. answer to Russia's neering satellite is not expected swing aloft until March, equipped for a serious chore of scientific space exploration.

But the government says that come December, testing of the three-stage Vanguard launching rocket will have reached the point where any of four experimental vehicles could pop a pint-sized sphere into the cold frontier currently pre-empted by the Soviet space travelers—Sputnik and its companion rocket.

Because of this possibility, each of the four test rockets will carry tiny, 6½-inch balls furnished with radio transmitters. Should one, or all, achieve orbital speed and altitude, scientists around the world would be able to track them by radio.

First Of Sex

The March firing, however, will be the first of six fully instrumented satellites the U.S. plans to launch before the end of the International Geophysical Year, Dec. 31, 1958. Each will be a 20-inch sphere, about the same size as Sputnik, but weighing only 21½ pounds, less than a ninth of Sputnik's announced weight.

Before the March shots, final step-by-step tests must be completed on the intricate giant rocket designed to carry the satellite 200 to 1,400 miles into space.

This has been the progress of Project Vanguard:

TVO — Test vehicle zero, fired last Dec. 8, was a single-stage test using a Martin Viking rocket. Fired from Cape Canaveral, Fla., it rose vertically a short distance, then was turned slowly toward the horizontal and guided out over the Atlantic Ocean, TVO, designed to test equipment and instruments, reached a peak velocity of 4,000 m.p.h. and a peak altitude of 125 miles before plunging into the ocean about 180 miles from the launching point.

TV1—Test Vehicle 2, successfully fired yesterday to an altitude of 109 miles and a peak speed of 4,250 m.p.h., was the first with the external appearance of the final launching vehicle. But except for some test instruments, the second and third stages were dummies. The main purpose of TV2 was to test the first-stage engine under actual flight conditions, to avaluate performance o some of the other Vanguard instrumentation and to allow aerodynamic and structural studies.

11 Tons

A spokesman described TV2 as an "extremely successful test." This apparently was a modest appraisal. Yesterday's test vehicle, weighed 22,600 pounds, approximately the planned weight for the completed vehicle, yet it soared 69 miles higher than the 35-40 mile altitude range planned for the actual first stage and topped the planned speed of the actual vehicle by 500 m.p.h.

Next on the agenda are the four test shots, TV3 through TV6, which the government says are scheduled to begin in December. Any of these rockets could propel the 4-pound aluminum sphere it will carry into an orbit.

FRIDAY, OCT. 25, 1957

March 21 to April 20 (Aries)—ou may be given to sudden en-usiasm, very expressive actions e. Think things out before unging into the execution of ans. Be sure too, that you finish th the same vigor with which u start.

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus)—our qualifications for success are any. But you must cultivate em to reap lasting gain. Remem-r this today. Train your eye on e given goal. Then strive for it eadily, and without distraction.

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini)—void tendencies toward vacilla-on now. Singleness of purpose nd continuity of effort will be ecessary. Don't be too easily swayed by the opinions of others.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer)—lays similar to those of Gemini ow. Discriminate between the seless and the essential. Time ost on trivialities can not be re-rained. Be patient when the go-ng gets rough.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo)—Be areful lest you repeat past mis-akes or attempt something foolish. Screen plans carefully. Your per-onal charm and pleasing person-lity are standbys.

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo)—Be cautious in invest-ments, purchases, and financial venture. Day calls for careful an-alysis, foresight, direct action. Us-ing your talents well, success can crown efforts happily.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra)—Don't fall into repetitions; they are tiresome, ineffective. Though you of this Sign usually possess a sound constitution, do not abuse or strain it now. Good humor important.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio)—Consider your long range program and your day-to-day ap-proach toward it. Will a slight re-vision in activities enhance prog-ress? You have tremendous pow-ers but must use them correctly—EVERY day.

November 23 to December 21 (Sagittarius)—Like Scorpio, look hopefully to the future. Therein lies great progress. The manner in which you apply yourself will tell the story. Avoid a tendency to brusqueness, lack of tact; be dip-lomatic.

December 22 to January 20 (Capricorn)—A quest for knowledge will improve your outlook, general ability. A well-read person is al-ways in demand. Don't let fear or doubt hold back honest, intelli-gent progress.

January 21 to February 19 (Aquarius)—If you would enjoy life more, get busier searching out your more interesting associates, books, things to do, etc. A grand time for achievement.

February 20 to March 20 (Pisces)—Fine aspects for gaining ground in both established and new mat-ters, for study, advancement in scientific and intelligent subjects, for humanitarianism, charities.

YOU BORN TODAY are of Scor-pio, with some strong traits car-ried over from the rapidly waning Libra. The tremendous determina-tion and energy of Scorpio can often be developed more quickly by those born on this date. You are characterized by fair judgment and a broad viewpoint. Don't place too much value upon the approbation of others; maintain your high principles regardless of odds. You are a strong leader when you take up the challenge, so be careful of how you use your influence. Birth-date of: Thos. (Baron) Macaulay, essayist-statesman; Geo. Bizet, Fr. composer.

SHERIFF'S SALE Of Valuable REAL ESTATE

By virtue of a writ of Fieri Fa-cias issued out of the Court of Common Pleas of Monroe County, Pennsylvania, to No. 7 December Term 1957, Sur Judgment No. 93 September Term 1957, I, Jacob F. Altemose, Sheriff of Monroe County, will expose to sale at public vendue or outcry in the main hall of the Court House at Stroudsburg, Mon-roe County, Pennsylvania, on:

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 16, 1957, at 10:00 o'clock A. M., E. S. T.

ALL, that certain tract or piece of land situate partly in the Town-ship of Smithfield and partly in the Borough of Delaware Water Gap, Monroe County, Pennsylvania, bounded and described as follows, to wit:—

BEGINNING at an oak tree be-ing also a corner of lands hereto-fore sold and conveyed by Morris Staples to Robert Foley (now prop-erty of Wolf Hollow Country Club); thence along said land of Wolf Hol-low Country Club, bearings from Magnetic Meridian of 1923, South two and one-half degrees West two hundred eighty six feet to an iron pin claimed by Staples as his cor-ner; thence by land of J. Purdy Cope Hotels Company North fifty two and one-half degrees East two hundred feet to a stake and stones, from which a marked forked apple tree bears North twenty nine and three quarter degrees East twenty eight feet; thence by other lands of said Staples, of which this lot was formerly a part, North three-quar-ters of a degree West one hundred ninety nine feet to a stone corner; thence still by the same North forty three and one-half degrees East two hundred twenty two and one-half feet to a stone corner; thence still by the same North thirty four degrees East four hundred thirty nine feet to a stone corner; thence by other lands of said Cluo South forty four degrees West eight hun-dred seventy seven feet to the place of BEGINNING, CONTAINING one acre and one hundred forty four perches, more or less.

BEING the same premises which Morris E. Staples and wife by their deed dated August 18, 1923, recorded in the office for the Recording of Deeds, &c., at Stroudsburg, in and for the County of Monroe, in Deed Book Vol. 92, Page 88, conveyed unto Margie A. Elliott and BEING ALSO the same premises which Margie A. Elliott by her deed dated July 29, 1924, recorded in the afore-said office in Deed Book Vol. 92, Page 108, conveyed unto the Wolf Hollow Country Club.

And the said Morris E. Staples excepts and reserves, however, out of and from this conveyance and in and on the premises above de-scribed and conveyed to himself, his heirs, executors, administrators and assigns:

1. All the water and water privi-leges of the stream flowing through said premises, together with the privilege of diverting, taking and using all or so much of said water as he or they may desire.

2. The right and privilege of building, constructing, placing and forever maintaining in said stream a ram or other apparatus or appli-ance for pumping and removing the water from said stream and of con-structing and forever maintaining on the said stream a house or shel-ter over said pumping outfit.

3. The right and privilege of laying, repairing, renewing, relay-ing and forever maintaining pipe lines for the purpose of carrying and conducting water from said stream through, in, over and across the premises hereby conveyed or any part thereof to such place or places as he or they may desire.

4. The right and privilege of free ingress, egress and regress, in, over, along and across, and upon the premises hereby conveyed or any part thereof, with horses, convey-ances, contractors, agents, servants and workmen for the purpose of carrying out and making effective any or all of the restrictions herein contained, providing that no un-necessary damage shall be done; that the surface of the ground shall be left in good condition and that he or they shall be responsible for all damages to growing crops.

This conveyance is upon the fur-ther express condition that the said Wolf Hollow Country Club shall erect a fence upon the course or courses between the land herein-above described and the remaining lands of Morris E. Staples where the same are contigious, but the expense of maintaining said fence thereafter shall be equally borne by the said Club and Morris E. Staples, their heirs and assigns.

The improvements thereon con-sist of a Brick Building, 3 story, with 41 rooms, 210 ft. x 45 ft., with porch 8 ft. x 66 ft., Shingled roof, no heat.

Seized and taken into execution as the property of Wolf Hollow Country Club and to be sold by me for cash.

JACOB F. ALTEMOSE,
Sheriff of Monroe County,
Pennsylvania.

Biologist To Speak At Church

A NATIONALLY-known biologist who headed an extensive research journey up Brazil's Amazon River will speak in Stroudsburg Nov. 2.

Lester E. Harris Jr., head of the biology department at Washington Missionary College in Washington, D. C., will appear in the auditorium of the Seventh Day Adventist School on Route 209 (W. Main St.) outside Stroudsburg.

His lecture comes complete with an hour-long motion picture filmed during his party's trek up the Amazon. The research trip was made in Summer, 1955.

Harris, who is now 35, headed a research party which included two younger male scientists and a pre-med girl student who served as secretary and plant collector.

The four brought back thousands of samples of plant and animal life from the Amazon area. All the samples are now housed either at their school or at other science institutions in the Washington area.

The Saturday, Nov. 2 meeting at the local Seventh Day Adventist School will be open to the public. Everyone is invited to attend, a program spokesman said last night.

RAINING PENNIES?

No—But . . . Pennies are a help on that "Rainy Day."

We wonder how many people, when they dump the change out of their pockets and purses at the end of the day, pick out the pennies and put them in a jar, a glass, a box or a Piggy Bank of some kind.

If YOU don't do this, we suggest that it's a good idea. Dollars are made out of pennies and dollars are a help on a "Rainy Day."

As evidence that penny saving has been practiced for years and years we have on display in our windows a collection of antique penny banks—one of the finest collections in the country, loaned to us by the Easton National Bank.
Stop and look at these old banks . . . then come in . . . open a savings account and get one of our modern savings banks
